LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 3,

Whitehall, January 2, 1862.

THE following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful Subjects, the Vice-Presidents and Members of Council of the Royal Horticultural Society, humbly approach your Majesty in your deep affliction, trusting that our profound respect for the memory of His Royal Highness, our late lamented President, and our loyal devotion to your Majesty, may entitle us to offer our tribute of condolence and sympathy.

While, in common with our fellow-subjects, we grieve the loss of His Royal Highness to the nation, and as the Consort of your Majesty, and while with others we respected and admired his character, the kindly courtesy which marked his intercourse with the Royal Horticultural Society had generated amongst us feelings of personal attachment, which are now followed by deep and heartfelt sorrow for his loss.

In our late President we have to mourn one who, when the Society which we represent was on the point of extinction, raised, revived, and guided it through difficulties, which he alone would have enabled it to surmount ; and it is with the deepest gratitude that we acknowledge our obligation to His late Royal Highness for assistance given at a period when he must have been convinced that laborious personal exertion on his part could alone restore this Society to prosperity.

Although the present condition of the Society is such, that the Gardens at South Kensington constitute a worthy monument of the genius and skill of our late President, we cannot but perceive that our work is not yet finished ; that, while great difficulties have been overcome, much remains to be accomplished, and that we have to lament the loss of our President at a moment when his directing mind and fostering care are doubly necessary.

We humbly assure your Majesty, that it will be our unceasing endeavour to complete the various unfinished designs of our late lamented President, and that we feel that, by executing them with fidelity, we shall best testify the profound respect we entertain for his memory.

Whilst we bow submissively to the Divine will, we earnestly pray that He who has smitten may also heal, and that your Majesty may experience in this hour of bitter trial the fulness of those consolations which the Comforter alone can give.

By order of the Council. Sealed with the Seal of the Royal Horticultural Society, this 31st day of December, 1861, in the presence of

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 7,

College of Arms, January 7, 1862.

IN reference to the Order for a General Mourning for His late Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which was announced in the Gazette of the 16th of December last,

These are to give notice, that it is not expected that the Public should appear in Mourning after Sunday the 9th of February next.

EDWARD G. F. HOWARD, D.E.M.

Whitehall, January 6, 1862.

The following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the Death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Chancellor, Master, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, respectfully approach your Royal Presence, with the expression of our heartfelt condolence on the irreparable loss sustained by your Majesty and the whole British nation, in the decease of the late lamented Prince Albert, your Majesty's illustrious Consort.

In humbly tendering to your Majesty the assurance of our sympathy on this grievous and unlooked-for bereavement, we simply give utterance to the feeling at this time uppermost in the hearts of all your Majesty's faithful subjects. But when we call to mind the deep sense of religion, and the many intellectual accomplishments which distinguished the illustrious Prince thus suddenly taken from us, we cannot but feel that the Universities of this realm must be partakers in more than common measure of the general sorrow.

Blest with a vigorous understanding and highly cultivated mind, His Royal Highness had acquired a thorough knowledge of our national character, and with singular sagacity developed it in paths comparatively untrodden and unknown. But it was not the possession of these rare endowments, nor the grateful sense of the benefits resulting from them to the nation, that won for His Royal Highness the affections of the English people, it was because they beheld in the Consort of their beloved Queen the affectionate husband, the kind and watchful father, the wise and trusty adviser of their Sovereign in every exigency of her public and her private life, they felt an ever growing admiration of his character, and paid him the willing tribute of their reverence and affection. It is, we are well assured, the influence of these considerations that imparts its present overwhelming character to the national regret, and will cause the memory of this illustrious Prince to be revered by all succeeding generations of our posterity.

We are sensible, however, that our Heavenly Father has in His mercy not left your Majesty or our country altogether comfortless under the pressure of this great affliction. We have heard with grateful feelings, of the spirit of resignation in which your Majesty bows with submission to the Divine will ; and we are not unobservant of many rays of consolation which mitigate our own sorrow, and will, we trust, tend in time to alleviate the bitter grief which now weighs so heavily upon your Majesty. We know His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to be the inheritor of the many noble qualities of his highly gifted Father ; and we are comforted by the reflection that His Royal Highness is now of an age to share with your Majesty the burden of every domestic anxiety, and to support your Majesty in the administration of the affairs of State. It will be our fervent prayer that these and all our other cheering anticipations may, by the Divine blessing, be fulfilled ; and that serenity of mind, and even happiness, may yet be the appointed lot of a mother and a Sovereign, whose virtues must ever ensure for her the warmest love of her children, and the most loyal and devoted affection of her faithful subjects.

Given at our House of Convocation under our Common Seal, this thirty-first day of December, in the year of our Lord God, 1861.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, passed in the session of Parliament, holden in the sixth and seventh years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled “ An Act to remove doubts as to the exercise of power and jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers countries and places out of Her Majesty's dominions, and to render the same more effectual,” it is amongst other things enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty to hold, exercise, and enjoy any power or jurisdiction which Her Majesty now hath, or may at any time hereafter have, within any country or place out of Her Majesty's dominions, in the same and as ample a manner as if Her Majesty had acquired such power or jurisdiction by the cession or conquest of territory.

And whereas Her Majesty hath power and jurisdiction in the islands included between the different branches of the River Danube, at its mouth, and forming, and commonly designated as the Delta of the Danube, which by the Treaty between Her Majesty, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French, His late Majesty the King of Prussia, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, His Majesty the King of Sardinia, and His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, signed at Paris, on the nineteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven, were replaced under the immediate sovereignty of the Sublime Ottoman Porte.

And whereas it is expedient to provide for the efficient exercise of the said power and jurisdiction, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, in like manner as the same have been customarily and of right exercised on behalf of Her Majesty by Her Majesty's Ambassadors, Ministers, Consuls, and other officers within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte.

And whereas by the fifteenth Article of the General Treaty of Peace between Her Majesty, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French, His late Majesty the King of Prussia, His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, His Majesty the King of Sardinia, and His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, signed at Paris, on the thirtieth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, it was provided as follows: "The Act of the Congress of Vienna having established the principles intended to regulate the navigation of rivers which separate or traverse different States, the contracting powers stipulate among themselves that those principles shall in future be equally applied to the Danube and its mouths. They declare that this arrangement henceforth forms a part of the public law of Europe, and take it under their guarantee."

"The navigation of the Danube cannot be subjected to any impediment or charge not expressly provided for by the stipulations contained in the following Articles: in consequence, there shall not be levied any toll founded solely upon the fact of the navigation of the river, nor any duty upon the goods which may be on board of vessels. The regulations of police and of quarantine to be established for the safety of the States separated or traversed by that river, shall be so framed as to facilitate as much as possible the passage of vessels. With the exception of such regulations, no obstacle whatever shall be opposed to free navigation."

"And whereas by the sixteenth Article of the said last-mentioned Treaty, it was further provided as follows: "With the view of carrying out the arrangements of the preceding Article, a Commission, in which Great Britain, Austria, France, Prussia, Russia, Sardinia, and Turkey shall each be represented by one delegate, shall be charged to designate and to cause to be executed the works necessary below Isatcha to clear the mouths of the Danube, as well as the neighbouring parts of the sea, from the sands and other impediments which obstruct them, in order to put that part of the river and the said parts of the sea in the best possible state for navigation."

"In order to cover the expenses of such works, as well as of the establishments intended to secure and to facilitate the navigation at the mouths of the Danube, fixed duties of a suitable rate settled by the Commission by a majority of votes may be levied, on the express condition that in this respect, as in every other, the flags of all the nations shall be treated on the footing of perfect equality."

And whereas, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven, by virtue of the said Articles of the said last-mentioned Treaty, a Commission was accordingly established for the purposes therein mentioned.

And whereas the said Commission, under the power and authorities given to it by the said Articles or otherwise, in and by the said last-mentioned Treaty, has, from time to time, made and promulgated certain rules, orders, and regulations, and is authorized and empowered, from time to time, to make and promulgate further and other rules, orders, and regulations as well concerning the navigation of the said River Danube, and the conduct and government of masters, seamen, and others navigating the same, as concerning the payment of duties to be levied and taken in respect of the navigation of the said river, and the enforcing of penalties for the breach of such rules, orders, and regulations respectively, or any of them.

And whereas it is expedient that power should be given to Her Majesty's Consuls, Vice-Consuls, and Consular Agents exercising jurisdiction over British subjects and Ionian within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, to enforce the rules, orders, and regulations so made and to be made by the said Commission as aforesaid.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the above-recited Act of Parliament, and in execution of the powers thereby vested in Her Majesty in Council,

Her Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared as follows :

I. All rules, orders, and regulations so made, and to be made, by the said Commission, as hereinbefore mentioned, shall, from and after the date of these presents, or from and after the making of such rules, orders, and regulations respectively, be binding and in force, and shall have the force and effect of law, upon and against all British subjects, and Ionians and other persons, subject to the jurisdiction of Her Majesty's consuls, vice-consuls, and consular agents, within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte.

II. For all the purposes mentioned in the said fifteenth and sixteenth Articles of the said Treaty, and for the purpose of enforcing, so far as Her Majesty's subjects and such other persons as aforesaid are concerned, the provisions of the said Articles ; and all rules, orders, and regulations made, or to be made, by the said Commission, under the powers and authorities given to them by the said Articles, or either of them, or otherwise in or by the said last-mentioned Treaty, and all acts, payments, matters, and things, which in and by such rules, orders, or regulations shall have been or shall be ordered under such powers or authorities as aforesaid, to be made, done, or performed, or otherwise in relation thereto, the said consuls, vice-consuls, and consular agents of Her Majesty, within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, shall, from and after the date of these presents, have, possess, and enjoy all and every the powers, jurisdiction, authorities, rights, privileges, and immunities which, in and by a certain Order in Council, bearing date the twenty-seventh day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty, are or is vested in or belongs to, are or is exer-cisable by, the Judge of the Supreme Consular Court of Constantinople, within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte. And all the clauses, Articles, and provisions of the said Order in Council, so far as the same respectively are now in force and unrepealed, and so far as the same, or any of them, are applicable to the purposes mentioned in the said fifteenth and sixteenth Articles of the said last-mentioned Treaty, or any of them, or to such rules, orders, or regulations as aforesaid, shall apply and extend to the said consuls, vice-consuls, and consular agents of Her Majesty, and to all acts, matters, and things whatsoever, done by, to, or in respect of them the said consuls, vice-consuls, and consular agents respectively, under or by virtue of these presents.

And the Right Honourable Earl Russell, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 14,
 1862.

Whitehall, January 13, 1862.

THE following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the Death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, belonging to the Colonies of Australia and New Zealand, now resident in England, assembled in public meeting in the city of London, desire to express to your Majesty our earnest and sincere sympathy and condolence under the afflicting bereavement with which Almighty God has recently visited your Majesty, your Illustrious Family, and your People.

That, independently of the deep sorrow with which, as subjects of your Majesty's Imperial Crown, we deplore the early death of so good, so great, so wise, and so useful a man as His late Royal Highness the Prince Consort, we have the melancholy duty to perform of recording our especial gratitude for, and high appreciation of, the great personal interest which His Royal Highness always manifested in the advancement and prosperity of those portions of your Majesty's dominions with which we are more immediately connected.

In conclusion, we devoutly pray that the Father of all mercies may sustain and console your Majesty in the midst of your severe affliction ; and that your Majesty may be cheered by the thought, and comforted by the knowledge, that the tears of a sorrowing empire, from the humblest cottage to the stateliest mansion in your Majesty's world-wide dominions, freely mingle with those of your Majesty and the Royal Family, in mourning the loss of a Prince whose virtuous and exemplary career has shed a lustre on your Majesty's reign, and left an impress on the nation at large of high precept and example which will descend with elevating effect on generations yet unborn.

No. 1.

Earl Russell to Lord Lyons.

Foreign Office,

MY LORD,

November 30, 1861.

INTELLIGENCE of a very grave nature has reached Her Majesty's Government.

This intelligence was conveyed officially to the knowledge of the Admiralty by Commander Williams, Agent for Mails on board the contract steamer "Trent."

It appears from the letter of Commander Williams, dated "Royal mail contract packet 'Trent' at sea, November 9," that the "Trent" left Havana on the 7th instant with Her Majesty's mails for England, having on board numerous passengers. Commander Williams states that shortly after noon on the 8th a steamer, having the appearance of a man-of-war, but not showing colours, was observed a-head. On nearing her at 1.15 P.M. she fired a round shot from her pivot-gun across the bows of the "Trent," and showed American colours. While the "Trent" was approaching her slowly, the American vessel discharged a shell across the bows of the "Trent," exploding half a cable's length a-head of her. The "Trent" then stopped, and an officer, with a large armed guard of Marines, boarded her. The officer demanded a list of the passengers, and compliance with this demand being refused, the officer said he had orders to arrest Messrs. Mason, Slidell, McFarland, and Eustis, and that he had sure information of their being passengers in the "Trent." While some parley was going on upon this matter, Mr. Slidell stepped forward and told the American officer that the four persons he had named were then standing before him. The Commander of the "Trent," and Commander Williams, protested against the act of taking by force out of the "Trent" these four passengers then under the protection of the British flag. But the "San Jacinto" was at that time only 200 yards from the "Trent," her ship's company at quarters, her ports open and tompions out.

Resistance was therefore out of the question, and the four gentlemen before named were forcibly taken out of the ship.

A further demand was made that the Commander of the "Trent" should proceed on board the "San Jacinto," but he said he would not go unless forcibly compelled likewise, and this demand was not insisted upon.

It thus appears that certain individuals have been forcibly taken from on board a British vessel, the ship of a neutral Power, while such vessel was pursuing a lawful and innocent voyage, an act of violence which was an affront to the British flag and a violation of international law.
1862. I

Her Majesty's Government, bearing in mind the friendly relations which have long subsisted between Great Britain and the United States, are willing to believe that the United States' naval officer who committed this aggression was not acting in compliance with any authority from his Government, or that if he conceived himself to be so authorized, he greatly misunderstood the instructions which he had received.

For the Government of the United States must be fully aware that the British Government could not allow such an affront to the national honour to pass without full reparation, and Her Majesty's Government are unwilling to believe that it could be the deliberate intention of the Government of the United States unnecessarily to force into discussion between the two Governments a question of so grave a character, and with regard to which the whole British nation would be sure to entertain such unanimity of feeling.

Her Majesty's Government, therefore, trust that when this matter shall have been brought under the consideration of the Government of the United States, that Government will, of its own accord, offer to the British Government such redress as alone would satisfy the British nation, namely, the liberation of the four gentlemen, and their delivery to your Lordship, in order that they may again be placed under British protection, and a suitable apology for the aggression which has been committed.

Should these terms not be offered by Mr. Seward, you will propose them to him.

You are at liberty to read this despatch to the Secretary of State, and if he shall desire it, you will give him a copy of it.

I am, &c.,

No. 2.

Earl Russell to Lord Lyons.

Foreign Office,

December 19, 1861.

MY LORD,

MR. ADAMS came to me to-day, at the Foreign Office, at 3 o'clock. He said he came to ask two questions which concerned himself personally.

I interrupted him to ask whether what he was going to say was by order of his Government, or from his own sense of what he ought to do.

Mr. Adams answered that the proceeding was entirely his own, but that he had with him a despatch from Mr. Seward which he was authorized to read to me if he should think fit to do so. It appeared, he said, from that despatch, that the Government of Washington had not authorized the capture of the two insurgents, Mason and Slidell, and that the United States' Government stood quite uncommitted at the time of sending the despatch.

I said that if the despatch did not enter into any controversy with regard to the case of Messrs. Mason and Slidell, I should be glad to hear it read.

Mr. Adams then proceeded to read the despatch. It commenced by referring with approbation to a speech made by Mr. Adams at the Mansion House, and proceeded to notice with gratification the sentiments which had been expressed by Lord Palmerston in a conversation he had held with Mr. Adams in reference to the "James Adger."

Mr. Seward then proceeds to declare that the American Government value highly the friendship of Great Britain, and lament that certain causes of difference have arisen, owing, as Mr. Seward imagines, to the want of attention on the part of the British Government to the performance of the duties incumbent on a friendly Power during the struggle in which the United States are engaged. Mr. Seward gives as instances the case of communication to the Confederate authorities by Mr. Bunch; the admission of the "Sumter," privateer, to purchase coal and provisions at Trinidad, in distinction, as he said, to the conduct of every European State; and the arrival in the Southern States of vessels laden with arms and ammunition from England.

Mr. Seward then proceeds to the case of the "Trent," from which ship the two insurgents had been taken. He affirms that no instructions were given to Captain Wilkes which authorized him to act in the manner he had done. Neither had the United States Government committed itself with regard to any decision upon the character of that act. The Government would wait for any representation the British Government might make before coming to any positive decision. He desires that if Mr. Adams shall think it desirable, this despatch shall be read to me, and also to Lord Palmerston.

In answer to Mr. Adams, I touched upon most of the points treated of in the despatch. I did not think it necessary, however, to recur to the case of Mr. Bunch.

With regard to the Confederate privateer, I said that I could not see that our conduct had been different from that of France and Holland, or of Spain. The "Sumter" had been refused coal from the Government Stores at Trinidad, but had been allowed to get coal and provisions from private merchants. The same thing had taken place at Martinique and at Curaçoa. I did not find that the rule of twenty-four hours had been observed in practice, but there would be little difficulty in coming to an agreement on this point.

In regard to the export of arms and ammunition to the Confederate States, I had lately read the opinion of the Attorney-General, and believed it was in entire conformity with the provisions of the Foreign Enlistment Act: warlike equipment of a vessel was prohibited; the loading a vessel with arms and ammunition was not prohibited. But in point of fact, a much greater amount of arms and ammunition had been sent to the Federal States, where there was no obstacle to the export or the import, than to the ports of the Confederate States which were blockaded. Mr. Adams admitted this to be the fact, and said he had refrained from pressing a more rigorous compliance with the Foreign Enlistment Act for this reason.

I then stated to Mr. Adams the substance of the two despatches I had written to Lord Lyons on the subject of the "Trent."

I told him that in a private letter I had directed Lord Lyons to talk the matter over with Mr. Seward two days before reading to him the despatch. Mr. Adams asked whether the direction to Lord Lyons to leave Washington in seven days was in the despatch to be read. I said it was not, and that in case Mr. Seward should ask what would be the consequence of a refusal on his part to comply with our conditions, Lord Lyons was to decline to answer that question, in order not to have the appearance of a threat. I said that I thought the explanation that the Government had not authorized the seizure would stand in the place of an apology.

But the essential condition was, that Mr. Mason and Mr. Slidell should be given up to Lord Lyons.

Mr. Adams said that if the matter was stated to Mr. Seward in the manner I had explained, he hoped for an amicable termination of the difference; he thought that if the Government of the United States insisted on maintaining the act of Captain Wilkes, the United States would be abandoning their doctrine and adopting ours.

Mr. Adams asked me a further question, which he said I might decline to answer; it was whether, if Lord Lyons came away, a declaration of war would be the immediate consequence.

I told him nothing was decided on that point; we should wait for the reply from America, and then decide upon our course.

I stated to Mr. Adams the substance of M. Thouvenel's despatch to M. Mercier as I had heard it from M. de Flahault.

Mr. Adams said that the French Government had always been very consistent in their maintenance of the rights of neutrals. He added that he could not pay our Government the same compliment.

I said I would dispense with compliments if this matter could be amicably arranged.

We parted on very friendly terms.

I am, &c.,

*Lord Lyons to Earl Russell, received January 9.Washington,*MY LORD, December 27, 1861.

I HAVE the honour to enclose a copy of a note which I have this morning received from Mr. Seward, in answer to your Lordship's despatch of the 30th of last month, relative to the removal of Mr. Mason, Mr. Slidell, Mr. MacFarland, and Mr. Eustis, from the British Mail Packet "Trent."

The note contains a very long and very elaborate dissertation on the questions of international law involved in the case. I have not time, before the departure of the messenger, to weigh the arguments, or to estimate precisely the force of the expressions used. But as Mr. Seward admits that reparation is due to Great Britain, and consents to deliver the four prisoners to me, I consider that the demands of Her Majesty's Government are so far substantially complied with, that it is my duty, in obedience to Your Lordship's commands, to report the facts to Her Majesty's Government for their consideration, and to remain at my post until I receive further orders. I have the honour to enclose a copy of the answer which I have made to Mr. Seward's note. I have confined myself to stating that I will forward a copy of it to Her Majesty's Government, and that I will confer with Mr. Seward personally, on the arrangements to be made for the delivery of the prisoners to me.

I have, &c.,

Enclosure No. 1 in Lord Lyons' Despatch to Earl Russell, of December 27, 1861.

Mr. Seward to Lord Lyons.

MY LORD, December 26, 1861.

EARL RUSSELL'S Despatch of November 30th, a copy of which you have left with me at my request, is of the following effect, namely :—

That a letter of Commander Williams, dated Royal Mail Contract Packet-boat "Trent," at sea, November 9, states that that vessel left Havana on the 7th of November with Her Majesty's mails for England, having on board numerous passengers. Shortly after noon on the 8th of November, the United States' war steamer "San Jacinto," Captain Wilkes, not showing colours, was observed ahead. That steamer on being neared by the "Trent," at one o'clock fifteen minutes, in the afternoon, fired a round shot from a pivot-gun across her bows, and showed American colours. While the "Trent" was approaching slowly towards the "San Jacinto," she discharged a shell across the "Trent's" bows, which exploded at half a cable's length before her. The "Trent" then stopped, and an officer with a large armed guard of Marines boarded her. The officer said he had orders to arrest Messrs. Mason, Slidell, McFarland, and Eustis, and had sure information that they were passengers in the "Trent." While some parley was going on upon this matter, Mr. Slidell stepped forward and said to the American officer that the four persons he had named were standing before him. The Commander of the "Trent" and Commander Williams protested against the act of taking those four passengers out of the "Trent," they then being under the protection of the British flag; but the "San Jacinto" was at this time only 200 yards distant, the ship's company at quarters, her ports open and tompons out, and so resistance was out of the question. The four persons before named were then forcibly taken out of the ship. A farther demand was made that the Commander of the "Trent" should proceed on board the "San Jacinto," but he said he would not go unless forcibly compelled likewise, and this demand was not insisted upon.

Upon this statement Earl Russell remarks, that it thus appears that certain individuals have been forcibly taken from on board a British vessel, the ship of a neutral Power, while that vessel was pursuing a lawful and innocent voyage—an act of violence which was an affront to the British flag, and a violation of international law.

Earl Russell next says that Her Majesty's Government, bearing in mind the friendly relations which have long subsisted between Great Britain and the United States, are willing to believe that the naval officer who committed this aggression was not acting in compliance with any authority from his Government, or that if he conceived himself to be so authorized, he greatly misunderstood the instructions which he had received.

Earl Russell argues that the United States must be fully aware that the British Government could not allow such an affront to the national honour to pass without full reparation, and they are willing to believe that it could not be the deliberate intention of the Government of the United States unnecessarily to force into discussion between the two Governments a question of so grave a character, and with regard to which the whole British nation would be sure to entertain such unanimity of feeling.

Earl Russell resting upon the statement and the argument which I have thus recited, closes with saying that Her Majesty's Government trust that when this matter shall have been brought under the consideration of the Government of the United States, it will of its own accord offer to the British Government such redress as alone could satisfy the British nation, namely, the liberation of the four prisoners taken from the "Trent," and their delivery to your Lordship, in order that they may again be placed under British protection, and a suitable apology for the aggression which has been committed. Earl Russell finally instructs you to propose these terms to me, if I should not first offer them on the part of this Government.

This despatch has been submitted to the President. The British Government has rightly conjectured, what it is now my duty to state, that Captain Wilkes in conceiving and executing the proceeding in question acted upon his own suggestions of duty, without any direction or instruction, or even foreknowledge of it, on the part of this Government. No directions had been given to him or any other naval officer to arrest the four persons named, or any of them, on the "Trent," or on any other British vessel, or on any other neutral vessel, at the place where it occurred or elsewhere. The British Government will justly infer from these facts that the United States not only have had no purpose, but even no thought, of forcing into discussion the question which has arisen, or any other which could affect in any way the sensibilities of the British nation.

It is true that a round shot was fired by the "San Jacinto" from her pivot-gun when the "Trent" was distantly approaching. But as the facts have been reported to this Government, the shot was nevertheless intentionally fired in a direction so obviously divergent from the course of the "Trent" as to be quite as harmless as a blank shot, while it should be regarded as a signal.

So also we learn that the "Trent" was not approaching the "San Jacinto" slowly when the shell was fired across her bows; but on the contrary, the "Trent" was, or seemed to be, moving under a full head of steam, as if with a purpose to pass the "San Jacinto"

We are informed also that the boarding-officer (Lieutenant Fairfax) did not board the "Trent" with a large armed guard, but he left his Marines in his boat when he entered the "Trent." He stated his instructions from Captain Wilkes to search for the four persons named, in a respectful and courteous, though decided, manner; and he asked the Captain of the "Trent" to show his passenger list, which was refused. The Lieutenant, as we are informed, did not employ absolute force in transferring the passengers, but he used just so much as was necessary to satisfy the parties concerned that refusal or resistance would be unavailing.

So, also, we are informed that the Captain of the "Trent" was not at any time, or in any way, required to go on board the "San Jacinto."

These modifications of the case, as presented by Commander Williams, are based upon our official reports.

I have now to remind your Lordship of some facts which doubtlessly were omitted by Earl Russell with the very proper and becoming motive of allowing them to be brought into the case on the part of the United States, in the way most satisfactory to this Government.

These facts are, that at the time the transaction occurred, an insurrection was existing in the United States, which this Government was engaged in suppressing by the employment of land and naval forces; that in regard to this domestic strife, the United States considered Great Britain as a friendly Power, while she had assumed for herself the attitude of a neutral; and that Spain was considered in the same light, and had assumed the same attitude as Great Britain.

It had been settled by correspondence that the United States and Great Britain mutually recognized, as applicable to this local strife, these two Articles of the Declaration made by the Congress of Paris in 1856, viz., that the neutral or friendly flag should cover enemy's goods, not contraband of war; and that neutral goods, not contraband of war, are not liable to capture under an enemy's flag. These exceptions of contraband from favour were a negative acceptance by the parties of the rule hitherto everywhere recognized as a part of the law of nations, that whatever is contraband is liable to capture and confiscation in all cases.

James M. Mason and McFarland are citizens of the United States and residents of Virginia. John Slidell and George Eustis are citizens of the United States, and residents of Louisiana. It was well known at Havana when these parties embarked on the "Trent," that James M. Mason was proceeding to England in the affected character of Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James', under a pretended Commission from Jefferson Davis, who had assumed to be President of the Insurrectionary Party in the United States, and McFarland was going with him in a like unreal character of Secretary of Legation to the pretended Mission. John Slidell, in similar circumstances, was going to Paris as a pretended Minister to the Emperor of the French; and George Eustis was the chosen Secretary of Legation for that simulated Mission. The fact that these persons had assumed such characters has been since avowed by the same Jefferson Davis in a pretended Message to an unlawful and insurrectionary Congress. It was, as we think, rightly presumed that these Ministers bore pretended credentials and instructions, and such papers are in the law known as despatches. We are informed by our Consul at Paris, that these despatches having escaped the search of the "Trent," were actually conveyed and delivered to emissaries of the insurrection, in England.

Although it is not essential, yet it is proper to state, as I do also upon information and belief, that the owner and agent, and all the officers of the "Trent," including the Commander, Williams, had knowledge of the assumed characters and purposes of the persons before-named when they embarked on that vessel.

Your Lordship will now perceive that the case before us, instead of presenting a merely flagrant act of violence on the part of Captain Wilkes, as might well be inferred from the incomplete statement of it that went up to the British Government, was undertaken as a simple, legal, and customary belligerent proceeding by Captain Wilkes to arrest and capture a neutral vessel engaged in carrying contraband of war for the use and benefit of the insurgents.

The question before us is, whether this proceeding was authorized by, and conducted according to the law of nations.

It involves the following inquiries :—

1st. Were the persons named and their supposed despatches contraband of war ?

2nd. Might Captain Wilkes lawfully stop and search the "Trent" for these contraband persons and despatches ?

3rd. Did he exercise that right in a lawful and proper manner?

4th. Having found the contraband persons on board, and in presumed possession of the contraband despatches, had he a right to capture the persons?

5th. Did he exercise that right of capture in the manner allowed and recognized by the law of nations?

If all these inquiries shall be resolved in the affirmative, the British Government will have no claim for reparation.

I address myself to the first inquiry, namely, Were the four persons mentioned, and their supposed despatches, contraband?

Maritime law so generally deals, as its professors say, in rem, that is, with property, and so seldom with persons, that it seems a straining of the term "contraband" to apply it to them. But persons, as well as property, may become contraband, since the word means broadly "contrary to proclamation, prohibited, illegal, unlawful." All writers and judges pronounce naval or military persons in the service of the enemy contraband. Vattel says, War allows us to cut off from an enemy all his resources, and to hinder him from sending Ministers to solicit assistance; and Sir William Scott says, You may stop the Ambassador of your enemy on his passage. Despatches are not less clearly contraband, and the bearers or couriers who undertake to carry them fall under the same condemnation.

A subtlety might be raised whether pretended Ministers of an usurping Power, not recognized as legal by either the belligerent or the neutral, could be held to be contraband. But it would disappear on being subjected to what is the true test in all cases, namely, the spirit of the law. Sir William Scott, speaking of Civil Magistrates who were arrested and detained as contraband, says, "It appears to me on principle to be but reasonable that when it is of sufficient importance to the enemy that such persons shall be sent out on the public service at the public expense, it should afford equal ground of forfeiture against the vessel that may be let out for a purpose so intimately connected with the hostile operations."

I trust that I have shown that the four persons who were taken from the "Trent" by Captain Wilkes, and their despatches, were contraband of war.

The second inquiry is, whether Captain Wilkes had a right by the law of nations to detain and search the "Trent."

The "Trent," though she carried mails, was a contract, or merchant vessel, a common carrier for hire. Maritime law knows only three classes of vessels—vessels of war, revenue vessels, and merchant vessels. The "Trent" falls within the latter class. Whatever disputes have existed concerning a right of visitation or search in time of peace, none, it is supposed, has existed in modern times about the right of a belligerent in time of war to capture contraband in neutral and even friendly merchant vessels, and of the right of visitation and search in order to determine whether they are neutral and are documented as such according to the law of nations.

I assume in the present case what, as I read British authorities, is regarded by Great Britain herself as true maritime law, that the circumstance that the "Trent" was proceeding from a neutral port to another neutral port does not modify the right of the belligerent captor.

The third question is, whether Captain Wilkes exercised the right of search in a lawful and proper manner. If any doubt hung over this point, as the case was presented in the statement of it adopted by the British Government, I think it must already have passed away before the modification of that statement which I have already submitted.

I proceed to the fourth enquiry, namely, having found the suspected contraband of war on board the "Trent," had Captain Wilkes a right to capture the same? Such a capture is the chief, if not the only recognized object of the permitted visitation and search. The principal of the law is, that the belligerent exposed to danger may prevent the contraband persons or things from applying themselves or being applied to the hostile uses or purposes designed. The law is so very liberal in this respect, that when contraband is found on board a neutral vessel, not only is the contraband forfeited, but the vessel, which is the vehicle of its passage or transportation, being tainted, also becomes contraband, and is subjected to capture and confiscation.

Only the fifth question remains, namely, did Captain Wilkes exercise the right of capturing the contraband in conformity with the law of nations?

It is just here that the difficulties of the case begin.

What is the manner which the law of nations prescribes for disposing of the contraband, when you have found and seized it on board of the neutral vessel? The answer would be easily found, if the question were what you shall do with the contraband vessel. You must take or send her into a convenient port, and subject her to a judicial prosecution there in Admiralty, which will try and decide the questions of belligerency, neutrality, contraband, and capture. So again you would promptly find the same answer, if the question were, what is the manner of proceeding prescribed by the law of nations in regard to the contraband, if it be property or things of material or pecuniary value? But the question here concerns the mode of procedure in regard, not to the vessel that was carrying the contraband, nor yet the contraband things which worked the forfeiture of the vessel, but to contraband persons.

The books of law are dumb; yet the question is as important as it is difficult. First, the belligerent captor has a right to prevent the contraband officer, soldier, sailor, minister, messenger, or courier, from proceeding in his unlawful voyage, and reaching the destined scene of his injurious service. But, on the other hand, the person captured may be innocent, that is, he may not be contraband: he therefore has a right to a fair trial of the accusation against him. The neutral State that has taken him under its flag is bound to protect him, if he is not contraband, and is therefore entitled to be satisfied upon that important question. The faith of that State is pledged to his safety, if innocent, as its justice is pledged to his surrender, if he is really contraband. Here are conflicting claims, involving personal liberty, life, honour, and duty. Here are conflicting national claims, involving welfare, safety, honour, and empire. They require a tribunal and a trial. The captors and the captured are equals, the neutral and the belligerent State are equals.

While the law authorities were found silent, it was suggested at an early day by this Government, that you should take the captured persons into a convenient port, and institute judicial proceedings there to try the controversy. But only Courts of Admiralty have jurisdiction in maritime cases, and these Courts have formulas to try only claims to contraband chattels, but none to try claims concerning contraband persons. The Courts can entertain no proceedings and render no judgment in favour of or against the alleged contraband men.

It was replied, all this is true, but you can reach in those Courts a décision which will have the moral weight of a judicial one, by a circuitous proceeding. Convey the suspected men, together with the suspected vessel, into port, and try there the question whether the vessel is contraband. You can prove it to be so by proving the suspected men to be contraband, and the Court must then determine the vessel to be contraband. If the men are not contraband the vessel will escape condemnation. Still there is no judgment for or against the captured persons ; but it was assumed that there would result from the determination of the Court concerning the vessel a legal certainty concerning the character of the men.

This course of proceeding seemed open to many objections. It elevates the incidental, inferior, private interest, into the proper place of the main, paramount, public one, and possibly it may make the fortunes, the safety, or the existence of a nation, depend on the accidents of a merely personal and pecuniary litigation. Moreover, when the judgment of the Prize Court upon the lawfulness of the capture of the vessel is rendered, it really concludes nothing, and binds neither the belligerent State nor the neutral, upon the great question of the disposition to be made of the captured contraband persons. That question is still to be really determined, if at all, by diplomatic arrangement or by war.

One may reasonably express his surprise when told that the law of nations has furnished no more reasonable, practical, and perfect mode than this of determining questions of such grave import between Sovereign Powers. The regret we may feel on the occasion is, nevertheless, modified by the reflection that the difficulty is not altogether anomalous

Similar and equal deficiencies are found in every system of municipal law, especially in the system which exists in the greater portion of Great Britain and the United States. The title to personal property can hardly ever be resolved by a Court without resorting to the fiction that the claimant has lost, and the possessor has found it, and the title to real estate is disputed by real litigants under the names of imaginary persons. It must be confessed, however, that while all aggrieved nations demand, and all impartial ones concede, the need of some form of judicial process in determining the character of contraband persons, no other form than the illogical and circuitous one thus described exists, nor has any other yet been suggested. Practically, therefore, the choice is between that judicial remedy, or no judicial remedy whatever.

If there be no judicial remedy, the result is that the question must be determined by the captor himself on the deck of the prize-vessel. Very grave objections arise against such a course. The captor is armed, the neutral is unarmed. The captor is interested, prejudiced, and perhaps violent; the neutral, if truly neutral, is disinterested, subdued, and helpless. The tribunal is irresponsible, while its judgment is carried into instant execution. The captured party is compelled to submit, though bound by no legal, moral, or Treaty obligation to acquiesce. Reparation is distant and problematical, and depends at last on the justice, magnanimity, or weakness of the State in whose behalf and by whose authority the capture was made. Out of these disputes reprisals and wars necessarily arise, and these are so frequent and destructive that it may well be doubted whether this form of remedy is not a greater social evil than all that could follow, if the belligerent right of search were universally renounced and abolished for ever. But carry the case one step further. What if the State that has made the capture unreasonably refuse to hear the complaint of the neutral, or to redress it? In that case the very act of capture would be an act of war—of war begun without notice, and, possibly, entirely without provocation.

I think all unprejudiced minds will agree that imperfect as the present judicial remedy may be supposed to be, it would be, as a general practice, better to follow it than to adopt the summary one of leaving the decision with the captor and relying upon diplomatic debates to review his decision. Practically, it is a question of choice between law, with its imperfections and delays, and war with its evils and desolations.

Nor is it ever to be forgotten that neutrality, honestly and justly preserved, is always the harbinger of peace, and, therefore, is the common interest of nations, which is only saying that it is the interest of humanity itself.

At the same time it is not to be denied that it may sometimes happen that the judicial remedy will become impossible, as by the shipwreck of the prize vessel, or other circumstances which excuse the captor from sending or taking her into port for confiscation. In such a case the right of the captor to the custody of the captured persons, and to dispose of them, if they are really contraband, so as to defeat their unlawful purposes, cannot reasonably be denied. What rule shall be applied in such a case? Clearly the captor ought to be required to show that the failure of the judicial remedy results from circumstances beyond his control and without his fault, otherwise he would be allowed to derive advantages from a wrongful act of his own.

In the present case, Captain Wilkes, after capturing the contraband persons and making prize of the "Trent," in what seems to us a perfectly lawful manner, instead of sending her into port, released her from the capture, and permitted her to proceed with her whole cargo upon her voyage. He thus effectually prevented the judicial examination which might otherwise have occurred.

If now the capture of the contraband persons and the capture of the contraband vessel are to be regarded not as two separable or distinct transactions under the Law of Nations, but as one transaction, one capture only, then it follows that the capture in this case was left unfinished, or was abandoned. Whether the United States have a right to retain the chief public benefits of it, namely, the custody of the captured persons, on proving them to be contraband, will depend upon the preliminary question—whether the leaving of the transaction unfinished was necessary, or whether it was unnecessary and therefore voluntary. If it was necessary, Great Britain, as we suppose, must of course waive the defect, and the consequent failure of the judicial remedy. On the other hand, it is not seen how the United States can insist upon her waiver of that judicial remedy if the defect of the capture resulted from an act of Captain Wilkes, which would be a fault on their own side.

Captain Wilkes has presented to this Government his reasons for releasing the "Trent :"—

"I forbore to seize her," he says, "in consequence of my being so reduced in officers and crew, and the derangement it would cause innocent persons, there being a large number of passengers who would have been put to great loss and inconvenience, as well as disappointment, from the interruption it would have caused them in not being able to join the steamer from St. Thomas to Europe. I therefore concluded to sacrifice the interest of my officers and crew in the prize, and suffered her to proceed, after the detention necessary to effect the transfer of those Commissioners, considering I had obtained the important end I had in view, and which affected the interests of our country and interrupted the action of the Confederates."

I shall consider, first, how these reasons ought to affect the action of this Government; and secondly, how they ought to be expected to affect the action of Great Britain. The reasons are satisfactory to this Government, so far as Captain Wilkes is concerned. It could not desire that the "San Jacinto," her officers and crew, should be exposed to dangers and loss by weakening their number to detach a prize-crew to go on board the "Trent." Still less could it disavow the humane motive of preventing inconveniences, losses, and perhaps disasters, to the several hundred innocent passengers found on board the prize vessel.

Nor could this Government perceive any ground for questioning the fact that these reasons, though apparently incongruous, did operate in the mind of Captain Wilkes, and determine him to release the "Trent." Human actions generally proceed upon mingled and sometimes conflicting motives. He measured the sacrifices which this decision would cost. It manifestly, however, did not occur to him that beyond the sacrifice of the private interests (as he calls them) of his officers and crew, there might also, possibly, be a sacrifice even of the chief and public object of his capture, namely, the right of his Government to the custody and disposition of the captured persons. This Government cannot censure him for this oversight. It confesses that the whole subject came unforeseen upon the Government, as, doubtless, it did upon him. Its present convictions on the point in question are the result of deliberate examination and deduction now made, and not of any impressions previously formed.

Nevertheless, the question now is, not whether Captain Wilkes is justified to his Government in what he did, but what is the present view of the Government as to the effect of what he has done.

Assuming now, for argument's sake only, that the release of the "Trent," if voluntary, involved a waiver of the claim of the Government to hold the captured persons, the United States could in that case have no hesitation in saying that the act which has thus already been approved by the Government must be allowed to draw its legal consequence after it.

It is of the very nature of a gift or a charity that the giver cannot, after the exercise of his benevolence is past, recall or modify its benefits.

We are thus brought directly to the question whether we are entitled to regard the release of the "Trent," as involuntarily, or whether we are obliged to consider that it was voluntary.

Clearly the release would have been involuntary had it been made solely upon the first ground assigned for it by Captain Wilkes, namely, a want of sufficient force to send the prize vessel into port for adjudication. It is not the duty of a captor to hazard his own vessel in order to secure a judicial examination to the captured party. No large prize-crew, however, is legally necessary, for it is the duty of the captured party to acquiesce, and go willingly before the tribunal to whose jurisdiction it appeals. If the captured party indicate purposes to employ means of resistance which the captor cannot with probable safety to himself overcome, he may properly leave the vessel to go forward, and neither she nor the State she represents can ever afterwards justly object that the captor deprived her of the judicial remedy to which she was entitled.

But the second reason assigned by Captain Wilkes for releasing the "Trent," differs from the first. At best, therefore, it must be held, that Captain Wilkes, as he explains himself, acted from combined sentiments of prudence and generosity, and so that the release of the prize-vessel was not strictly necessary or involuntary.

Secondly, how ought we to expect these explanations by Captain Wilkes of his reasons for leaving the capture incomplete to affect the action of the British Government? The observation upon this point which first occurs, is that Captain Wilkes' explanations were not made to the authorities of the captured vessel. If made known to them, they might have approved and taken the release upon the condition of waiving a judicial investigation of the whole transaction, or they might have refused to accept the release upon that condition.

But the case is one not with them, but with the British Government. If we claim that Great Britain ought not to insist that a judicial trial has been lost because we voluntarily released the offending vessel out of consideration for her innocent passengers, I do not see how she is to be bound to acquiesce in the decision which was thus made by us without necessity on our part, and without knowledge of conditions or consent on her own. The question between Great Britain and ourselves thus stated would be a question not of right and of law, but of favour to be conceded by her to us in return for favours shown by us to her, of the value of which favours on both sides we ourselves shall be the judge. Of course the United States could have no thought of raising such a question in any case.

I trust that I have shown, to the satisfaction of the British Government, by a very simple and natural statement of the facts and analysis of the law applicable to them, that this Government has neither meditated, nor practised, nor approved any deliberate wrong in the transaction to which they have called its attention, and, on the contrary, that what has happened has been simply an inadvertency, consisting in a departure by a naval officer, free from any wrongful motive, from a rule uncertainly established, and probably by the several parties concerned either imperfectly understood or entirely unknown. For this error the British Government has right to expect the same reparation that we, as an independent State, should expect from Great Britain or from any other friendly nation in a similar case.

I have not been unaware that in examining this question I have fallen into an argument for what seems to be the British side of it against my own country, but I am relieved from all embarrassment on that subject. I had hardly fallen into that line of argument, when I discovered that I was really defending and maintaining, not an exclusively British interest, but an old honoured and cherished American cause, not upon British authorities, but upon principles that constitute a large portion of the distinctive policy by which the United States have developed the resources of a Continent, and thus becoming a considerable maritime power, have won the respect and confidence of many nations. These principles were laid down for us in 1804 by James Madison, when Secretary of State in the Administration of Thomas Jefferson, in instructions given to James Munroe, our Minister to England. Although the case before him concerned a description of persons different from those who are incidentally the subjects of the present discussion, the ground he assumed then was the same I now occupy, and the arguments by which he sustained himself upon it have been an inspiration to me in preparing this reply.

“Whenever,” he says, “property found in a neutral vessel is supposed to be liable on any ground to capture and condemnation, the rule in all cases is, that the question shall not be decided by the captor, but be carried before a legal tribunal, where a regular trial may be had, and where the captor himself is liable to damages for an abuse of his power. Can it be reasonable, then, or just, that a belligerent commander who is thus restricted, and thus responsible in a case of mere property, of trivial amount, should be permitted, without recurring to any tribunal whatever, to examine the crew of a neutral vessel, to decide the important question of their respective allegiance, and to carry that decision into execution by forcing every individual he may choose into a service abhorrent to his feelings, cutting him off from his most tender connections, exposing his mind and his person to the most humiliating discipline, and his life itself to the greatest dangers? Reason, justice, and humanity unite in protesting against so extravagant a proceeding.”

If I decide this case in favour of my own Government, I must disallow its most cherished principles, and reverse and for ever abandon its essential policy. The country cannot afford the sacrifice. If I maintain those principles and adhere to that policy, I must surrender the case itself. It will be seen, therefore, that this Government could not deny the justice of the claim presented to us in this respect upon its merits. We are asked to do to the British nation just what we have always insisted all nations ought to do to us.

The claim of the British Government is not made in a discourteous manner. This Government, since its first organization, has never used more guarded language in a similar case.

In coming to my conclusion I have not forgotten that, if the safety of this Union required the detention of the captured persons, it would be the right and duty of this Government to detain them. But the effectual check and waning proportions of the existing insurrection, as well as the comparative unimportance of the captured persons themselves, when dispassionately weighed, happily forbid me from resorting to that defence.

Nor am I unaware that American citizens are not in any case to be unnecessarily surrendered for any purpose into the keeping of a foreign State: only the captured persons, however, or others who are interested in them, could justly raise a question on that ground.

Nor have I been tempted at all by suggestions that cases might be found in history where Great Britain refused to yield to other nations, and even to ourselves, claims like that which is now before us. Those cases occurred when Great Britain, as well as the United States, was the home of generations which with all their peculiar interests and passions have passed away. She could in no other way so effectually disavow any such injury, as we think she does, by assuming now as her own the ground upon which we then stood.

It would tell little for our own claims to the character of a just and magnanimous people, if we should so far consent to be guided by the law of retaliation as to lift up buried injuries from their graves, to oppose against what national consistency and the national conscience compel us to regard as a claim intrinsically right.

Putting behind me all suggestions of this kind, I prefer to express my satisfaction that, by the adjustment of the present case upon principles confessedly American, and yet, as I trust, mutually satisfactory to both of the nations concerned, a question is finally and rightly settled between them, which heretofore exhausting not only all forms of peaceful discussion, but also the arbitrament of war itself, for more than half a century alienated the two countries from each other, and perplexed with fears and apprehensions all other nations.

The four persons in question are now held in military custody at Fort Warren in the State of Massachusetts. They will be cheerfully liberated.

Your Lordship will please indicate a time and place for receiving them.

Inclosure 2, in Lord Lyons' Despatch to Earl Russell, of December 27, 1861.

Lord Lyons to Mr. Seward.

Washington,

SIR,

December 27, 1861.

I HAVE this morning received the note which you did me the honour to address to me yesterday, in answer to Earl Russell's despatch of the 30th November last, relative to the removal of Mr. Mason, Mr. Slidell, Mr. MacFarland, and Mr. Eustis, from the British Mail Packet "Trent." I will without any loss of time, forward to Her Majesty's Government a copy of the important communication which you have made to me.

I will also without delay do myself the honour to confer with you personally on the arrangements to be made for delivering the four gentlemen to me, in order that they may be again placed under the protection of the British flag.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) LYONS.

No. 4.

Earl Russell to Lord Lyons.

Foreign Office,

January 11, 1862.

MY LORD,

IN my despatch to you of the 30th of November, after informing you of the circumstances which had occurred in relation to the capture of the four persons taken from on board the "Trent," I stated to you that it thus appeared that certain individuals had been forcibly taken from on board a British vessel, the ship of a neutral power, while such vessel was pursuing a lawful and innocent voyage, an act of violence which was an affront to the British Flag, and a violation of international law. I concluded by directing you, in case the reparation, which Her Majesty's Government expected to receive, should not be offered by Mr. Seward, to propose to that minister to make such redress as alone would satisfy the British nation, namely, first, the liberation of the four gentlemen taken from on board the "Trent," and their delivery to your Lordship, in order that they might again be placed under British protection; and, secondly, a suitable apology for the aggression which had been committed.

I received, yesterday, your despatch of the 27th ultimo, inclosing a note to you from Mr. Seward, which is in substance the answer to my despatch of the 30th of November.

Proceeding at once to the main points in discussion between us, Her Majesty's Government have carefully examined how far Mr. Seward's note, and the conduct it announces, complies substantially with the two proposals I have recited.

With regard to the first, viz. : the liberation of the prisoners with a view to their being again placed under British protection, I find that the note concludes by stating that the prisoners will be cheerfully liberated, and by calling upon your Lordship to indicate a time and place for receiving them.

No condition of any kind is coupled with the liberation of the prisoners.

With regard to the suitable apology which the British Government had a right to expect, I find that the Government of the United States distinctly and unequivocally declares that no directions had been given to Captain Wilkes, or to any other naval officer, to arrest the four persons named, or any of them, on the "Trent," or on any other British vessel, or on any other neutral vessel, at the place where it occurred or elsewhere.

I find, further, that the Secretary of State expressly forbears to justify the particular act of which Her Majesty's Government complained. If the United States Government had alleged that although Captain Wilkes had no previous instruction for that purpose, he was right in capturing the persons of the four prisoners, and in removing them from the "Trent" on board his own vessel, to be afterwards carried into a port of the United States, the Government which had thus sanctioned the proceeding of Captain Wilkes would have become responsible for the original violence and insult of the act. But Mr. Seward contents himself with stating that what has happened has been simply an inadvertency, consisting in a departure by a naval officer, free from any wrongful motive, from a rule uncertainly established, and probably by the several parties concerned either imperfectly understood or entirely unknown. The Secretary of State goes on to affirm that for this error the British Government has a right to expect the same reparation which the United States, as an independent State, should expect from Great Britain, or from any other friendly nation in a similar case.

Her Majesty's Government having carefully taken into their consideration the liberation of the prisoners, the delivery of them into your hands, and the explanations to which I have just referred, have arrived at the conclusion that they constitute the reparation which Her Majesty and the British nation had a right to expect.

It gives Her Majesty's Government great satisfaction to be enabled to arrive at a conclusion favourable to the maintenance of the most friendly relations between the two nations. I need not discuss the modifications in my statement of facts which Mr. Seward says he has derived from the reports of Officers of his Government.

I cannot conclude, however, without adverting shortly to the discussions which Mr. Seward has raised upon points not prominently brought into question in my despatch of the 30th of November. I there objected, on the part of Her Majesty's Government, to that which Captain Wilkes had done. Mr. Seward, in his answer, points out what he conceives Captain Wilkes might have done without violating the law of nations.

It is not necessary that I should here discuss in detail the five questions ably argued by the Secretary of State; but it is necessary that I should say that Her Majesty's Government differ from Mr. Seward in some of the conclusions at which he has arrived. And it may lead to a better understanding between the two nations on several points of international law which may during the present contest or at some future time be brought into question, that I should state to you, for communication to the Secretary of State, wherein those differences consist; I hope to do so in a few days.

In the meantime it will be desirable that the Commanders of the United States cruisers should be instructed not to repeat acts for which the British Government will have to ask for redress, and which the United States Government cannot undertake to justify.

You will read and give a copy of this despatch to the Secretary of State.

I am, &c.,

Your conduct in the important matter of the "Trent" is entirely approved by Her Majesty. The discretion and good temper you have shewn have contributed greatly to the success of our operations.

In order to give your Lordship, by a public document, a proof that you have acted strictly according to the instructions you have received, I inclose an extract, annexed to this despatch, of a private letter I addressed to you on the 1st of December last.

Lord Lyons, December 1, 1861.

“The despatches which were agreed to at the Cabinet yesterday, and which I have signed this morning, impose upon you a disagreeable task. My wish would be that, at your first interview with Mr. Seward, you should not take my despatch with you, but should prepare him for it, and ask him to settle with the President and the Cabinet what course they would propose.

“The next time you should bring my despatch, and read it to him fully.

“If he asks what will be the consequence of his refusing compliance, I think you should say that you wish to leave him and the President quite free to take their own course, and that you desire to abstain from anything like menace.”

WITH reference to the translation, inserted in the London Gazette of the 10th May last, of the regulations adopted by the European Commission of the Danube for facilitating and securing the navigation of that river; the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade give notice, that they have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of the following amended translation of those regulations, which has been forwarded by the British Member of that Commission:

TEMPORARY PROVISIONS IN MODIFICATION OF ARTICLES 1 AND 3 OF THE TARIFF OF 25TH JULY, 1860.

THE European Commission of the Danube; with reference to the provisional tariff of navigation dues applicable to the Soulina mouth, enacted the 25th July, 1860; considering that a part of the produce of these dues is devoted to covering the expenses of works of improvement executed along the course of the Soulina river, and that it is therefore just to grant to vessels receiving their cargo in the port at the river mouth, a reduction on the amount of tolls paid by those ascending the river; considering moreover that it is of importance, whilst awaiting the final revision of the tariff of the 25th July, 1860, to facilitate to commerce as much as possible the profitable transactions now taking place in the exportation of grain by means of vessels of a large tonnage chartered for the port and roadstead of Soulina; enacts the following temporary provisions:

ARTICLE 1.

There is added, in continuation of the first article of the provisional tariff enacted by the European Commission on the 25th July, 1860, a paragraph conceived in the following terms:

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

APPENDIX TO PROTOCOL, No. CXV.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 1.

Every captain or master of a sailing or steam-vessel in the act of navigating, or at anchor, is bound to take precautions that his vessel does not cause damage or hindrance to other vessels, or to signals, towing-paths, and other establishments, placed in the river, or on the banks, for the benefit of navigation, and he will attend to the preservation of his own vessel with the same care.

Superintendents of floats of wood, and rafts, and persons employed in the technical service of the river, or in that of the ports and quays, will be bound to observe the same precautionary regulations.

ARTICLE 2.

No vessel may steer across the course taken by another vessel in such a manner as to impede it in its way.

When a vessel, for the purpose of mooring, or of getting off a bank, shall be obliged to stretch a cable or chain across the channel, these hawsers must be slackened the moment a vessel wishes to pass.

Vessels are forbidden to leave their hawsers across the stream during the night or in foggy weather.

ARTICLE 3.

Steam-boats descending stream are bound to slacken speed at the points where the river describes sharp curves, until a clear passage is visible from the stern of the vessel. If any other vessel should be in the bend, the steamer must signal its approach by means of a whistle.

ARTICLE 4.

No vessel may moor or cast anchor in the concave part of a curve in the river under pain of being responsible for all damages that may be occasioned by such act to other vessels, in addition to the fine ordered by Article 41 of these regulations.

Regulations for vessels crossing or passing one another.

ARTICLE 5.

Captains and masters of vessels are forbidden to pass other vessels going in the same direction as themselves, and two vessels sailing in opposite directions may not cross in places where the channel does not afford sufficient breadth.

Any vessel ascending stream, and being likely to meet a vessel descending, at a point which does not afford sufficient breadth, must stop below the passage, till the other vessel has passed it; if the ascending vessel should be actually in the passage at the time of meeting the other, the descending vessel must cast the anchor, which she should carry astern, in accordance with Article 14 following, and stop until the passage is clear.

ARTICLE 6.

In narrow passages steam-vessels must not approach too closely vessels which precede them.

ARTICLE 7.

When two steam-vessels, or two sailing-vessels, sailing with a favourable wind, meet whilst proceeding in different directions, the one ascending stream must steer towards the left bank, and the vessel descending, towards the right bank, so that both go to starboard according to the custom of the sea. Any captain or master breaking these regulations will be absolutely responsible for all accidents which may result: he is bound, besides, to give the signals prescribed by Articles 8 and 9 following.

If two steam-vessels give the same signal simultaneously, the signal of the ascending vessel will have the preference.

ARTICLE 8.

When a steam-vessel wishes to pass another steam-vessel going in the same direction, it must signal, at sufficient distance, by means of five strokes on the bell, or five whistles, and by waving a flag on the forecastle, or by hoisting half-mast, a blue flag, replaced at night by a white light. Upon these signals the vessel in advance will be obliged to steer to the left, and to give passage to the other vessel, which will take the right: as soon as the vessel following is half a length from the vessel in front, or from the tail of a convoy in tow, the latter must slacken speed, till it has been overtaken.

ARTICLE 9.

A sailing vessel coming up with another slower sailing vessel, and desiring to pass, must signal its intention in good time, by hailing the vessel in advance, which will be required to let her pass to windward.

A steam-vessel wishing to pass a sailing-vessel going in the same direction as itself, will be required to give the signals prescribed by Article 8, within a proper distance, and must pass the sailing-vessel to leeward.

Towing Regulations.

ARTICLE 10.

Captains or masters of tugs navigating with or without vessels in tow, are bound to observe all the preceding provisions; they are, moreover, specially bound to conform to the provisions of Articles 7, 8, and 9, when a convoy wishes to pass another; in which case excepted, two convoys must never be side by side, either at anchor, or navigating in company.

ARTICLE 11.

Any steam-vessel not towing a convoy, as well as every vessel sailing with a fair wind, will be bound, as a general rule, to give passage to a convoy of vessels in tow. In want of sufficient space for doing this, captains and masters, both of tugs and vessels in tow, will be bound, even in cases where the signals prescribed by the Article 7, 8, and 9 preceding, have not been given, to draw aside, agreeably to the provisions of the said Articles, and to arrange in single file the vessels in tow.

Captains and masters of tugs and vessels in tow are also required, in all cases of meeting other vessels to close together as nearly as possible the vessels in tow, so as to leave sufficient passage to other vessels.

Steam vessels with paddle-boxes must not lash vessels that they are towing alongside of them in the Soulina channel. It is generally forbidden to navigate in the said channel with more than two vessels lashed abreast.

Special provisions relative to Sailing Vessels.

ARTICLE 13.

No attempt is to be made to pass a vessel tracked from the shore, except by steering between her and the bank opposite the one from which she is being towed. Vessels in tow are bound, upon the signals prescribed by Articles 8 and 9 preceding, to keep as near as possible to the bank which they are skirting.

ARTICLE 14.

Vessels descending stream are required to have constantly at the stern an anchor ready to be dropped, to enable them to stop in case of necessity, as particularly prescribed in Article 5 preceding.

ARTICLE 15.

Every steam-vessel is bound to avoid vessels which it may meet drifting, either in going up or down stream. The vessel drifting is required on its part, when it meets other vessels, either sailing or steam-vessels, to steer parallel to the banks, in order to offer as little obstacle as possible to a free passage.

ARTICLE 16.

Vessels tacking must not get in the way of steam-vessels.

ARTICLE 17.

Masters and captains of vessels heavily laden, or in cargo, of less than 60 tons burden, are required to keep as much as possible out of the way of steam-vessels, which may meet, or which may come up with them.

Captains of steam-vessels are required, when passing near vessels of the kind mentioned in the preceding paragraph, to slacken speed, and to stop completely in case of danger to the said vessels, if they can do so, without danger to themselves, or to the vessels they may be towing.

Regulations relative to towing from the Banks.

ARTICLE 18.

The paths that follow both banks of the Danube are specially intended to be used for the towing of vessels either by men or by horses; foot-passengers and carriages can also make use of them.

ARTICLE 19.

Any proprietor, farmer, or occupant of land bordering the river, is bound to give up, for the towing service, a breadth of 8 metres, measured from the highest point of the edge of the bank, or, when the bank does not form a ledge, from the line of the highest high-water mark which does not render towing impracticable.

ARTICLE 20.

The said proprietors, farmers, or occupants, must not consider themselves as released, either entirely or in part, from this obligation, when, in consequence of the giving way of the banks, the actual path has totally disappeared, or has simply narrowed; in this case they must contribute from their land all the new breadth required.

ARTICLE 21.

The towing-path must be free from all obstacles which can impede its use, such as houses and other erections, bushes, trees, and enclosures.

Proprietors, farmers, and occupants are bound to remove such obstacles, in default of which the authorities appointed to the administration of the river will order their removal.

It is forbidden to leave on the path, momentarily, impediments, such as carriages, waggons, &c.

ARTICLE 22.

The establishment in the river, and especially near the banks, of boat-mills, irrigating wheels, and other similar constructions, is forbidden, without a formal permission from the authority having charge of the police administration of the river.

This permission will not be given except in cases of absolute necessity.

ARTICLE 23.

It is expressly forbidden to dig ditches across the towing-path, or to remove earth from it. Ditches actually existing will be filled up.

ARTICLE 24.

Mooring-posts having been fixed along the Soulina, captains and masters must avoid driving stakes or fixing anchors on the towing-paths for the purpose of mooring their vessels.

The number of mooring-posts will be increased, if necessary.

ARTICLE 25.

If two vessels in tow, coming in opposite directions, meet at the side of the same bank, the one going up stream must stand out to let the other pass.

If a train of vessels, towed by horses, comes up with one towed by men, the latter must allow the former to pass.

In cases of a towed vessel meeting another moored in the river, the captain of the latter must allow the sailors belonging to the towed vessel to come on board to carry over the towing-rope.

Measures to be taken during the Night, or in a Fog.

ARTICLE 26.

All steam-vessels navigating during the night (between sun-set and sun-rise) must be furnished with a white light, easily visible at a distance of two miles, hoisted on the foremast, a green light on the starboard, and a red one on the port.

Sailing-vessels need only carry a white light on the foremast.

Steam-vessels towing one or more other vessels, must be furnished besides with a red light placed under the white one on the mast.

Vessels in tow will carry a single white light at the head of the bowsprit.

ARTICLE 27.

Sailing-vessels, convoys in tow, and rafts, may not navigate when both banks of the river cannot be seen at the same time.

ARTICLE 28.

In a fog, steam-vessels may not navigate except at slackened speed. The bell on board must be struck without intermission, or a whistle must be given every five minutes. They are bound to drop anchor if the fog becomes so thick that they cannot see the bank they are following, or towards which they are steering.

Regulations relative to Vessels at Anchor.

ARTICLE 29.

Outside of the ports two vessels may never be anchored or moored alongside of one another against the towing-path, and vessels are absolutely forbidden to drop anchor in the channel of navigation.

ARTICLE 30.

If, in consequence of a fog, a vessel or raft is obliged to stop at any other place than a regular mooring-place, the bell on board must be struck if the vessel is a steamer, and, if not, the speaking trumpet must be used. These signals must be repeated every five minutes.

ARTICLE 31.

Every vessel stopping in the river during the night must be furnished with a lighted lantern.

which should be placed on one of the masts on the side toward the channel, or in any other part of the vessel where it may be seen equally both up and down stream.

Rafts, stationed at anchor during the night must be furnished at each of their angles, on the channel side, with two lighted lanterns, placed one alongside the other, on a high point, and easily visible at a distance.

Cases of running aground, and wreck.

ARTICLE 32.

Pilots, piloting vessels in that part of the Danube between Isaktcha and Soulina, are bound to acquaint captains and masters of these vessels with the provisions of the present Regulations relative to cases of grounding and wreck.

ARTICLE 33.

Every captain, or master of a vessel or raft, grounded in the Soulina channel, is bound to place, if possible, at a spot conveniently situated, and at least two kilometres above his vessel, a look-out, charged with hailing vessels and rafts coming down the stream, to acquaint them of the nature and place of the accident.

ARTICLE 34.

Steam-vessels may not use more than half power while passing places where a vessel or raft has gone aground or foundered.

ARTICLE 35.

Every shipwreck in the channel of Soulina is regarded with suspicion, unless in exceptional cases, and is presumed, until the contrary has been proved, to be owing to negligence or evil-intent on the part of the captain or crew of the wrecked vessel. The pilot of a vessel is personally responsible for the wreck, if caused by bad management, as regulated by Article 46 of the Pilotage Regulations of 9th October, 1857.

ARTICLE 36.

If, contrary to all probability, a vessel should be wrecked in the channel of Soulina, the captain is bound to use every effort to haul it immediately alongside one of the banks, so that it may not remain in the channel.

The captain of the wrecked vessel and his crew are bound to remain on board or on the bank, close to the vessel, until the report, spoken of in Article 37 following, has been drawn up by the proper officer. They are forbidden under any pretext whatever, to take away any part of the ship's cargo, stores, anchors, chains, cables, &c.

ARTICLE 37.

Immediately after the wreck, the pilot of the vessel must, as promptly as possible, by means of the river police, acquaint the Chief Inspector of the technical service of the Danube.

The Inspector will proceed at once to the spot, and will examine the wreck with reference to the damage that may result from it to the navigation in general; he will ascertain the circumstances which may tend to exculpate the captain, pilot, and crew of the vessel, whose depositions and declarations he will take; he will draw up a summary report of the whole, and give to the captain of the wrecked vessel, if proper, a certificate stating that the wreck was occasioned by circumstances beyond control; if the contrary should be the case, he will report the fact to the proper authority.

ARTICLE 38.

If the Inspector of Technical Works thinks it necessary to take immediate measures, and to carry out certain plans in the interest of the navigation, he will demand for this purpose the assistance of the captain of the wrecked vessel, who will be bound, either to declare on the spot that he abandons his vessel, or to act with his crew under the orders of the Inspector, who will superintend the salvage until the work ceases to be of public utility, and has become an affair of private interest.

The vessel, the salvage of which has been effected by the help of the authorities charged with the river administration, will be liable for the payment of a moderate sum to cover the salvage expenses, and towards keeping in repair the gear used for such purposes.

ARTICLE 39.

All works, undertaken by owners, insurers, and interested parties, with the object of effecting the salvage of wrecked vessels and their cargoes, must be carried out under the superintendence of the Inspector of Technical Works, on the Lower Danube, and may be forbidden if considered to be of a nature likely to cause any damage whatever to the navigation.

ARTICLE 40.

If the removal of the carcass or remains of a wrecked vessel, should be considered necessary, the owners, insurers, or other interested parties, are bound to accomplish it within the month after they have received notification of the fact, in default of which the work may be officially performed by the Inspector of Technical Works, and the wrecked vessel with its equipments and cargo, will be specially liable for the payment of salvage expenses.

Infractions.

ARTICLE 41.

Infractions of the provisions of Articles 1, 4, 15, 29 and 31 of the present regulations will be punished with a fine of from 5 to 10 Dutch ducats. Every infringement of the provisions of Articles 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25, will be punished according to circumstances with a fine of from 3 to 10 ducats.

The penalties published by the present Article are not applicable to cases of infractions resulting from circumstances beyond control.

ARTICLE 42.

Independently of the fines to which offenders may be subjected, they can be proceeded against, in the proper courts, for civil compensation, on account of damages of every description which may have been caused by the infractions committed by them.

ARTICLE 43.

The territorial authorities are charged with carrying out the present regulations; their agents will lend their assistance when required to those appointed to look after the preservation of the works of improvement executed on the Lower Danube. In the case of action by the vessels of war stationed at the mouth of the river, it will be exercised in accordance with the terms of Article 19 of the Treaty of Paris, of 30th March, 1856, which provides that the business of the said vessels is to secure the carrying out of the regulations adopted by common accord.

ARTICLE 44.

The present Regulations will come into force as soon as they have been published in the ports of Soulina, Toultscha, Ismail, Galatz, and Ibraila.

The text will be forwarded to the Consul authorities of the said ports.

ARTICLE 45.

The provisions of the regulation of 24th November, 1858, relative to towing in the Soulina, are abrogated and will cease to be applied on the present regulations coming into force.

Galatz, 27th June, 1860.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

APPENDIX, NO. 1., TO PROTOCOL, No. CXVI.

Provisional Tariff relative to shipping dues leviable at the Soulina mouth, in accordance with Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris, of 30th March, 1856.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

Whereas Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris of 30th March, 1856, stipulates that the expenses of the works performed for the purpose of clearing the mouths of the Danube, and the portions of sea adjoining, of the obstacles which obstructed them, and those of the establishments for securing and facilitating navigation, shall be covered by means of levying the fixed dues determined by the Commission ;

And whereas the increase of depth produced by the provisional works undertaken at the Soulina mouth, and by the works of improvement executed in the course of the river, at the shallows of Argagnis, as well as the improvements introduced in the establishments referred to in the Treaty, have had already the effect of diminishing the impediments that vessels meet with in the Danube, and the consequent expenses incurred ;

And whereas, in order to prevent the expense of improvements, of which present commerce is beginning to reap the benefits, falling exclusively on future commerce, it is just to subject shipping at once to a provisional tax, proportionate to the advantages which it now enjoys, until the definitive tariff, which will be established on the completion of the works, comes into operation ;

And whereas in order to simplify as much as possible the collection, it is desirable that the different dues, paid by vessels, both for the works of improvement and for the service of the establishment, such as lighting and pilotage, should be merged in a single shipping due ;

The Commission has enacted the following provisional tariff :—

ARTICLE 1.

Every sailing-vessel, of more than 30 tons register, leaving the Port of Soulina to go to sea, and which shall have on board according to its manifest, more than half of its full lading, shall pay a fixed shipping due according to tonnage, the amount of which shall be regulated in accordance with the following table, with regard to the total tonnage of the vessel, and the depth on the bar at the mouth of the Soulina branch.

ARTICLE 2.

Steam-vessels belonging to a public company, specially appropriated to the carriage of passengers, and performing periodical voyages, according to a bill published in advance, shall pay each time, on leaving the river, a fixed due of 25 centimes per registered ton, without taking into account whether the lading is full or partial.

This due shall be calculated on the total tonnage of the vessel, deducting 40 per cent. for space occupied by engines, and coal, &c.

These vessels will be free from all dues on entering the river.

ARTICLE 3.

Any merchant steam-vessels other than those mentioned in preceding Article, shall be subjected to the same dues as sailing-vessels; a deduction of 40 per cent. being also made on their total tonnage, on account of the engines and coals.

The amount of dues which these vessels will have to pay per ton register, will be settled in accordance with the above table, after the deduction of 40 per cent. secured to them by the present Article.

ARTICLE 4.

Merchant-vessels, either sailing or steam, other than those mentioned in Article 2, which shall enter the port on coming from sea, and which shall have, according to their manifest, more than half their lading, shall pay for entering the river, the fourth part of the due imposed on them for their passage outwards by the Articles 1 and 3 above.

The due for entering will not be paid by vessels till the time of the departure from the river.

The said vessels shall pay for entering the whole amount of the due fixed by Articles 1 and 3, if they leave the river with less than half their cargo.

ARTICLE 5.

Lighters chartered for the passage of the Soulina bar, by vessels which have paid the dues fixed by the preceding Articles, shall pay for each passage made with a full or partial lading, only the following tolls; namely:—

Lighters of 10 to 50 tons burden, 6 francs;
 Those of more than 50 tons, and not exceeding 100 tons, 8 francs;
 And those of more than 100 tons burden, 12 francs

ARTICLE 6.

Vessels of more than 30 tons register, which remain at anchor in the roads of Soulina, to load or unload all or part of their cargo without entering the port, will not be liable for the dues fixed by the preceding Articles. They will only pay an uniform due of 50 francs a vessel towards the expenses of the establishments, such as lighting and pilotage, from which they derive actual benefit.

Lighters chartered to transport across the mouth the cargoes of said vessels, shall pay for every passage across the bar with whole or partial lading, a fixed due of one franc per ton on their total tonnage.

Steam lighters will be allowed a deduction of 40 per cent. on the tonnage, in calculating the dues they will have to pay.

ARTICLE 7.

Vessels of war will be free from all tolls both on entering and on leaving the port of Soulina.

ARTICLE 8.

Sea-going vessels, or lighters seeking shelter in the port of Soulina from bad weather, those putting in to repair damages, and those obliged in consequence of any accident whatever to take refuge in the port, and unable to continue their sea voyage, shall be free from all dues, provided that they put to sea again without engaging in any mercantile transactions.

ARTICLE 9.

The dues fixed by the present tariff will comprise :—

The tolls imposed on vessels to cover the expenses of works and other improvements carried on by the European Commission ;

The dues actually in force for the maintenance of the lighthouses at Soulina and the Isle of Serpents, and the dues destined to cover the expenses caused by the pilotage service at the Soulina bar.

In addition to these dues, vessels will not be subject to any other tax or charge whatever, except for the hire of the river pilots, which they will have to pay according to the provisions of the Pilotage Regulations.

ARTICLE 10.

The amount of dues will be paid over to the responsible officer in charge of the administration of the Navigation Cash Office of the Port of Soulina, who will give a receipt for the same.

The annexed list, under letter A,* represents the equivalents in francs, of the moneys in use on the Lower Danube.

ARTICLE 11.

The term, register, ton, will be understood to mean the English ton, weighing 1,015 kilogrammes.

* Not received.

The tonnage of vessels will be ascertained from the ship's papers.

The reduction of tons of different countries into English measure, will be made according to the annexed table under the letter B.*

ARTICLE 12.

Vessels entering the Danube, without papers indicating their tonnage, will be subject with the sole view of fixing the navigation tolls which they are bound to pay in accordance with the present tariff, to an approximate estimate made under the direction of the Port-Captain, with the assistance of the proper Consular authority, by two masters of vessels, one of whom will be chosen in preference from those of the country to which the vessel concerned belongs.

In the same manner shall be decided disputes which may arise on the proportion of a vessel's lading in the cases provided by the above Articles 1 and 4.

The estimate of tonnage, in default of ship's papers, shall be taken at the expense of the vessel, which is the subject of the estimate. The same will be the case for the estimate of the amount of the ship's lading, if it is larger than declared by the captain or master of the vessel; if the contrary be the case, the expense will be at the charge of the navigation chest.

In any case these estimates shall be final, and can give rise to no appeal whatever.

ARTICLE 13.

The depth, according to which the dues fixed by the present tariff shall be settled, shall be taken on the bar of the Soulina in English feet.

Soundings will be taken every day under the directions and on the responsibility of the engineer appointed to superintend the works of improvement at the mouth of the river; the result will be posted up daily at the Navigation Cash Office, and at that of the Port-Captain.

* Not received.

If the state of the sea does not allow soundings to be taken, the amount of the dues to be levied will be based on the last depth ascertained.

ARTICLE 14.

Every vessel which shall attempt, by any means whatever, to evade payment of the dues fixed by the present tariff, shall be liable, besides the dues which it will have to pay in accordance with preceding provisions, to a fine equal to four times the amount of the dues.

The exaction of this fine will be decided by the Port-Captain of Soulina.

Appeals against these sentences must be brought before the European Commission of the Danube, or before the international authority, which shall take its place. The period, within which the appeal must be made, and the form of proceedings, will be settled hereafter by special dispositions.

The judgments pronounced by the Port-Captain will take effect, notwithstanding the appeal. In case of appeal the amount of the fine will be paid as a deposit into the navigation chest.

The amount of the fine adjudged, when decided upon as legal, will accrue to the said chest, to be devoted to the assistance of shipwrecked persons.

ARTICLE 15.

Captains of vessels of war, stationed at the mouths of the Danube, agreeably to Article 19 of the Treaty of Paris, will be called upon to insist upon the payment of the dues fixed by the present tariff, and of fines, accruing under its stipulations, by vessels of their country and of those whose flag they shall be authorized to protect, either in virtue of a Treaty or of a general or special delegation.

The assistance of vessels of war will be demanded, according to rule, through the intervention of the captain of the port of Soulina, on the requisition of the responsible agent appointed to administer the navigation chest.

In default of a vessel of war authorized to exercise a coercive action over an offending vessel, the captain of the port will have recourse to the intervention of the Turkish ship of war stationed at Soulina.

ARTICLE 16.

The present tariff will come into force the 1st September, 1860 (new style).

Chartered vessels, which shall have taken their departure for their destination at the time when the present tariff shall have been authentically known in the port which they have left, shall not be subject for the voyage already commenced, to the dues fixed by this tariff: they shall only pay for that voyage the dues in force at the time of their departure.

ARTICLE 17.

The present tariff, being only provisional, can be revised.

Given at Galatz, the 5th July, 1860.

APPENDIX, NO. 1, TO PROTOCOL,
No. CXVII.

Provisional Regulations for the Administration of the Port and Roads of Soulina.

ARTICLE 1.

The territory over which the authorities, charged with the administration of the port of Soulina, exercise jurisdiction, is comprised of.—

1st. The port properly so called : that is, the arm of the Soulina, for a space of three nautical miles, starting from the opening of the channel formed by the heads of the piers at the mouth of the river ;

2nd. And the roads of Soulina, or the sea for a radius of two nautical miles round the head of the north pier.

I.

The administration of the Port properly so called.

ARTICLE 2.

Merchant-vessels entering the port of Soulina, either on coming from the sea or descending the river, are bound to conform strictly with the directions of the Port-Captain and his officers, in everything concerning the service of the port and the administration of navigation.

ARTICLE 3.

Guard boats are stationed at the two entrances to the port. These boats point out to captains entering the port the position where they must cast anchor.

ARTICLE 4.

The port of Soulina is divided transversely into sections, the number of which is fixed provisionally at six, the order of the numbers beginning from the sea. The limits of these sections are marked by posts of different colours, placed on the two banks of the river.

The first section is reserved for ships of war on the station, and transport-vessels engaged in the service of the European Commission; it serves also for the anchorage and landing places of steam-vessels, making periodical voyages.

The second section is reserved for tugs, steam transports, and tow-barges, performing the duties of lighters.

The third for merchant-vessels which, after having lightened, are ready to go to sea; and for lighters into which these vessels have already discharged part of their cargo.

The fourth for vessels which have still to discharge all or part of their cargo upon lighters.

The fifth for vessels ascending stream, which stop at Soulina, only to wait for a favourable wind.

And the sixth for empty lighters; these last are strictly forbidden to go near laden lighters.

The space included between the first section and the light-house must remain always completely free, except in case of unavoidable circumstances.

ARTICLE 5.

Every captain who shall infringe the preceding Article, by casting anchor in a prohibited place, and who does not immediately, on being ordered by a guard-boat, proceed to the anchorage assigned to him, shall be liable to a fine of from fifteen to twenty ducats, fixed by Article 23, above.

ARTICLE 6.

Immediately after taking his mooring-place, every captain of a sailing-vessel, or his second in command, is bound to report himself at the Port Captain's office, to present his bill of health and other papers.

If the vessel stays less than 24 hours at Soulina, these papers will be returned to the captain immediately, without being viséd ; if this is not the case, they will remain deposited at the office of the Port-Captain, through whom they will be remitted to the proper Consular authorities, after the payment of shipping dues and fines, levied in compliance with the regulations in force.

ARTICLE 7.

After having cast anchor, vessels must be moored by cables to the posts fixed for the purpose along the two banks, or to vessels already moored.

ARTICLE 8.

After fulfilling the provisions of the preceding Articles they must take in their boom and jib-boom, which in no case may be used for mooring boats.

During the whole period of remaining at anchor the yards must be braced fore and aft.

ARTICLE 9.

No vessel is permitted to enter or leave the port of Soulina, without hoisting the colours of its country ; the authorities of the port will not give passage to any vessel without a flag.

ARTICLE 10.

The Port-Captain will regulate as follows, the movements of vessels on the days of Bogas (days when the wind is favourable for vessels leaving port).

1. Vessels may not heave anchor or quit their moorings before they have on board the pilot of the administration charged with taking them over the bar.

2. Vessels must leave in turn one after the other; a guard-boat will watch their movements, and stop the departure of every vessel not presenting the Port-Captain's permit.

3. The chief pilot will remain at the bar, to direct the movements of vessels crossing it, and to prevent all confusion and collision between the vessels.

ARTICLE 11.

Close in-shore boats, as well as lighters, are subject to the strict supervision of the Port-Captain: they are forbidden to move about the port during the night, that is during the interval the guns are fired at sunset, and sunrise.

Boats belonging to the port, or to merchant vessels, may not ply during the night without carrying a lighted lantern.

ARTICLE 12.

It is prohibited to heat tar or pitch on board vessels inside the port, or to do anything that might cause a fire.

Captains are bound to see that no lights whatever are used on board their vessels other than glass lamps or lanterns.

ARTICLE 14.

In case of a fire on board a vessel, the captains of all the ships at anchor are bound to send a part of their crews to assist in saving the vessel in danger and its cargo.

The sailors not sent upon this service will remain on board their own vessels.

ARTICLE 15.

Repairs required by the state of a vessel can only be executed in the place set apart for the purpose.

The Port-Captain will see, moreover, that the execution of the repairs causes no obstacle to navigation.

ARTICLE 16.

Immediately after the evening gun has been fired from the Turkish vessel on the station, sailors must return on board.

ARTICLE 17.

The construction of steps, quays, and other works in the river, and especially near the banks without a formal authority from the Port-Captain, is forbidden.

This authority cannot be granted unless the utility of the work is duly proved, and with the consent of the European Commission of the Danube, which will lay down the conditions judged necessary for the public interest, and to which the party will be bound to conform.

The Port-Captain is bound to see that no works are undertaken without authority, and to prevent the continuation of those irregularly commenced.

II.

Service of the Roads.

ARTICLE 18.

Merchant-vessels which arrive in the roads of Soulina, and take up their moorings there to load or discharge their cargo, without entering the port, will be required to comply with the orders of the Port-Captain and his agents, in everything that concerns the management of navigation.

They are bound to anchor at the place pointed out by the chief pilot of the port, or by the deputy chief pilot, and are forbidden to change their anchorage without authority.

ARTICLE 19.

As soon as the vessel has cast anchor, the captain, or his second in command, must report himself at the Health Office, to get his bill of health viséd, and at the Port-Captain's office to present his ship's papers.

These papers will be registered in a special register.

ARTICLE 20.

Boats, belonging to vessels anchored in the roads, are forbidden to cross the bar, and to ply in the port during the night, that is to say, after the firing of the evening gun from the Turkish vessel on the station, without carrying a lighted lantern.

III.

Regulations applicable to the Port and the Roads

ARTICLE 21.

No one may undertake, without the permission of the Port-Captain to remove anchors, chains, and other articles abandoned in the port or roads of Soulina. The conditions on which this permission will be given will be determined by special instructions.

ARTICLE 22.

The Port-Captain will decide summarily in cases of difference between captains and their crews, calling to his assistance two captains of the same nationality as the parties at issue; or in default of these two other captains.

He will not, however, exercise this portion of his powers unless his intervention is called for by one of the parties concerned, and recourse to him will not be allowed except in places where there is no proper consular authority.

IV.

Infractions.

ARTICLE 23.

Every infraction of the provisions of Articles 7, 8, 9, 11, 13, 18, and 20 will be punished by a fine of from one to five ducats, which will be doubled in case of repetition. Infractions of the provisions of Articles 3, 4, 10 and 12 will be punished by a fine of from five to twenty ducats, which will also be doubled in case of repetition.

ARTICLE 24.

Every infraction of Article 21 will be punished by a fine of from ten to fifteen ducats.

ARTICLE 25.

The Port-Captain will decide as to the infliction of the fines incurred by infringing the provisions of the present regulations.

In case of appeal against the decision of the Port-Captain, the amount of the fines will be deposited in the navigation chest of the port of Soulina until the case has been settled.

If the appeal is not made before the expiration of six weeks, the sum deposited will revert definitely to the navigation chest, and be devoted to the relief of shipwrecked persons.

ARTICLE 26.

Masters and captains are personally responsible for infractions committed by members of their crews.

ARTICLE 27.

The Port-Captain of Soulina is charged with the execution of the present regulations.

In all cases where his intervention, and that of the agents placed under his command, is not sufficient, he may apply to the vessels of war on the station, who will lend him assistance, as far as permitted by their instructions.

ARTICLE 28.

The Provisional Regulations of the 10th June, 1857, as well as the Supplementary Provisions of the 19th October, 1859, are cancelled.

Galatz, 9th July, 1860.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF

Danube.*

1ST SECTION.—Pilotage on the Bar of Soulina.

CHAPTER 1st.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 1.

No sailing or steam-vessels of more than sixty tons burden may cross the bar of Soulina, either entering from the sea or leaving the river, without having on board a local pilot.

ARTICLE 2.

The pilot service, at the Soulina Bar will be performed by a special staff of licensed and responsible pilots.

ARTICLE 3.

The pilotage expenses will be met by means of a toll of nineteen centimes per ton burden, imposed on shipping.

The amount of this toll is comprised in the general tariff of shipping dues, arranged by the European Commission of the Danube.

It will be paid by captains, according to the provisions of this tariff, into the navigation chest at Soulina.

The agent in charge of the chest will give a receipt for the amount.

All payments of pilotage tolls, not authenticated by such a receipt, will be considered null and void.

CHAPTER II.

Composition and Organisation of the Pilot Staff.

SECTION 1.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 4.

The staff of pilots, charged with taking vessels over the Soulina Bar, will be composed of:—

1. A chief pilot;

4. Auxiliary pilots—number not fixed.

ARTICLE 5.

The arrangement of the pilot staff, at Soulina, will be in the hands of the captain of the port, who will appoint the chief pilot, as well as the deputy-chief pilot.

The pilots of the first class, and the auxiliary pilots, will also be appointed by him, on the recommendation of the chief pilot.

The captain of the port will act as judge, and punish any breach of discipline committed by pilots on service : he will maintain order and discipline, and will decide in cases of differences arising either between the pilots themselves, or between the latter and their chief.

ARTICLE 6.

The chief pilot's business will be, under the direction of the captain of the port, to arrange specially the order of service, and to superintend the deputy chief pilot and the pilots, both in the exercise of their duties and in their private conduct.

He will take all the necessary steps to prevent irregularity, and to ensure the strict observance of the provisions of the present regulations, as well as of the orders of the Port-Captain.

The deputy-chief pilot will direct, under the orders of the chief pilot, the details of the service at the bar, especially with regard to the arrival of vessels coming from sea.

He will take the place of the chief pilot in case of the latter being absent.

ARTICLE 7

The pilots of the first class will have charge of the ordinary service of pilotage on the Soulina Bar.

The auxiliary pilots except in the cases mentioned in Article 11, cannot be called to pilot vessels, unless in the event of an insufficiency of pilots of the first class, in consequence of the arrival of too large a number of ships.

SECTION III.

ARTICLE 9.

To ensure the execution of the last provision of the preceding Article, the candidates must undergo a special examination before a Commission instituted for that purpose, which Commission will be composed—

- Of a captain of the port of Soulina ;
- Of two merchant-captains ;
- Of the chief pilot, or, in his absence, of the deputy-chief pilot ;

- The handling of the rudder ;
- The use of the lead, and the pole for taking soundings ;

The perfect knowledge of the sand banks, their extent, and their depth under the level of the water ;

The knowledge of the variations of the current ;

The calculation of a vessel's draught of water ;

The choice of favourable mooring places, as well as the manner of mooring a vessel, casting and weighing anchor ;

The perfect knowledge of the signals placed on the bar, and in the shallow water, to indicate the passage : the effects of pitching and rolling ;

The rescue of vessels in danger ;

The necessary manœuvres for avoiding collision, and for doubling the curves of the river, so as to prevent grounding.

The results of each examination will be verified in a report signed by the members of the Commission.

A candidate who has answered in a satisfactory manner the questions on the prescribed subjects, will receive a certificate of competency, signed by the captain of the port and the chief pilot.

ARTICLE 11.

The pilots of the first-class will be first selected, and after them the auxiliary pilots from among the number of candidates who have undergone, with the most success, the test of examination.

In case of a vacancy, or if circumstances require that the number of pilots be increased, the mariners who have obtained the certificate of competency, referred to in Article 10 above, will be alone admissible to be proposed by the chief pilot, for nomination by the captain of the port, agreeably to the provision of Article 5.

Every member of the pilot staff will receive a licence, worded after the example annexed to the present regulations (Appendix No. 1).

A special matriculation register, in which the names of all the pilots will be inscribed, will remain deposited at the office of the captain of the port, and at that of the chief pilot. Each pilot will have his own number of rank, which will be the same as that of his matriculation.

ARTICLE 12.

Captains and masters of steam tugs, having their head-quarters at Soulina, will be permitted to pass the examination of pilots for the bar, and to obtain the licence. When thus matriculated on the register of Soulina pilots, they will be placed in the list of auxiliary pilots (Article 4, No. 4), with the right of piloting exclusively the tug upon which they are engaged, without being allowed to pilot other vessels.

They will act always under the general direction of the Port Captain in everything concerning the application of the regulations relative to the administration of the river, to that of the port and to pilotage.

Vessels towed by a tug, the captain or pilot of which is furnished with a pilot's licence, are equally bound to pay the pilotage toll into the navigation chest, although they have not on board a pilot of the administration.

§ THE PILOT'S BOOK.

Immediately a pilot is admitted, he will be presented by the captain of the port with a book, similar to the annexed form (Appendix No. 11).*

* Not received.

This book will contain:—

The copy of his licence ;

containing the principal provisions,

An extract from the general tariff concerning pilotage.

It will also contain statements regularly filled up, of the amount of wages that the pilots have received each month ;

Of the service that he has rendered ;

Remarks and complaints of captains.

It will serve the pilot to prove his rank ; and should be presented each month for the visé of the chief pilot.

Every pilot must always keep and carry his book, and is strictly forbidden to allow any one to make use of it.

§ 3. EQUIPMENTS NECESSARY FOR THE SERVICE OF PILOTAGE.

The pilots will have always at their disposal—

Boats necessary for the ordinary service ;

And two other boats, furnished with their equipments, such as anchors, chains, cables, &c., and a life-boat, to render assistance to vessels in danger.

These boats must, while on service, carry the pilot's flag, described in No. 1 of the annexed tables (Appendix, No. 111).

§ PAY OF PILOTS.

ARTICLE 15.

There will be provided from the receipts of the pilotage tolls—

1. The necessary sums for the maintenance of the boats destined for the ordinary service.

2. And the salary of the auxiliary pilots, who, in case of an insufficiency of pilots of the first-class, may be summoned by the chief pilot to pilot vessels, and who will not be remunerated for more than the days of their actual service.

The wages of oarsmen, employed in the pilotage service, and the maintenance of the boats and apparatus devoted to the service of salvage, will be paid out of the navigation chest on the order of the administration of the port.

ARTICLE 16.

After deduction has been made on account of the amounts provided for by the preceding Article, the amount of the revenue will be divided at the expiration of each month into 67 equal portions, four of which will be given to the chief pilot, three to the deputy chief pilot, and two to each pilot of the first-class.

Captains and pilots of tugs furnished with a licence, agreeably to Article 11 above, cannot share in this division of the receipts of the pilotage tolls.

CHAPTER III.

Duties of Pilots.

§ I.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 17.

The pilots, as well as their superiors, will be bound to show deference and respect to the authorities under whose inspection they are placed, and whose orders they must punctually execute in matters concerning the affairs of the service.

The pilots and the deputy chief pilot will be particularly bound to conform absolutely to the orders of the chief pilot, and to obey in everything his instructions.

ARTICLE 18.

Members of the pilot-staff will be forbidden to quit, even temporarily, their residence at Soulina, without the special authority of the proper officer.

They must never depart from a respectful and seemly conduct in their intercourse with captains, passengers, and crews of vessels, which they may be called upon to pilot.

They will carefully avoid being found in a state of drunkenness, and also, giving occasion to any complaints or difficulties whatever.

ARTICLE 19.

The payment of pilots, having been settled by Article 16 of the present regulations, they will be forbidden, under the penalty laid down in Article 46 following, to exact any remuneration in addition to the tax fixed by the tariff.

They will be forbidden equally to interest themselves, directly or indirectly, in any Lighter speculation.

§ II.

§ SOUNDINGS.

ARTICLE 20.

The chief pilot or deputy chief-pilot, assisted by a sufficient number of pilots of the first-class, appointed in their turn for the service, will ascertain twice a-day, morning and evening, the depth of the channel over the bar.

The soundings will be made by means of a pole kept exclusively for the purpose, graduated in English feet. A model of this pole will remain constantly at the office of the chief pilot.

ARTICLE 21.

The pilots will meet each morning at an hour fixed by the captain of the port, in the office of 1862.

the chief pilot, to receive his orders, and to learn the depth of the channel over the bar.

§ THE LIGHTHOUSE GUARD.

ARTICLE 22.

A pilot will be on guard always on the tower of the lighthouse to announce, by the aid of the signals indicated in the annexed table (Appendix No. 3), the arrival of vessels, sailing or steam, coming from the sea or descending the river. He will observe, at the same time, the movements of vessels. In case of need, he will immediately acquaint the chief pilot or the captain of the port.

§ 3. PILOTAGE OF VESSELS ON THE BAR.

ARTICLE 23.

As long as the state of the sea will permit the bar to be passed, a boat ought always to be in readiness to transport the pilot on board vessels which approach the port from the roadstead.

The pilots are bound to go a mile and a half to meet vessels.

ARTICLE 24.

As soon as a pilot shall have gone on board, he must prove his qualifications to the captain by presenting his book.

He will acquaint him with the depth of the channel over the bar, according to the last soundings, and the captain will be bound on his part to inform him of the draught of his vessel. To avoid all dispute on this point, the pilot will present to the captain a ticket of draught (billet d'immersion) printed according to the annexed formula (Appendix No. 4). This ticket, after having been filled up and signed by the captain, will be returned to the pilot.

ARTICLE 25.

Every pilot, not belonging to the Soulina staff, who happens to be on board a vessel prepared to cross the bar, will be bound, immediately on the arrival of the local pilot, to give up to him entirely the charge of the ship, and he will be strictly forbidden to take any part whatever in the pilotage or working of the vessel on the bar. In case of necessity, the captain can be required to use coercive measures for the removal of an unprivileged pilot from the management of the vessel.

ARTICLE 26.

It is the duty of pilots to be on board before the ship entrusted to their charge quits her anchorage. They are strictly forbidden to leave vessels they are piloting across the bar before they are out of danger ; they must not leave the vessels they are conducting from the roads into the river before they are anchored or moored at the moorings they ought to occupy in the port, and those proceeding from the port into the roads before they are distant a quarter of a mile to the east of the bar.

They will be bound, moreover, to see that vessels take up their moorings at the spot indicated to them in accordance with regulations of the port, and that captains, in casting anchor, observe the rules in force.

ARTICLE 27.

If a vessel about to enter Soulina should be detained on the roads, after having been boarded by the local pilot, and is prevented by any cause from crossing the bar, the pilot may not, on any pretext, leave the vessel before bringing her into port.

In this case the pilot will be entitled to mess with the petty officers.

ARTICLE 28.

If, for the purpose of lightening, the said vessel is obliged to discharge all or part of its ballast, the pilot must see that it is not discharged except at the place designated in the regulations in force on the subject of discharging ballast.

At sea, ballast may never be discharged within a distance of two miles from the bar.

In case of infraction of the preceding provision, the pilot will report the case to the chief pilot, who will inform the Port-Captain, charged with carrying out the regulations with respect to discharge of ballast.

ARTICLE 29.

On the arrival of a ship of war in the port, the chief pilot, and, in the absence of the chief pilot, the deputy-chief pilot must present himself at once on board, and place himself at the disposal of the commander.

ARTICLE 30.

The pilot who has conducted a vessel across the bar will have it attested by the captain by means of a certificate, which should be carried in the pilot's book as prescribed by Article 13 of the present regulations.

This certificate will be countersigned by the chief pilot on the same day on which it is delivered and presented to the Captain of the Port, who will affix to it his official seal.

Any certificate delivered to a pilot by a merchant-captain in any other form than that prescribed by the present regulations will not be considered valid by the port authorities.

Any captain, who, in consequence of negligence or of wrong manœuvres, has cause of complaint against the pilot charged with conducting his vessel, should present himself at once before the Port-Captain or chief pilot. He will also have the option of placing his grievance on the book which the pilot is bound to present to him for the purpose, when required to do so.

The chief pilot will examine into the acts imputed to the pilot, and will proceed against the delinquent according to circumstances.

ARTICLE 31.

Any pilot who has conducted a vessel over the bar, will the same day make his report to the chief pilot or deputy-chief pilot; he will acquaint him accurately with the accidents which he may have met with, and the observations which he may have made on the variations which have occurred in the direction and depth of the channel, and in the shape of the sandbanks, or the new obstacles proceeding from the grounding of vessels, abandoned anchors, &c., and on all circumstances affecting navigation.

SECTION III.

Extraordinary Services.

ARTICLE 32.

When a ship is obliged to cross the bar during a storm, or when the sea is running very high, and it is impossible for the pilot boats to get alongside, the chief pilot or deputy-chief pilot must proceed in a boat as near the bar as possible, to guide the vessel by means of a signal. This signal must be hoisted on a pole, which should be held vertically if the ship follows the right direction, and which, if the contrary is the case, should be inclined towards the side to which the ship should shape its course.

ARTICLE 33.

When in the cases prescribed by the preceding Article and Article 44, a vessel shall cross the bar without having a local pilot aboard, and when the blue flag is hoisted on the lighthouse, the captain must present himself at once at the Port-Captain's office to explain why he infringed the regulations ; that is to say : to explain the circumstances over which he had no control which induced him to do so, and of which he must make a written declaration.

If the facts alleged by the captain do not appear such as to justify his proceedings, Articles 42 and 51 of the present regulations will be applied.

ARTICLE 34.

When a vessel is in danger of wreck or grounding, either in the roads, or on the bar, or in the interior of the port, all the pilots and their chiefs, as well as the auxiliary pilots, are bound to meet for the purpose of rendering assistance, as soon as the prescribed signal (Appendix No. III.) shall be given from the tower of the lighthouse.

The pilots will assemble at the office of the chief pilot, who will undertake, under the supervision of the Port-Captain, the direction of the measures for its preservation.

In case of a vessel running aground, the chief pilot or deputy-chief pilot will proceed with boats and the necessary number of pilots, to the grounded vessel and will use every effort to set it afloat.

In case of a wreck, they must also be in readiness to lend their aid and assistance, and exert themselves specially to save the passengers and the crew.

ARTICLE 35.

The assistance rendered by the pilots for salvage purposes will be entirely gratuitous, unless the captain of a vessel has not asked for a pilot, or has refused to allow one on board, or has made a false declaration relative to his vessel's draught of water.

SECTION IV.

Special obligations affecting the Chief Pilot.

ARTICLE 36.

The chief pilot, as is stated in Article 6 of the present regulations, will direct the pilots in the exercise of their duties ; he will be responsible equally for the regularity of the service, and in particular for the accuracy of the soundings taken at the bar, in accordance with Article 20. He will see that the prescribed signals are promptly given, and will take all the necessary measures to prevent the pilots delaying to go on board vessels, and to avoid loss of time and confusion in manœuvring vessels.

ARTICLE 37.

On the days of Bogas (days of the entry and departure of vessels) the chief pilot, or deputy-chief pilot, must remain on the bar, to direct the course of vessels, and prevent cases of grounding. He will superintend the manœuvres of the pilots on duty, and if their number is insufficient, send for the auxiliary pilots.

ARTICLE 38.

The chief pilot will see that the pilot boats and the life boat, as well their tackle and other apparatus, are always kept in good repair. If he thinks it necessary to replace a part of the stores, and to make new purchases, he must make a report to the Port-Captain.

He will appoint the pilot, whose business it will be to look after the stores in question.

The pilots of the first-class will perform this office in turn, and for a fixed period; they will be held responsible for the preservation of the articles committed to their charge.

ARTICLE 39.

The chief pilot will also look to the preservation of buoys. He will inspect them from time to time, and will take care to alter their positions, according to the changes observed in the direction of the channel, and in obedience to the directions of the Port-Captain on the subject.

ARTICLE 40.

Independently of the daily soundings ordered by Article 20, the chief pilot must proceed to the bar immediately after every storm or unusual flood, to examine the position and strength of the buoys, and to ascertain generally the condition of the channel.

CHAPTER IV.

Infractions.

ARTICLE 41.

Every merchant-captain, who, except in case of circumstances over which he could have no control, as provided for in Article 34 above, shall go upon the Soulina bar, or pass it, without the assistance of a pilot qualified for the purpose, shall pay as a fine, twice the pilotage due prescribed by Article 3.

He will remain, moreover, responsible to the proper person for damages caused, by his negligence, to the ship or cargo.

The merchant captain who, after having employed a Sôulina pilot, refuses to pay the pilotage dues, shall also pay twice the due as a fine.

The captain who infringes the provisions of Article 24 of the present regulations, either by refusing to declare to the pilot the draught of his vessel, or by declaring a draught more or less than the truth, shall be punished by a fine of five Dutch ducats.

ARTICLE 42.

A foreign pilot, who may happen to be on board a vessel ready to cross the bar, and who refuses to give up the management of the vessel to a Soulina pilot, immediately on being required to do so by the latter, shall be condemned to a month's imprisonment, or to a fine of not less than 20 Dutch ducats, and not exceeding 30 ducats.

The captain who refuses to take the necessary measures for the removal of the foreign pilot, and who transgresses also the provisions of Article 25 of the present regulations, shall be punished by a fine of not less than 10 Dutch ducats, and not exceeding 20 ducats.

Every individual who, without having been licensed as a Soulina pilot, shall have piloted over the bar a vessel of more than 60 tons burden, shall be punished by a month's imprisonment, or a fine of not less than 10 Dutch ducats, and not exceeding 20 ducats.

ARTICLE 43.

If, contrary to the provisions of Article 36, the pilot called upon to pilot a vessel, delays going on board in consequence of not having been instructed by the chief pilot, or, in the justifiable absence of the latter, by the deputy-chief pilot, the chief pilot or the deputy-chief pilot shall be punished with a fine of 3 Dutch ducats. In case of repetition, the fine shall be increased to 6 ducats ; and if the infringement shall occur a third time, the chief pilot or deputy-chief pilot shall be discharged.

If the delay is the fault of the pilot, and if he has not obeyed at once the orders of the chief or deputy-chief pilot, the offender shall be punished by suspension for not less than forty-five days, and not exceeding three months ; and the chief pilot, or the deputy-chief pilot, shall immediately report the case to the Port-Captain.

ARTICLE 44.

Every pilot, whilst in a state of drunkenness, who shall undertake to pilot a vessel, shall be sentenced to a fine of not less than 20 Dutch ducats, and not exceeding 30 ducats, and be discharged in case of repetition of the offence.

If the pilot becomes intoxicated on board the vessel entrusted to his care, he shall be dismissed immediately.

ARTICLE 45.

Every member of the pilot staff who shall infringe the provisions of Article 19 above, by joining in a Lighter speculation, shall be discharged.

ARTICLE 46.

Any pilot who shall from incompetency or evil intent be the cause of a collision, of grounding, or of wreck, shall be discharged, without interfering with the civil action, which those interested may bring against him before the proper court, to obtain compensation for damage done to the vessel or the cargo.

The chief pilot and the deputy-chief pilot, according to circumstances, are, as well as the offending pilot, amenable to the civil law.

If the circumstances causing the accident are such as to entail criminal proceedings, the pilot will be delivered up to the proper authorities, to be tried according to law.

ARTICLE 47

Pilots may not leave Soulina on any pretext without a written permission, on pain of being sentenced to a fine of 1 Dutch ducat for each day's absence.

If this absence exceed fifteen days, the offending pilot shall be dismissed.

ARTICLE 48.

Every infraction of the provisions of the present regulations, which shall not be subjected to a special penalty, shall be punished, when committed by the chief pilot, or the deputy-chief pilot, by a fine of not less than 5 Dutch ducats, and not exceeding 10 ducats; and when committed by a pilot, by a fine of not less than 2 ducats, and not exceeding 4 ducats.

ARTICLE 49.

Fines incurred by pilots can be converted by the Port-Captain into a suspension from employ, at the rate of three days' suspension for each ducat of the fine.

The suspended pilot will lose all right, during the time of suspension, to the division of the produce of the pilotage dues, and the sum forming his portion, as well as the amount of fine, will be used for the purpose stated in Article 51 following.

ARTICLE 50.

The Port-Captain shall decide as to the infliction of fines incurred by the chief pilot, deputy-chief pilot, and the pilots, as well as by merchant-captains.

ARTICLE 51.

The amount of fines, as well as sums kept back from pilots suspended from their duties, shall be paid into the navigation chest, and employed for the preservation in good repair of the apparatus for saving life and the assistance of ship-wrecked persons.

ARTICLE 52.

The captain of the port will decide in cases of dispute arising between pilots and merchant-captains, in the event of his intervention being demanded by the latter. When this is not the case, the dispute will be brought before the authority to which they may be subject.

II.

Pilotage on the River.

CHAPTER I.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 53.

Independently of the pilot-staff charged with piloting vessels across the Soulina bar, there will be a special pilotage service for merchant-vessels navigating within the river between Soulina and Ibraila.

ARTICLE 54.

The direction of the river pilotage service will be located at Soulina, and will be carried on under the authority of the Port-Captain.

1. By a chief pilot, who will be appointed to superintend exclusively the service at parts distant from the portion served by the river pilots.

2. And by an unlimited number of pilots denominated pilots of the second class.

CHAPTER II.—SPECIAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 55.

No one can be admitted pilot of the second class, if he is not more than twenty-four years of age, if he has not been at least four years in the sea service, and if he has not passed the examination prescribed by Articles 9 and 10 of the present regulations.

ARTICLE 56.

Pilots permanently engaged in the service of steam-ship companies, whose vessels ply on the Danube, and who have piloted, during a whole season, without cause or complaint, a steam-boat making periodical voyages on the river, may be licensed as pilots of the second class, and may regularly perform the duties of such on producing, at the Port-Captain's office at Soulina, a certificate of competency and of good conduct, from the captain of the vessel on board of which they are engaged.

This certificate will remain deposited at the Port-Captain's office, it will be noted on the matriculation paper, and the licence given to the pilot.

ARTICLE 57.

Pilots of the second class are not bound to reside at Soulina.

ARTICLE 58.

Seamen, admitted as pilots of the second class, will receive a licence similar to the annexed form (Appendix, No. 1), to prove their rank.

A distinct register will be kept at the Port-Captain's office, when their names will be registered, as well as the date of their admission.

They will receive a pilot's book in the manner prescribed by Art. 13 of the present regulations.

ARTICLE 59.

The up-voyage commences immediately the vessel leaves the port of Soulina to proceed to Toultscha, Ismail, Reni, Galatz, or Ibraila: it terminates when the vessel reaches its port of destination.

The down voyage commences on leaving the port at which the vessel has laden her cargo, and terminates on the arrival of the vessel at the port of Soulina.

Captains ascending the stream are not bound to take a pilot: they will have the power of employing the one on board, but the captain of the port will be bound, if required, to procure them a licensed pilot.

For descending the river every merchant-vessel, of a burden of more than 60 tons, must take a pilot, of the rank of pilot of the second class, licensed at the office of the Port-Captain at Soulina.

Any captain, infringing this regulation, shall pay a fine twice the amount of the pilotage due, which he would have paid, in accordance with Article 61 following, without being relieved from the responsibility, which he may incur towards the parties concerned, in consequence of the damage caused by his negligence to the vessel and its cargo.

ARTICLE 60.

Captains will arrange with the pilots the sum to be paid to them for piloting vessels up the stream. In case of dispute, however, on this point, the judicial authorities of the ports will not admit any claim on the part of pilots, for a higher rate of wages than half a Dutch ducat a day for the voyage, in addition to subsistence on board.

ARTICLE 61.

The pilotage due for navigating a vessel down stream is fixed as follows :—

- 10, Dutch ducats for the voyage from Ibraïla, or Galatz, to Soulina ;
- 8 Dutch ducats for the voyage from Rèni, or Ismail, to Soulina ; and
- 6 Dutch ducats for the voyage from Toultscha to Soulina.

This due will be paid at the Port-Captain's office at Soulina, on the receipt of the captain of the port ; all payments not proved by the Port-Captain's receipt will be considered null and void.

The chief pilot, specially appointed to superintend the river pilotage, will retain the third part of a Dutch ducat on the amount due from each vessel, the remainder will be paid to the pilot.

Independently of the dues thus fixed, the pilot will have a right, while on board, to the subsistence of a petty officer during the whole voyage.

ARTICLE 62.

Vessels of war are not bound to take a pilot in going down stream ; those that take on board a pilot, licensed at Soulina, will pay the dues fixed by preceding Article.

ARTICLE 63.

Pilots, appointed to take charge of a vessel either going up or down stream, will receive a ticket of embarkation signed by the captain of the port of Soulina, or by the chief of the river pilots, stating the names of the pilot, the vessel, and its captain, the vessel's draught, and the description of its cargo; the ticket will be dated.

Immediately on receiving the ticket of embarkation, the pilot will be bound to go on board, and to remain until the vessel has cast anchor, either at Soulina, or at its port of destination.

ARTICLE 64.

If the vessel should get aground, the pilot must exert every effort to float it again, he must obtain as promptly as possible, the requisite aid, and assist the captain in engaging, on the most advantageous terms, lighters and life-boats.

ARTICLE 65.

Immediately on the arrival of the vessel at the end of the river-voyage, either ascending or descending, the pilot who has taken charge of the vessel must report himself, if at Soulina, to the Port-Captain; if at Galatz or Ibraila to the chief pilot at the head of the river pilotage: he will give up to them the ticket of embarkation, mentioned in Article 63, make his report on the incidents of the voyage, and place himself at their disposal for the further requirements of the service.

ARTICLE 66.

The Port-Captain of Soulina will see that the list of second-class pilots prepared by him is always posted in a conspicuous situation: it will be his business to attend to the requests of masters of vessels demanding pilots to take them up stream.

He will receive the reports of pilots who have piloted vessels coming down stream, and assist them to return as quickly as possible to their usual stations.

The chief pilot, specially appointed to superintend the river pilotage, will direct the service along the entire line, served by second-class pilots, and more particularly at Galatz and Ibraila; he will see that every vessel descending the river is provided with a licensed pilot, and will keep up constant communication with the Port-Captain of Soulina, to acquaint him with the requirements of the service.

ARTICLE 67.

The relations of the chief pilots appointed to superintend the river pilotage, to the local authorities of the ports on the Danube, where this officer exercises his functions, will be regulated hereafter by special provisions.

ARTICLE 68.

Pilots will be personally responsible that vessels piloted by them conform with the provisions of the Regulations of the 27th June, 1860, on the administration of the river, and especially with those contained in Articles 26 to 34; they will be bound to inform the captain of the port of Soulina immediately on arriving at the port, of any infraction committed whilst they were on board.

ARTICLE 69.

The provisions of Articles 17, 19, 30, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 48, 49, 50 and 51, of the present 1862.

Regulations concerning pilotage on the bar, will be equally applicable to the river pilotage.

ARTICLE 70.

The Pilotage Regulations of 9th October, 1857, will cease to be law from the day when the present regulations shall come into force.

Given at Galatz, the 9th July, 1860.

APPENDIX TO PROTOCOL, No. CXVIII.

Provisional Regulations for the Lighter Service on the Lower Danube.

§ 1st.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 1.

Lighterage operations are divided into two classes—

1st. Operations purely local, performed by a sea-going ship, which, to enable it to cross the Soulina bar, discharges all or part of its cargo into a smaller vessel, with the intention of re-shipping it either in the roads in the case of a vessel leaving the river for the sea, or in the port if the ship should enter the Danube from the sea.

2nd. Coasting lighterage operations performed by sailing-vessels or steam-transports, which load a cargo in one of the ports of the Lower Danube, situated between Ibraila and Soulina, and ship it for farther transport on board a sea-going vessel at anchor in the port, or in the roads of Soulina.

ARTICLE 2.

Lighterage operations take place either directly between the proprietor or master of the lighter and the captain of the vessel to be unloaded, or indirectly through the intervention of an agent.

§ II.

LOCAL LIGHTERS.

ARTICLE 3.

Local lighterage operations are performed—

1st. By means of sailing-vessels specially appointed for the service, and designated under the name of lighters, properly so called.

2nd. By sea-going vessels of small burden, which act as lighters either regularly or casually.

3rd. By steam transport, with or without barges in tow.

ARTICLE 4.

No person will be permitted to act as master of a lighter unless his vessel has been registered at the office of the Port-Captain of Soulina, and a licence granted to him by that officer.

Such licence will only be issued to seamen who have given proofs of good conduct and capability by the production of authentic documents.

ARTICLE 5.

Before granting the licence, the captain of the port of Soulina will see that the vessel, destined to be used as a lighter, is inspected by a commission who will have to decide whether it is in good repair, and to state accurately its measurement in tons register, as well as its burden in kilos of Constantinople.

This inspection will take place once a-year.

The results will be recorded in a report, the original of which will remain deposited in the Port-Captain's office.

Any vessel which is found in an imperfect condition; that is to say, in such a state that the cargo will not be in complete safety, will not be permitted to be used as a lighter.

ARTICLE 6.

A register will be kept at the office of the captain of the port of Soulina, in which will be entered, in a single series of numbers, the names of vessels authorized to serve as lighters, as well as their burden and the name of their master or proprietor.

A fixed sum of 1 Dutch ducat will be charged for the entry of each vessel on the register, which amount will be paid into the Port-Captain's office.

ARTICLE 7.

The licence granted by the Port-Captain of Soulina to masters of lighters, in accordance with Article 4, will contain the registered number of the vessel, its name and burden, the name of its master, and the date of the survey to which it has been subjected, according to Article 5.

It will be drawn up according to the form appended to the present regulations—(vide Appendix, No. 1). The licence will be renewed each year, and should always be kept on board.

ARTICLE 8.

Every master of a lighter will be obliged to give security to the amount of 50 ducats. This sum, however, will not be required to be paid into the office of the Port-Captain of Soulina, but may be guaranteed by a person residing in one of the ports of the Lower Danube and well-known as solvent.

The licence will not be granted until such guarantee has been accepted.

The security cannot be withdrawn as long as the vessel continues to ply as lighter, and the licence, granted in accordance with Article 4, has not been returned to the Port-Captain's office to be cancelled.

ARTICLE 9.

The security of masters of lighters can be applied to the payment of fines to which they may be subjected in the exercise of their occupation.

In such case the vessel cannot continue in the lighter service until the whole amount of the security is renewed.

ARTICLE 10.

Every lighter must carry its register number painted in white on each side of the bow in Arabic figures a foot high.

ARTICLE 11.

If a sea-going vessel, furnished with regular ship's papers, should be employed occasionally to lighten another vessel for its passage of the Soulina bar, the captain of the vessel which is to serve as a lighter must make a declaration of the fact to the Port-Captain, who will grant him a permit on receiving, on deposit, the ship's papers.

If, on the contrary, a sea-going vessel should remain at Soulina to act regularly as a lighter, the captain must deposit the ship's papers at the Port-Captain's office, and declare that he is ready to comply with all the provisions of the present regulations.

Upon this declaration his vessel will be placed upon the same footing as a regular lighter.

ARTICLE 12.

Any individual or company, intending to establish at Soulina a service of lighters by means of steam-transports, must give previous notice of such intention to the Port-Captain, by depositing an exact list of the vessels destined for the service, and stating the class, names, numbers, and registered tonnage of the said vessels. The captain of the port will place this list in a separate register, and grant a licence after the annexed formula. (Appendix, No. 2.)

This notice will be in lieu of the formalities prescribed by articles 4 and 5 of the present Regulations.

If a service of lighterage is performed by a company regularly constituted, the security prescribed by Article 8 may be replaced by a simple declaration that the company conforms to the provisions of the present regulations.

ARTICLE 13.

Companies, or proprietors of steam-transports, who do not personally conduct the service, must be represented at Soulina by an agent whose name must be furnished to the Port-Captain, and who will be responsible to the latter as well as to merchant-captains.

In transactions with the Port-Captain, this agent may represent the masters of the lighters belonging to his principals.

ARTICLE 14.

Lighters, while remaining in the port of Soulina, will be subject to the provisions of the Provisional Police Regulations issued by the European Commission.

ARTICLE 15.

Lighters having gone alongside of vessels to unload their cargoes must not leave the said vessels before the latter have weighed anchor.

The captain of a vessel which has been lightened will have the option of placing, at his own expence, a guard of his own choice on board the lighter which may have received all or part of his cargo.

ARTICLE 16.

Lighters must have no empty spaces in the hold, except such as are mentioned in the report of survey.

ARTICLE 17.

A lighter having shipped its cargo must, before weighing anchor, have on board a crew sufficiently numerous to effect as promptly as possible the reloading of the cargo on board the vessel which has been lightened.

ARTICLE 18.

No lighter may leave the port of Soulina to repair to the roads without the permit of the Port-Captain.

This permit will not be granted, except on the payment of all claims that may be due, according to circumstances, in virtue of Articles 5 and 6 of the tariff of 25th July, 1860, and after the fulfilment of the following formalities :—

The captain of the unloaded vessel, as well as the master of the lighter, must present themselves together at the port captain's office, and state

1. The name of the vessel employing a lighter, its country, and the name of its captain.
2. The number of the lighter, its tonnage, and the name of its master.
3. The nature and quantity of the merchandise unloaded, and in case the quantity cannot be determined, the special clauses of the contract for lightering.
4. The sum agreed upon for the freight, if either of the parties require it, to be stated.

These declarations will be entered on a register kept by the Port-Captain, and signed by the parties interested.

ARTICLE 19.

The lighter's permit must be presented at the guard boat, stationed in accordance with Article 3 of the Police regulations, at the entrance of the port on the side towards the sea.

ARTICLE 20.

As a rule lighters must leave the port of Soulina, at the same time as the vessels which have been lightened.

The master of the lighter, who refuses to leave the port for the purpose of crossing the bar at the same time as the unloaded vessel, can be compelled to do so by the Port-Captain.

In case, however, a vessel employs several lighters, the Port-Captain will regulate their departure in such a way that they may not have to remain in the roads too long, without being able to effect the reloading.

ARTICLE 21.

A lighter that has returned alongside the unloaded vessel in the roads may not quit the latter, on any pretext whatever, before having reloaded its cargo, except in cases of circumstances beyond control.

ARTICLE 22.

Lighters, which re-enter the port of Soulina, after having lightered a vessel on the other side the bar, will present their permits at the guard-boat, stationed at the entrance (Article 19) where they may be inspected.

Lighters quitting the roads at dusk, or during the night, after having discharged the cargo, or a vessel that has left the river, are bound to cast anchor at a place especially provided for their mooring, and may not reascend higher until the following day.

ARTICLE 23.

If an empty lighter is required in the roads, either to receive the merchandize of a vessel which is not going to enter the river, or to receive all or part of the cargo of a vessel entering, the captain of the vessel moored in the roads and the master of the lighter must present themselves at the Port-Captain's office, make there the declarations prescribed by Article 18 above, and pay according to circumstances, the duties provided by Articles 5 or 6 of the Shipping Tariff.

After the completion of these formalities the Port-Captain will grant the permit to the lighter, who will rejoin in the roads the vessel requiring it. The lighter must not leave the vessel, should the latter enter the port, before it has reloaded the whole of its cargo.

ARTICLE 24.

As soon as the re-loading of the merchandise on board the vessel has been effected, the captain is bound to give a written acknowledgment.

ARTICLE 25.

The payment of freight for the lighter must be made by the captain of the vessel, using the lighter immediately the whole of his cargo has been reloaded on board.

Captains ready to leave the river to put to sea, may be required, should there be no stipulation to the contrary, to pay the amount of freight for lighters chartered by them into the Port-Captain's office at Soulina, who will give a receipt for the amount.

The sum so paid will be reimbursed to the master of the lighter on the production of the acknowledgment given by the captain in virtue of Article 24 above.

§ III.

Coasting Lighters.

Coasting lighterage operations may be performed either by steam-transports, with or without barges in tow, or by seagoing vessels furnished with regular ship's paper, or by sailing-vessels specially appointed for the lighter services, furnished with the licence prescribed by Article 4 above, and duly registered, measured and numbered, as is required by Articles 5 and 6 of the present Regulations.

ARTICLE 27.

Every transport serving as coasting lighter must be furnished with a certificate, which will be given to him by the proper Consular or local authority of the port in which he takes his cargo for the coasting voyage.

The certificate will be drawn up according to the annexed formula (Appendix, No. III.) and will state :—

1. The description and name of the transport, or in default of the name, its number, the surnames, christian names and nationality of its master and its tonnage.
2. The name and nationality of the sea-going vessel intending to receive the cargo either in the roads or in the port of Soulina.
3. The nature of the merchandize to be unloaded and its quantity, or if it happen to be an undetermined quantity, the special conditions of the lighterage contract.
4. And the freight agreed on, if either of the parties require its insertion in the certificate.

ARTICLE 28.

As soon as a coasting lighter arrives at the port of Soulina, the master will report himself at the Port-Captain's office, and present the certificate above-mentioned.

If the lighter unloads the whole of its cargo in the interior of the port of Soulina, it will be required to moor alongside of the vessel intending to receive the merchandize, and must not leave it until it has entirely finished unloading.

If the lighters's cargo is to be unloaded, either entirely or partly, in the Soulina roads, the delivery of the certificate will take the place of the declaration prescribed by Article 18 above, and the permit will be given to the lighter immediately on the payment of the duty to which it is subject, according to circumstances, in virtue of Articles 5 or 6 of the Tariff of 25th July, 1860.

ARTICLE 29.

The provisions of the present regulations concerning local lighters will be equally applicable to coasting lighters during their stay in the port or roads of Soulina.

Steam-transports, however, and barges in tow, will not be subject in returning, to inspection of the guard-boat officers ordered by Article 22 above, except when one of the parties concerned requires it, and in case suspected of fraud.

§ IV.

Lighterage by Contract.

ARTICLE 30.

Lighterage operations, either local or coasting, can be effected by the intervention of a contractor taking upon himself to obtain a special licence from the Port-Captain, and to furnish a security of 300 ducats, according to form prescribed by Article 8 of the present Regulations.

ARTICLE 31.

Every engagement having in view lighterage by contract must be stated in writing, as well between the captain of the vessel and the contractor, as between the latter and the masters of the lighters.

The contract will set forth all the conditions of the engagement, and will be authenticated at the Port-Captain's office.

ARTICLE 32.

The contractor, who does not superintend the service in person, must be represented by an agent furnished with a special and due power of attorney.

The contractor or his agent will act with the Port-Captain in the place of the masters of lighters engaged in contract.

ARTICLE 33.

The contractor will be legally responsible to the proper person for everything connected with the fulfilment of his contract, as well as for thefts and frauds committed by masters and crews of lighters employed.

ARTICLE 34.

Lighters, engaged by contract, are further subject to the other provisions of the regulations according to the class to which they belong.

§ V.

Cases of Uncontrollable Circumstances.

ARTICLE 35.

If, after crossing the bar, a loaded lighter is forced by bad weather to return to the port without putting all its cargo on board the vessel in whose service it is engaged, the master of the lighter will be bound to present himself immediately at the Port-Captain's office, to make a declaration of the fact: he will then take the moorings specially assigned to him.

If the said vessel remains in the Soulina Roads the master of the lighter must go alongside and put the cargo on board as soon as circumstances permit.

He will not be allowed any increase of freight money, whatever the time may be during which he may have had on board the lighter, the cargo of the said vessel.

ARTICLE 36.

When a vessel is forced by stress of weather, to quit the roads of Soulina, leaving all or part of its cargo on board a lighter, the master of the lighter will be bound to return to port, and to retain his cargo on board.

He must without delay make his declaration to the Port-Captain, who will order the fact to be made public, and take all other necessary steps for enabling those concerned to present themselves, and for protecting the interests of the said vessel, as well as those of the lighter.

ARTICLE 37.

If, in the case provided for by the preceding Article, the said vessel does not make its appearance in the course of twelve days, the masters of lighters may demand of the Port-Captain authority to unload their cargo and to deliver it into the hands of the proper persons, and they may exact payment of the freight money agreed upon, as if they had placed the cargo on board the said vessel, but without any addition.

If, before the expiration of the above specified period, the vessel returns to the roads and again puts to sea, the days that have elapsed will not be counted, and a new period will commence from the day of its appearance.

If the freight has been paid into the Port-Captain's office, in accordance with Article 25, it will be given to the master of the lighter immediately after unlading the cargo. If the freight-money has not been deposited, the patron of the lighter will have a claim upon the cargo, of which he can demand, through the agency of the captain of the port, sequestration or sale by auction, of a sufficient amount of the cargo as will cover the amount of freight.

As soon as the payment of freight has been secured, the cargo will be given up to such parties concerned as may justify their claims, in default of other proofs, by an attestation proceeding from the proper consular authority, taking on themselves to reimburse the expenses incurred for the preservation of the cargo.

If no interested party claim the delivery of the cargo within a period of one month from the publication prescribed by the preceding Article, the cargo will be sold by auction, and the produce paid as a deposit into the navigation chest.

In no case can the partial or entire sale of the cargo take place until three days after special notice has been given to the consular authority of the country to which the ship which has abandoned its merchandise may belong.

§ VI.

Cases of Fraud.

ARTICLE 38.

In case of suspicion of inaccuracy, or of false statement of a lighter's burden, merchant-captains can have the power of seeing the tonnage verified by a survey by officers of ships of war belonging to their own country stationed at Soulina, and in default of these, by a special commission named by the Port-Captain.

The expense of this survey will be borne by the captain who has demanded it, unless the inaccuracy or false statement is proved, in which case it will be charged to the lighter.

ARTICLE 39.

If, after the operation of unloading, there should be discovered on board a lighter a part of the cargo of the vessel employing the said lighter, and if the master of the lighter cannot prove that he has been prevented by circumstances over which he has no control from putting it on board the vessel to which it belongs, the captain of the port will immediately proceed to seize the lighter and arrest the master, who will be delivered up to the proper authority.

ARTICLE 40.

If the captain of a vessel employing a lighter has reason to think that part of his cargo has been detained on board the lighter chartered by him, he must make a declaration to such effect to the captain of the port, who will immediately order an inquiry, to ascertain the fact.

ARTICLE 41.

As soon as the theft is proved, the Port-Captain will cause the arrest of the master of the lighter, as well as of the crew, in order to place them in the hands of the proper authorities.

Steps will be taken at the same time, and without delay, to seize the lighter on board which the theft is presumed to have been committed.

ARTICLE 42.

The tribunal, before which the criminal action is brought, will determine the amount of damages to which the captain of the vessel to whose injury the theft has been committed, has a right.

The master or owner of the lighter on board which the theft was perpetrated, will, whatever may be the circumstances of the case, be held legally responsible, and personally liable to the master of the vessel employing such lighter, for the damages awarded to the latter.

The civil party whose rights have been acknowledged, has a claim on the lighter seized in execution of Article 41 preceding, and the sequestration cannot be removed by the captain of the port, unless with the authority of the tribunal before which the case was tried.

The captain of the said vessel can attach the security referred to in Article 8 above; this security will be liable, conjointly with the master of the lighter, for the restitution of the stolen merchandize or for its value.

§ VII.

Civil Dispute.

ARTICLE 43.

In case of dispute, either between the masters, owners, or contractors of lighters, and captains of vessels employing lighters, or between contractors and masters of lighters engaged by them, if either party demand the intervention of the Port-Captain, he will take such measures, as circumstances may require for the general interest of shipping.

He can, if required by the proper person, take provisional steps to establish the facts in litigation, and to secure the interests of both parties, his interference cannot exceed this limit, and he must leave to the proper civil authorities to examine and pronounce judgment in the case.

If a dispute arise on the subject of carrying into effect charter-contracts, the Port-Captain will draw up a report of the statements and claims of the litigating parties; he will arrange ex æquo et bono, the necessary preliminary measures, and afterwards refer the brief of the cause to the proper civil authority.

ARTICLE 44.

If the captain of a vessel in the roads finds it necessary to have recourse to the intervention of the Port-Captain in consequence of a difficulty with a master of a lighter, he must hoist his flag at the fore-top stay, above the bowsprit; at this signal, the captain of the port's boat must immediately proceed to the vessel.

The same signal must be hoisted by the master of the lighter, who, being in the roads, requires on his side the assistance of the captain of the port, against the captain of the vessel engaging the lighter.

§ VIII.

Infractions.

Whosoever infringes the provisions of Articles 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 27, 30, and 31, of the present Regulations, will be liable to a fine of 12 Dutch ducats, and 24 ducats in case of repetition of the offence.

The third infringement will be punished by a fine of 30 ducats, and the sequestration of his vessel for three months.

The vessel, moreover, will be liable for the payment of the fine incurred, and can be held by the Port-Captain till the fine is paid.

ARTICLE 46.

Every lighter which passes the Soulina Bar without being furnished with the permit prescribed by Articles 18, 19, 22, 23, and 28 above, will be liable to a fine of 6 Dutch ducats.

ARTICLE 47.

If, contrary to the provisions of Article 20, above, a master of a lighter refuses to cross the bar at the same time as the vessel with which he is engaged, the third of the freight money of the lighter will be seized and paid as a fine into the Port-Captain's office. The master of the lighter will also be personally responsible for the consequences of the delay caused by his negligence to the said vessel or its cargo.

ARTICLE 48.

Every infraction of the provisions of the present regulations, not provided for in the preceding Articles, will be punished by a fine of 4 Dutch ducats.

ARTICLE 49.

The Port-Captain, as a general rule, in his own right, will adjudge the infliction of the fines incurred by captains of vessels employing lighters, and by masters of lighters.

The amount of these fines will be paid into the Port-Captain's office, at Soulina, and employed for the relief of shipwrecked persons.

ARTICLE 50.

The present regulations will come into force the 1st September next.

Given at Galatz, 20th July, 1860.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

Whereas a great number of captains do not hesitate to discharge a part of their ballast, either in the roads of Soulina, or even when ascending the stream, in the shallowest part of the channel;

Whereas such a state of things causes great injury to the navigation; and whereas, in seeking a remedy the European Commission does but accomplish the task assigned to it by Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris, of 30th March, 1856.

After securing, as far as concerns the portion of the river between Isaktcha and Ibraila, the co-operation of the Governments of the countries bordering the river;

* Mention the nature and quantity of the merchandize, or, if it happen to be of an indeterminate quantity, the special clauses of the lighter contract.

† In the port or in the roads.

‡ Mention the amount of the freight money if either of the parties require it.

Doth hereby enact the following provisional Regulations :

ARTICLE 1.

No vessel may discharge sand, stones, or other materials forming its ballast, in the roads of Soulina, nor in the space included between the bar and the ports of Galatz and Ibraila, except in the places specially appointed for the purpose in accordance with Article 2 following. To discharge ballast in any part whatever of the bed of the river is peremptorily forbidden.

ARTICLE 2.

Special instructions, having for their object to appoint spots where the unloading of ballast may be effected, and the manner in which the unloading may be carried on, will be issued, if not already done, by the local authorities of Soulina, Toulitcha, Galatz, and Ibraila.

Full publicity will be given to these instructions.

The same authorities will fix the penalties, which will be incurred on account of infractions committed within their jurisdiction, and will see that they are enforced.

ARTICLE 3.

To secure the fulfilment of the preceding provisions, every vessel entering or leaving the port of Soulina for one of the places situated up the stream and mentioned above, must be provided with a certificate proving its entry in ballast into the Danube.

This certificate will be granted by the captain of the port of Soulina, and will state, upon the declaration of the pilot, who has conducted the vessel over the bar, the draught of water caused by the ballast.

Special directions, issued at the Port-Captain's office, will regulate this part of the pilot's service.

A note of the certificate in question will be made on the ship's papers.

Captains will be bound to prove their compliance with the provisions expressed in Articles 1 and 2 by producing the above-mentioned certificate, either on their arrival at their destination, or at Ibraila, in case their destination is situated above that port.

ARTICLE 4.

Every vessel that arrives, either at the place of destination, or at Ibraila, in case it is proceeding higher, with a less draught of water than that stated on the ship's papers will be liable to a fine of from 10 to 15 ducats. The infliction of this fine will be adjudged by the officers, appointed for the purpose.

The same penalty will be exacted from every captain or master who shall be convicted, either upon the evidence of witnesses, or upon any other proof, of having infringed the provisions of the present regulations, even though his vessel's draught of water be found to agree with that stated on the ship's papers.

ARTICLE 5.

In cases of refusal to pay fines incurred, or resistance to the proper officers charged with the verification of the draught of water produced by the ballast, proceedings can be taken through the agency of the legal authorities, according to circumstances, either by the arrest of the captain or the seizure of the offending vessel.

ARTICLE 6.

The amount of fines collected, in compliance with Article 4, will be applied to purposes of public utility, agreeably to the special arrangements made for the purpose by the respective local authorities.

ARTICLE 7.

Masters and captains will be personally responsible for infraction of the provisions of the present regulations committed by members of their crew.

ARTICLE 8.

The tribunals which will pass a final decision on appeals against the penalties inflicted by Article 4 above, will be made known hereafter.

ARTICLE 9.

The present regulations will be immediately carried into effect and made public through the medium of the authorities of the different ports and the Consulates of Constantinople, Soulina, Toulcha, Galatz, and Ibraila.

Given at Galatz, the 29th April, 1858.

*Board of Trade, Whitehall,
January 13, 1862.*

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Genoa, enclosing the following translation of a law with regard to the payment of anchorage and other dues on shipping, which has recently come into operation in the harbours of the Italian Kingdom :

CAP. I.

Anchorage Dues.

ART. 1. National vessels and foreign vessels placed on an equal footing with national vessels wherever they may arrive from, will be subjected to an anchorage fee of 50 centimes per ton measurement. The anchorage fee will become due on every time that a vessel arrives at any port, roadstead, or shore of the state, and performs any operation of commerce thereat.

ART. 2. Sending the boat ashore, delivering or receiving letters, or even mere samples, and filling in with provisions or ships' stores which may be necessary for the completion of the voyage, will not be considered as operations of commerce.

ART. 3. Vessels which embark or discharge cargo at more than one port, roadstead, or shore of the State, pay the anchorage fee at the place at which they begin the operation, and are exempt from it at those at which they continue or complete it, provided that in the interval they touch no foreign port ; if they touch a foreign port, harbour, or shore, except in the case of superior force, they will pay the fee as on first arrival.

ART. 4. Those vessels which in continuing the discharge of their cargo should ship other goods, or in continuing their shipment should discharge any portion of their cargo, will not be permitted to enjoy the advantages accorded by the preceding article.

ART. 5. The embarkation or disembarkation of passengers will be held equivalent to the shipment or discharge of cargo as far as concerns the application of the anchorage fee unless it happens by reason of illness, or in the case of forced or involuntary arrivals.

ART 6. Sailing vessels under the National Flag, or foreign vessels on an equal footing, and steamers exclusively used for towing ships, will be exempted from the fee established by Art. 1, on payment of fr. 1.50 per ton per annum, whatever may be the number of their arrivals during the year.

This annual fee is not subject to any deduction, whatever may be the month in which it is paid ; and the fees which may have already been paid under Art. 1 shall not be reckoned in diminution of the same.

Vessels under 40 tons burthen will pay the fee only once a-year, whatever may be the number of their arrivals.

ART. 7. Steamers, with the exception of those mentioned in the preceding Article, will pay the anchorage fee only once a-month, whatever may be the number of their arrivals, and of the commercial operations performed by them during the month in which they first arrived.

ART. 8. Foreign vessels, not admitted by treaty to the enjoyment of the same favour as national vessels, will be subject to double fees following in other respects the same regulations as are established for national vessels.

ART 9. In determining the amount of the fee payable by steamers, deduction will be made from their tonnage of 40 per cent. for the space occupied by the engine and accessories.

ART. 10. The vessels exempt from anchorage fee are :

Vessels of war of whatever nation they may be.
Boats used for fishing along the shores of the State, and those which are employed in the internal service of the harbours and shores.

ART. 11. Those vessels will also be exempt from anchorage fees, which, as soon as they are launched from the building yards of the kingdom, enter a harbour or roadstead for the purpose of completing the works indispensable for their navigation, and depart from thence without having performed any operation of commerce.

CAP. II.

Other Fees on Shipping.

ART. 12. National vessels and foreign vessels on an equal footing with them will pay an entrance fee of 5 cents per ton on entering the arsenals of the Kingdom.

ART. 13. At the expiration of a month after entering the arsenals the vessels will be subject to half the above fee for every month they remain there.

In paying this fee, a month commenced will be held as having been completed.

ART. 14. The provisions made by Art. 8 and 9, will be applicable in regard to the entry and sojourn in the arsenals.

ART. 15. For issuing a national bill of health the fee will be 5 francs.

ART. 16 to 20. Are not translated, being applicable only to Italians.

CAP. III.

General Provisions.

ART. 21. The charges for pilotage, measurement, and inspection of vessels, hire and use of materials, machinery, gear, and docks, and for dues on goods deposited on the moles, wharfs, and quays of the harbours and arsenals will be regulated, according to the locality, by Royal Decree.

ART. 22. By the present law all taxes and fees on navigation, tonnage, entry and clearance, and anchorage in the harbours and arsenals, light dues, embarkation and disembarkation of passengers, naturalization of ships, of chancellerie, of the officers of the mercantile marine, of the fund for the fisheries in the waters of the State and all the maritime dues not expressly mentioned herein, which until now were received under different denominations in the various provinces of the State are abolished; and, moreover, any law or regulation in respect to fees on shipping which may be contrary to the tenor of these presents is hereby done away with.

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 17,
 1862.

Whitehall, January 16, 1862.

THE following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Archbishop and Clergy of the diocese of York, desire to approach your Majesty with the expression of our most respectful sympathy and condolence under the deep affliction with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Majesty and the Royal Family.

We are persuaded that we are but giving utterance to sentiments shared by every one of our fellow-subjects, when we state that, by the lamented decease of the Prince Consort, we have lost one of the brightest examples, and one of the most consistent promoters of good that ever adorned a royal station.

It scarcely becomes us to speak of those less prominent virtues which we believe to have been daily exercised in the sacred privacy of domestic life, and yet we are conscious that a pattern was there set by the Prince Consort which it were well should be followed by every English family and household.

But on the Prince's claims to public gratitude and admiration we may not be silent ; for, in common with the whole nation, we have now to mourn the absence of the discerning patron of art, the assiduous promoter of science, the fosterer of every pursuit which can refine the taste and elevate the character—the advocate of every institution by which our social system can be ameliorated.

To us, however, as Ministers of Christ's Church, it more especially belongs, to honour and cherish the memory of him who, by his public countenance and counsel, effectually seconded the efforts of the Church for the extension of the gospel—proved himself the constant friend of the poor, and, by the promotion of piety and virtue, contributed to the advancement of the moral and religious condition of all classes of your Majesty's subjects.

We trust that your Majesty may derive some slight solace and relief under the burden of present sorrow, from the manifest tokens, that it is with no mere outward semblance of mourning, but from the depths of a loyal and attached heart, that a grateful people now deploras the loss of a Prince who shed a lustre on royalty by the noble use of opportunities which his exalted station afforded him.

But it is our more earnest hope that the prayers of ourselves and your Majesty's faithful subjects in general may so be answered that those consolations of Divine Grace in Christ Jesus, which the Saviour has mercifully promised to all the weary and heavy laden who come to him for rest, may be abundantly vouchsafed to your Majesty and the Royal Family, to the comfort and edification of your souls in this season of sore trial and affliction.

Foreign Office, January 14, 1862.

AN Address of condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, has been transmitted to Earl Russell, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to be laid before the Queen, from British subjects residing at Bordeaux.

Foreign Office, January 17, 1862.

COPIES of Correspondence with Her Majesty's Minister in the United States.

From Lord Lyons to Earl Russell.

Dated Washington, December 31, 1861.

MY LORD, (Received January 15, 1862).

THE Secretary of State of the United States has informed me that, having learned that Messrs. J. W. Zacharie and T. J. Rogers, American citizens, were taken from a vessel called the "Eugenia Smith," under the British flag, and under circumstances similar to those involved in the case of Messrs. Mason and Slidell, and that they are now confined in Fort Lafayette, he has caused orders to be given for their discharge, and permission for them to return to Norfolk, in Virginia, by way of Fortress Monroe.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) LYONS.

Extract of a Despatch from Lord Lyons to Earl Russell.

Dated Washington, December 31, 1861.

(Received January 15, 1862).

I HAVE the honor to enclose, herewith, to your Lordship a copy of a note from Mr. Seward to the Secretary of the Navy, which has been communicated to me to-day by Mr. Seward, referring to the fact of a British schooner, the "James Campbell," captured for breach of blockade, having been brought into New York, with the British flag flying under that of the United States; Mr. Seward condemns this act in the strongest terms; the act was disavowed with equal promptitude by the naval authorities of the United States, under whose notice it was brought.

Enclosure in Lord Lyons' Despatch.

*Department of State, Washington,
December 31, 1861.*

To the Honourable Gideon Welles,

SIR. Secretary of the Navy.

THIS Department has received unofficial information that the schooner "James Campbell," captured by the blockading squadron, was carried into New York with the British flag flying under that of the United States. This unseemly act must have been occasioned by a misapprehension of his duty by the officer who ordered or allowed it. I will, consequently, thank you to give such orders as may tend to prevent a repetition of the same.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

Extract of a Despatch from Lord Lyons to Earl Russell.

*Dated Washington,
December 31, 1861.*

"I HAVE the honor to enclose, herewith, to you a copy of a note from Mr. Seward to the Secretary of the Navy, which has been communicated to me to-day by Mr. Seward. It refers to the circumstances of an oath having been exacted as a condition of release, by the Commander of the United States steamer, from three British seamen, captured for breach of blockade, to the effect that they should undertake not to be employed in similar proceeding for the future. Your Lordship will see that Mr. Seward strongly condemns this act, and releases the seamen from the obligation taken by them."

Enclosure in extract from Lord Lyons' Despatch of December 31, 1861.

*Department of State, Washington,
December 31, 1861.*

To the Honourable Gideon Welles.

SIR,

"THIS Department has been informally apprized that Commander Woodhall, of the United States steamer 'Connecticut,' recently exacted as a condition of the release of members of the crew of the British schooner 'Adeline,' captured for a breach of the blockade, that they should enter into an engagement not to be employed in a similar proceeding in future. It occurs to this Department that, as the requirement referred to is not warranted by public law, the commanders of blockading vessels should be instructed not to exact any similar condition for the release of persons found on board vessels charged with a breach of the blockade. It may be lawful to detain such persons as witnesses, when their testimony may be indispensable to the administration of justice; but when captured in a neutral ship, they cannot be considered, and ought not to be treated, as prisoners of war. Angus Smith, John Mooney, and John H. McHenry, the alleged British subjects above referred to, are consequently to be considered as absolved from the obligation represented to have been required of them by Commander Woodhall.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) WILLIAM H. SEWARD."

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 21,
 1862.

Whitehall, January 20, 1862.

THE following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Ministers and Elders met in the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, actuated by the feelings which now move the hearts of all your Majesty's subjects, desire humbly to approach the Throne with the expression of our heartfelt sympathy in this the time of your deepest sorrow.

Deploring the bereavement with which it has pleased Almighty God in his unsearchable wisdom to visit your Majesty and the Royal Family, by removing a Husband and a Father most justly beloved, we remember with gratitude the many virtues by which the great, the good, and illustrious Prince was distinguished; and while we reflect on the testimony which men of all classes have borne to his character and attainments, to his sagacity, his wisdom, his devotion to the best interests of this country, and, above all to his Christian faith and love, we are encouraged to hope that the memory of his private as well as of his public virtues may now help to soothe your Majesty's grief, and to strengthen the joyful hope that he is now blessed with the dead in Christ, "who rest from their labours, and whose works do follow them."

Bowing with humble submission to the will of God, and convinced how small is the consolation which the sympathies even of a loyal and attached people can impart, we are thankful, in approaching your Majesty, to be enabled to dwell on the comforting promises and declarations of God's Word, wherein we are assured that "whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth," that though now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous but grievous, "nevertheless, afterwards it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby," and that "a father of the fatherless, and a judge of the widows is God in his holy habitation."

And comforted we are to learn that these and such blessed truths are, through Divine grace, the means of enabling your Majesty to bear your irreparable loss, and to discharge the duties of a Sovereign and a Mother.

That the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ may comfort, support, and bless your Majesty, so that, as your sorrows have abounded, your consolations may much more abound; that His everlasting arms may sustain you amidst all the solitudes of your lofty station; that He may spare you to instruct and guide the children whom He hath given you, and that He may ultimately exalt you to a throne of glory in the kingdom where all the faithful in Christ Jesus shall be reunited, and dwell for ever in His holy presence, is the earnest prayer of

May it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, most loyal, and most obedient subjects, the Ministers and Elders of this Commission, now met, of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 24,
1862.

Whitehall, January 23, 1862.

THE following Addresses and Resolutions of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before the Queen.
1862. U

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge, humbly beg leave to approach the Throne with the expression of our deepest sympathy and condolence in your sad bereavement by the death of His Royal Highness Prince Albert, your Majesty's Royal Consort.

It would scarcely become us, in addressing your Majesty, to dwell upon the private and domestic virtues of that august Prince; but we may be permitted to express how greatly, in common with all England, we revere the memory of him who, for so long a period, shared in the joys and participated in the cares of your Majesty. We cannot refrain from bearing testimony to the lively interest which the deeply-lamented Prince Consort took in all that concerns the welfare of this University, and to the encouragement which he afforded to our pursuits in science and literature during the years in which His Royal Highness was our Chancellor, and we assure your Majesty that by no body of your Majesty's subjects is the loss sustained by the nation more deeply deplored, or the sympathy for your Majesty's grief more heartfelt than by the University of Cambridge.

We are fully aware that as none were so acquainted with this worth, none can feel his loss to the same extent as your Majesty.

It must, however, be a consolation to your Majesty to know, although in some respects a melancholy one, that the untiring zeal with which His Royal Highness devoted his vigorous understanding and his high intellectual attainments to the moral and social improvement of the country, excited the warmest admiration among all classes of your Majesty's subjects, and has secured for him a name that must ever rank as one of the most illustrious and beloved in the annals of British history.

In the midst of the darkness of human suffering God, in His mercy, sheds some ray of comfort. The Almighty disposer of events does not leave us under the pressure of the deepest affliction to sorrow as without hope. By the favour of your Majesty, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was recently a student in this University, and from the knowledge of his noble qualities, which his residence among us enabled us to acquire, we feel assured that both in domestic cares and in the administration of the affairs of the State your Majesty will receive from him all the comfort and assistance which a loyal, dutiful, and loving son could afford.

It is our humble and earnest prayer to Almighty God that your Majesty may be long preserved to reign over a contented and religious people, and that your Majesty and your Royal House may be ever sustained by His grace, protection, and blessing.

Foreign Office, January 28, 1862.

COPIES of Correspondence with her Majesty's Minister in the United States.

Earl Russell to Lord Lyons.

MY LORD, Foreign Office, January 23, 1862.

I MENTIONED, in my despatch of the 10th instant that Her Majesty's Government differed from Mr. Seward in some of the conclusions at which he had arrived ; and that I should state to you on a future occasion wherein these differences consisted. I now proceed to do so.

It is necessary to observe that I propose to discuss the questions involved in this correspondence solely on the principles of international law. Mr. Seward himself, speaking of the capture of the four gentlemen taken from on board the "Trent," says: "The question before us is whether this proceeding was authorized by and conducted according to the law of nations." This is, in fact, the nature of the question which has been, but happily is no longer at issue. It concerned the respective rights of belligerents and of neutrals. We must, therefore, discard entirely from our minds the allegation that the captured persons were rebels, and we must consider them only as enemies of the United States at war with its Government, for that is the ground on which Mr. Seward ultimately places the discussion. It is the only ground upon which foreign Governments can treat it.

The first inquiry that arises, therefore, is, as Mr. Seward states it, "Were the persons named, and their supposed despatches contraband of war?"

Upon this question Her Majesty's Government differ entirely from Mr. Seward.

The general right and duty of a neutral Power to maintain its own communications and friendly relations with both belligerents cannot be disputed. "A neutral nation," says Vattel,* "continues, with the two parties at war, in the several relations Nature has placed between nations. It is ready to perform towards both of them all the duties of humanity, reciprocally due from nation to nation." In the performance of these duties, on both sides, the neutral nation has itself a most direct and material interest ; especially when it has numerous citizens resident in the territories of both belligerents ; and when its citizens, resident both there and at home, have property of great value in the territories of the belligerents, which may be exposed to danger from acts of confiscation and violence if the protection of their own Government should be withheld. This is the case with respect to British subjects during the present civil war in North America.

Acting upon these principles, Sir William Scott, in the case of the "Caroline,"† during the war between Great Britain and France, decided that the carrying of despatches from the French Ambassador resident in the United States to the Government of France by an United States' merchant-ship was no violation of the neutrality of the United States in the war between Great Britain and France, and that such despatches could not be treated as contraband of war. "The neutral country," he said "has a right to preserve its relations with the enemy, and you are not at liberty to conclude that any communication between them can partake, in any degree, of the nature of hostility against you. The enemy may have its hostile projects to be attempted with the neutral State, but your reliance is on the integrity of that neutral State, that it will not favour nor participate in such designs, but, as far as its own councils and actions are concerned, will oppose them. And if there should be private reasons to suppose that this confidence in the good faith of the neutral State has a doubtful foundation, that is matter for the caution of the Government, to be counteracted by just measures of preventive policy ; but it is no ground on which this Court can pronounce that the neutral carrier has violated his duty by bearing despatches, which, as far as he can know, may be presumed to be of an innocent nature, and in the maintenance of a pacific connection." And he continues, shortly afterwards : "It is to be considered also, with regard to this question, what may be due to the convenience of the neutral State ; for its interest may require that the intercourse of correspondence with the enemy's country should not be altogether interdicted. It might be thought to amount almost to a declaration that an Ambassador from the enemy shall not reside in the neutral State if he is declared to be debarred from the only means of communicating with his own. For to what useful purpose can he reside there without the opportunities of such a communication ? It is too much to say that all the business of the two States shall be transacted by the Minister of the neutral State resident in the enemy's country. The practice of nations has allowed to neutral States the privilege of receiving Ministers from the belligerent States, and the use and convenience of an immediate negotiation with them."

* Vattel, book iii, cap. 7, s. 118.

† The "Caroline" (Chr. Rob., 461); cited and approved by Wheaton ("Elements," part iv, cap. 3, sec. 22).

That these principles must necessarily extend to every kind of diplomatic communication between Government and Government, whether by sending or receiving Ambassadors or Commissioners personally, or by sending or receiving despatches from or to such Ambassadors or Commissioners, or from or to the respective Governments, is too plain to need argument; and it seems no less clear that such communications must be as legitimate and innocent in their first commencement as afterwards, and that the rule cannot be restricted to the case in which diplomatic relations are already formally established by the residence of an accredited Minister of the belligerent Power in the neutral country. It is the neutrality of the one party to the communications, and not either the mode of the communication or the time when it first takes place, which furnishes the test of the true application of the principle. The only distinction arising out of the peculiar circumstances of a civil war and of the non-recognition of the independence of the de facto Government of one of the belligerents, either by the other belligerent or by the neutral Power, is this: that "for the purpose of avoiding the difficulties which might arise from a formal and positive solution of these questions, Diplomatic Agents are frequently substituted, who are clothed with the powers and enjoy the immunities of Ministers, though they are not invested with the representative character, nor entitled to diplomatic honours.* Upon this footing Messrs. Mason and Slidell, who are expressly stated by Mr Seward to have been sent as pretended Ministers Plenipotentiary from the Southern States to the Courts of St. James' and of Paris, must have been sent, and would have been, if at all, received ; and the reception of these gentlemen upon this footing could not have been justly regarded, according to the law of nations, as a hostile or unfriendly act towards the United States. Nor, indeed, is it clear that these gentlemen would have been clothed with any powers, or have enjoyed any immunities beyond those accorded to Diplomatic Agents not officially recognized.

It appears to Her Majesty's Government to be a necessary and certain deduction from these principles, that the conveyance of public agents of this character from Havana to St. Thomas on their way to Great Britain and France, and of their credentials or despatches (if any) on board the "Trent," was not and could not be a violation of the duties of neutrality on the part of that vessel : and, both for that reason, and also because the destination of these persons and of their despatches was bonâ fide neutral, it is in the judgment of Her Majesty's Government clear and certain that they were not contraband.

The doctrine of contraband has its whole foundation and origin in the principle which is nowhere more accurately explained than in the following passage of Bynkershoek. After stating in general terms the duty of impartial neutrality, he adds :—"Et sane id, quod modo dicebam, non tantum ratio docet, sed et usus, inter omnes fere gentes receptus. Quamvis enim libera sint cum amicorum nostrorum hostibus commercia, usu tamen placuit, ne alterutrum his rebus juvemus, quibus bellum contra amicos nostros instruatur et foveatur. Non licet igitur alterutri advehere ea, quibus in bello gerendo opus habet ; ut sunt tormenta, arma, et quorum præcipuus in bello usus, milites. . . . Optimo jure interdictum est, ne quid eorum hostibus subministremus ; quia his rebus nos ipsi quodammodo videremur amicis nostris bellum facere.”*

The principle of contraband of war is here clearly explained ; and it is impossible that men, or despatches, which do not come within that principle, can in this sense be contraband. The penalty of knowingly carrying contraband of war is, as Mr. Seward states, nothing less than the confiscation of the ship ; but it is impossible that this penalty can be incurred when the neutral has done no more than employ means usual among nations for maintaining his own proper relations with one of the belligerents. It is of the very essence of the definition of contraband that the articles should have a hostile, and not a neutral, destination. “Goods,” says Lord Stowell,† “going to a neutral port, cannot come under the description of contraband, all goods going there being equally lawful. The rule respecting contraband,” he adds, “as I have always understood it, is, that articles must be taken in delicto, in the actual prosecution of the voyage to an enemy’s port.” On what just principle can it be contended that a hostile destination is less necessary, or a neutral destination more noxious, for constituting a contraband character in the case of public agents or despatches, than in the case of arms and ammunition ?

Mr. Seward seeks to support his conclusion on this point by a reference to the well-known dictum of Sir William Scott in the case of the “Caroline,” that “you may stop the Ambassador of your enemy on his passage ;”‡ and to another dictum of the same Judge, in the case of the "Orozembo," that civil functionaries, "if sent for a purpose intimately connected with the hostile operations,"* may fall under the same rule with persons whose employment is directly military.

* Bynkershoek : “Quæst. Jur. Publ.,” lib. 1, cap. 9.

These quotations are, as it seems to Her Majesty's Government, irrelevant. The words of Sir W. Scott are, in both cases, applied by Mr. Seward in a sense different from that in which they were used. Sir William Scott does not say that an Ambassador, sent from a belligerent to a neutral State, may be stopped as contraband while on his passage on board a neutral vessel belonging to that or any other neutral State; nor that, if he be not contraband, the other belligerent would have any right to stop him on such a voyage. The sole object which Sir William Scott had in view was to explain the extent and limits of the doctrine of the inviolability of Ambassadors, in virtue of that character; for he says:—

"The limits that are assigned to the operations of war against them, by Vattel and other writers upon these subjects, are, that you may exercise your right of war against them wherever the character of hostility exists. You may stop the Ambassador of your enemy on his passage; but when he has arrived, and has taken upon him the functions of his office, and has been admitted in his representative character, he becomes a sort of middle-man, entitled to peculiar privileges, as set apart for the protection of the relations of amity and peace, in maintaining which all nations are in some degree interested."

There is certainly nothing in this passage from which an inference can be drawn so totally opposed to the general tenour of the whole Judgment, as that an Ambassador proceeding to the country to which he is sent and on board a neutral vessel belonging to that country can be stopped on the ground that the conveyance of such an Ambassador is a breach of neutrality, which it must be if he be contraband of war. Sir William Scott is here expressing not his own opinion merely, but the doctrine which he considers to have been laid down by writers of authority upon the subject. No writer of authority has ever suggested that an Ambassador proceeding to a neutral State on board one of its merchant-ships is contraband of war. The only writer named by Sir William Scott is Vattel,* whose words are these : “ On peut encore attaquer et arrêter ses gens” (i.e., gens de l’ennemi) “ partout où on a la liberté d’exercer des actes d’hostilité. Non seulement donc on peut justement refuser le passage aux Ministres qu’un ennemi envoie à d’autres Souverains ; on les arrête même, s’ils entreprennent de passer secrètement et sans permission dans les lieux dont on est maître.”

And he adds as an example the seizure of a French Ambassador, when passing through the dominions of Hanover during war between England and France, by the King of England, who was also Sovereign of Hanover.

The rule, therefore, to be collected from these authorities is, that you may stop an enemy’s Ambassador in any place of which you are yourself the master, or in any other place where you have a right to exercise acts of hostility. Your own territory, or ships of your own country, are places of which you are yourself the master. The enemy's territory, or the enemy's ships, are places in which you have a right to exercise acts of hostility. Neutral vessels, guilty of no violation of the laws of neutrality, are places where you have no right to exercise acts of hostility.

It would be an inversion of the doctrine that Ambassadors have peculiar privileges to argue that they are less protected than other men. The right conclusion is that an Ambassador sent to a neutral Power is inviolable on the high seas, as well as in neutral waters, while under the protection of the neutral flag.

The other dictum of Sir William Scott, in the case of the "Orozembo," is even less pertinent to the present question. That related to the case of a neutral ship which, upon the effect of the evidence given on the trial, was held by the Court to have been engaged as an enemy's transport, to convey the enemy's military officers, and some of his civil officers whose duties were intimately connected with military operations, from the enemy's country to one of the enemy's colonies, which was about to be the theatre of those operations, the whole being done under colour of a simulated neutral destination. But as long as a neutral Government, within whose territories no military operations are carried on, adheres to its profession of neutrality, the duties of civil officers on a mission to that Government and within its territory cannot possibly be "connected with" any "military operations," in the sense in which these words were used by Sir William Scott, as, indeed, is rendered quite clear by the passages already cited from his own Judgment in the case of the "Caroline."

In connection with this part of the subject it is necessary to notice a remarkable passage in Mr. Seward's note in which he says, "I assume, in the present case, what, as I read British authorities, is regarded by Great Britain herself as true maritime law, that the circumstance that the "Trent" was proceeding from a neutral port to another neutral port does not modify the right of the belligerent capture." If, indeed the immediate and ostensible voyage of the "Trent" had been to a neutral port, but her ultimate and real destination to some port of the enemy, Her Majesty's Government might have been better able to understand the reference to British authorities contained in this passage. It is undoubtedly the law as laid down by British authorities, that if the real destination of the vessel be hostile (that is, to the enemy or the enemy's country), it cannot be covered and rendered innocent by a fictitious destination to a neutral port. But if the real terminus of the voyage be bonâ fide in a neutral territory, no English, nor indeed, as Her Majesty's Government believe, any American authority can be found which has ever given countenance to the doctrine that either men or despatches can be subject, during such a voyage, and on board such a neutral vessel, to belligerent capture as contraband of war. Her Majesty's Government regard such a doctrine as wholly irreconcilable with the true principles of maritime law; and certainly with those principles as they have been understood in the Courts of this country.

It is to be further observed that packets engaged in the postal service, and keeping up the regular and periodical communications between the different countries of Europe and America, and other parts of the world, though in the absence of Treaty stipulations they may not be exempted from visit and search in time of war, nor from the penalties of any violation of neutrality, if proved to have been knowingly committed, are still, when sailing in the ordinary and innocent course of their legitimate employment, which consists in the conveyance of mails and passengers, entitled to peculiar favour and protection from all Governments in whose service they are engaged. To detain, disturb, or interfere, with them, without the very gravest cause, would be an act of a most noxious and injurious character, not only to a vast number and variety of individual and private interests, but to the public interests of neutral and friendly Governments.

It has been necessary to dwell upon these points in some detail, because they involve principles of the highest importance, and because if Mr. Seward's argument were acted upon as sound, the most injurious consequences might follow.

For instance, in the present war, according to Mr. Seward's doctrine, any packet ship carrying a Confederate Agent from Dover to Calais, or from Calais to Dover, might be captured and carried to New York. In case of a war between Austria and Italy, the conveyance of an Italian Minister or Agent might cause the capture of a neutral packet plying between Malta and Marseilles, or between Malta and Gibraltar, the condemnation of the ship at Trieste, and the confinement of the Minister or Agent in an Austrian prison. So in the late war between Great Britain and France on the one hand, and Russia on the other, a Russian Minister going from Hamburgh to Washington, in an American ship, might have been brought to Portsmouth, the ship might have been condemned, and the Minister sent to the Tower of London. So also a Confederate vessel of war might capture a Cunard steamer on its way from Halifax to Liverpool, on the ground of its carrying despatches from Mr. Seward to Mr. Adams.

In view, therefore, of the erroneous principles asserted by Mr. Seward, and the consequences they involve, Her Majesty's Government think it necessary to declare that they would not acquiesce in the capture of any British merchant-ship in circumstances similar to those of the "Trent," and that the fact of its being brought before a Prize Court, though it would alter the character, would not diminish the gravity, of the offence against the law of nations which would thereby be committed.

Having disposed of the question whether the persons named and their supposed despatches were contraband of war, I am relieved from the necessity of discussing the other questions raised by Mr. Seward, namely, whether Captain Wilkes had lawfully a right to stop and search the "Trent" for these persons and their supposed despatches; whether that right, assuming that he possessed it, was exercised by him in a lawful and proper manner; and whether he had a right to capture the persons found on board.

The fifth question put by Mr. Seward, namely, whether Captain Wilkes exercised the alleged right of capture in the manner allowed and recognized by the law of nations, is resolved by Mr. Seward himself in the negative.

I cannot conclude, however, without noticing one very singular passage in Mr. Seward's despatch.

Mr. Seward asserts that "if the safety of this Union required the detention of the captured persons it would be the right and duty of this Government to detain them." He proceeds to say that the waning proportions of the insurrection, and the comparative unimportance of the captured persons themselves, forbid him from resorting to that defence. Mr. Seward does not here assert any right founded on international law, however inconvenient or irritating to neutral nations ; he entirely loses sight of the vast difference which exists between the exercise of an extreme right and the commission of an unquestionable wrong. His frankness compels me to be equally open, and to inform him that Great Britain could not have submitted to the perpetration of that wrong, however flourishing might have been the insurrection in the South, and however important the persons captured might have been.

Happily all danger of hostile collision on this subject has been avoided. It is the earnest hope of Her Majesty's Government that similar dangers, if they should arise, may be averted by peaceful negotiations conducted in the spirit which befits the organs of two great nations.

I request you to read this despatch to Mr. Seward, and give him a copy of it.

I am, &c.

(Signed) RUSSELL.

Lord Lyons to Earl Russell.

Washington, January 14, 1862.

MY LORD, (Received January 27, 1862).

THREE days ago, in obedience to your Lordship's orders, I spoke to Mr. Seward on the subject of the plan adopted by this Government of obstructing the entrance to some of the harbours in the Southern States, by sinking vessels, laden with stones, in the channels.

Mr. Seward observes that it was altogether a mistake to suppose that this plan had been devised with a view to injure the harbours permanently. It was, he said, simply a temporary military measure adopted to aid the blockade. The Government of the United States had, last spring, with a navy very little prepared for so extensive an operation, undertaken to blockade upwards of three thousand miles of coast. The Secretary of the Navy had reported that he could stop up the "large holes" by means of his ships, but that he could not stop up the "small ones." It had been found necessary, therefore, to close some of the numerous small inlets by sinking vessels in the channels. It would be the duty of the Government of the United States to remove all these obstructions as soon as the Union was restored. It was well understood that this was an obligation incumbent on the Federal Government. At the end of the war with Great Britain that Government had been called upon to remove a vessel which had been sunk in the harbour of Savannah, and had recognized the obligation, and removed the vessel accordingly. Moreover the United States were now engaged in a civil war with the South. He was not prepared to say that, as an operation in war, it was unjustifiable to destroy permanently the harbours of the enemy, but nothing of the kind had been done on the present occasion. Vessels had been sunk by the rebels to prevent the access to their ports of the cruisers of the United States. The same measure had been adopted by the United States in order to make the blockade complete. When the war was ended, the removal of all these obstructions would be a mere matter of expense.—there would be no great difficulty in removing them effectually. Besides, as had already been done in the case of Port Royal, the United States would open better harbours than those which they closed.

I asked Mr. Seward whether the principal entrance to Charleston Harbour had not been recently closed altogether, by vessels sunk by order of this Government ; and I observed to him that the opening of a new port, thirty or forty miles off, would hardly console the people of the large town of Charleston for the destruction of their own harbour.

Mr. Seward said that the best proof he could give me that the harbour of Charleston had not been rendered inaccessible, was, that in spite of the sunken vessels and of the blockading squadrons, a British steamer laden with contraband of war had just succeeded in getting in.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 31,
1862.

Whitehall, January 31, 1862.

THE following Addresses of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and have been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the undersigned, Members of your Majesty's Permanent Civil Service, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the humble tribute of our condolence and heartfelt sympathy in your Majesty's deep affliction.

Seldom has a public loss struck so deeply into the hearts of a people as that which we have now to deplore.

While your Majesty can perhaps alone appreciate, in its full extent, the loss to the nation of the benefits which it possessed in the admirable example, the wise counsel, the judicious influence, the unostentatious usefulness of the Prince Consort, your subjects feel that your Majesty has also to endure the sudden termination of a course of domestic happiness rarely equalled, never surpassed, and which it was their pride and delight to witness.

But it is our comfort to think that, in your time of trial, your Majesty is not left without consolation.

Your Majesty has around you those upon whom the example and influence of their father cannot fail to have been deeply impressed, and who, we would humbly hope, emulating his virtues, will seek to soothe the grief and lighten the cares of their Royal Mother.

We trust, also, that consolation is afforded to your Majesty in the knowledge that, from the highest to the humblest in the land, there is not a family in which the sorrows of your Majesty are not felt and regarded as their own.

It is not for us to enlarge upon that higher source of comfort which alone can supply adequate support and consolation under the heaviest afflictions.

But in tendering to your Majesty the assurances of our devotion and sympathy, we humbly pray that He "who hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows" may support your Majesty in your grief, may heal your sorrows, and be your Majesty's strength in the performance of your duties.

COPY of a Letter from Earl Russell to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty :

Foreign Office, January 31, 1862.

MY LORDS,

HER Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing hostilities between the United States and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," and being, moreover, resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbours, ports, and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction, in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordships, for your guidance, the following rules, which are to be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's Orders and Directions.

Her Majesty is pleased further to command that these rules shall be put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands on and after Thursday, the 6th day of February next, and in Her Majesty's territories and possessions beyond the seas, six days after the day when the Governor or other chief authority of each of such territories or possessions respectively, shall have notified and published the same, stating in such notification that the said rules are to be obeyed by all persons within the same territories and possessions.

I. DURING the continuance of the present hostilities between the Government of the United States of North America, and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," or until Her Majesty shall otherwise order, no ship of war or privateer belonging to either of the belligerents shall be permitted to enter, or remain in the port of Nassau, or in any other port, roadstead, or waters of the Bahama Islands, except by special leave of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Bahama Islands, or in case of stress of weather. If any such vessel should enter any such port, roadstead, or waters, by special leave, or under stress of weather, the authorities of the place shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible, without permitting her to take in any supplies, beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use.

If, at the time when this order is first notified in the Bahama Islands, there shall be any such vessel already within any port, roadstead, or waters of those Islands, the Lieutenant-Governor shall give notice to such vessel to depart, and shall require her to put to sea, within such time as he shall, under the circumstances, consider proper and reasonable. If there shall then be ships of war or privateers belonging to both the said belligerents within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, in or near the same port, roadstead, or waters, the Lieutenant-Governor shall fix the order of time in which such vessels shall depart. No such vessel of either belligerent shall be permitted to put to sea until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the time when the last preceding vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war, or privateer, or merchant ship), which shall have left the same port, roadstead, or waters, or waters adjacent thereto, shall have passed beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

II. During the continuance of the present hostilities between the Government of the United States of North America, and the States calling themselves "the Confederate States of America," all ships of war and privateers of either belligerent are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's Colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, or of any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities of warlike equipment; and no ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted to sail out or leave any port, roadstead, or waters, subject to British jurisdiction, from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war, a privateer, or a merchant ship), shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

III. If any ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall, after the time when this order shall be first notified and put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands, and in the several colonies and foreign possessions and dependencies of Her Majesty, respectively, enter any port, roadstead, or waters belonging to Her Majesty, either in the United Kingdom, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, such vessel shall be required to depart and to put to sea, within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, roadstead, or waters, except in case of stress of weather, or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or repairs ; in either of which cases, the authorities of the port, or of the nearest port (as the case may be), shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours, without permitting her to take in supplies, beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use: and no such vessel, which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair, shall continue in any such port, roadstead, or waters, for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed:—Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases, in which there shall be any vessels (whether ships of war, privateers, or merchant ships), of both the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead, or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel (whether a ship of war, a privateer, or a merchant ship), of the one belligerent, and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship of war or privateer of the other belligerent ; and the times, hereby limited, for the departure of such ships of war and privateers respectively, shall always, in case of necessity, be extended, so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this proviso, but not further or otherwise.

IV. “His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, is pleased to authorize the immediate issue of a 1st distribution of the Delhi Prize Booty, at the rate of 86 (eighty-six) rupees, each share.

“The General Prize Committee will prepare as soon as practicable, statements showing the names of the European officers and soldiers entitled to share who have left India, and the amount payable to each, for transmission to Her Majesty’s Secretary of State for India, in order that the sums due to parties in England, may be passed to them at the earliest possible date.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 4, 1862.

Whitehall, February 3, 1862.

THE following Addresses of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and have been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the President and Members of the Royal Irish Academy, humbly approach your Majesty with the assurance of our devoted attachment to your Throne and person, and desire to express our heartfelt sympathy in the grievous and sudden affliction which has befallen your Majesty, in the untimely death of His Royal Highness, your Majesty's Consort.

In common with all classes of your Majesty's subjects, we lament the irreparable loss which the nation has sustained in the decease of a Prince whose wisdom and energy have been for the last twenty years directed to the promotion of every object conducive to the best interests of your people.

But, associated as we are for the purpose of cultivating literature and science in Ireland, we have a special reason to deplore the death of one whose rare talent, extensive information, and mature judgment were constantly employed in furthering the pursuits which learned societies are designed to foster.

The Royal Irish Academy cannot forget that His Royal Highness was once pleased to honour it with a visit, and to express the satisfaction with which he regarded the growth of its collections, and the enlargement of its means of usefulness.

We earnestly pray that your Majesty may be sustained by Divine comfort in this season of bitter trial, and that you may be spared through many years to behold the abundant fruits of your late Consort's beneficent labours, and to see the instructive example of his virtues redounding to the honour and prosperity of your great empire.

For the Council and Members of the Royal Irish Academy,

Charles Graves, Pres. R.I.A.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble address of the Committee of West India Planters and Merchants.

May it please it your Majesty,

The Committee of West India Planters and Merchants humbly beg leave to approach the Throne, and desire, as representing your Majesty's

The Speech of the Lords Commissioners to both Houses of Parliament, on Thursday, February 6, 1862.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

WE are commanded by Her Majesty to assure you that Her Majesty, is persuaded that you will deeply participate in the affliction by which Her Majesty has been overwhelmed by the calamitous, untimely, and irreparable loss of Her beloved Consort, who has been Her comfort and support.

It has been, however, soothing to Her Majesty, while suffering most acutely under this awful dispensation of Providence, to receive from all classes of Her subjects the most cordial assurances of their sympathy with Her sorrow, as well as of their appreciation of the noble character of him the greatness of whose loss to Her Majesty and to the nation is so justly and so universally felt and lamented.

We are commanded by Her Majesty to assure you that she recurs with confidence to your assistance and advice.

Her Majesty's relations with all the European Powers continue to be friendly and satisfactory, and Her Majesty trusts there is no reason to apprehend any disturbance of the peace of Europe.

A question of great importance, and which might have led to very serious consequences, arose between Her Majesty and the Government of the United States of North America, owing to the seizure and forcible removal of four passengers from on board a British mail-packet by the commander of a ship-of-war of the United States; but that question has been satisfactorily settled by the restoration of the passengers to British protection, and by the disavowal by the United States Government of the act of violence committed by their naval officer.

The friendly relations between Her Majesty and the President of the United States have, therefore, remained unimpaired.

Her Majesty warmly appreciates the loyalty and patriotic spirit which have been manifested on this occasion by Her North American subjects.

The wrongs committed by various parties and by successive Governments in Mexico upon foreigners resident within the Mexican territory, and for which no satisfactory redress could be obtained, have led to the conclusion of a convention between her Majesty, the Emperor of the French, and the Queen of Spain, for the purpose of regulating a combined operation on the coast of Mexico, with a view to obtain that redress which has hitherto been withheld.

That Convention, and papers relating to that subject will be laid before you.

The improvement which has taken place in the relations between Her Majesty's Government and that of the Emperor of China, and the good faith with which the Chinese Government have continued to fulfil the engagements of the Treaty of Tien-tsin, have enabled Her Majesty to withdraw Her troops from the city of Canton, and to reduce the amount of Her force on the coast and in the seas of China.

Her Majesty, always anxious to exert Her influence for the preservation of peace, has concluded a Convention with the Sultan of Morocco, by means of which the Sultan has been enabled to raise the amount necessary for the fulfilment of certain treaty engagements which he had contracted towards Spain, and thus to avoid the risk of a renewal of hostilities with that Power. That Convention, and papers connected with it, will be laid before you.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that She has directed the Estimates for the ensuing year to be laid before you. They have been framed with a due regard to prudent economy and to the efficiency of the public service.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that measures for the improvement of the Law will be laid before you, and among them will be a Bill for rendering the title to land more simple, and its transfer more easy.

Other measures of public usefulness relating to Great Britain and to Ireland will be submitted for your consideration.

Her Majesty regrets that in some parts of the United Kingdom, and in certain branches of industry, temporary causes have produced considerable pressure and privation ; but Her Majesty has reason to believe that the general condition of the country is sound and satisfactory.

Her Majesty confidently recommends the general interests of the nation to your wisdom and your care ; and she fervently prays that the blessing of Almighty God may attend your deliberations, and may guide them to the promotion of the welfare and happiness of Her people.

At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 5th day of February, 1862.

Whitehall, February 10, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects of the county of York, in County Meeting assembled, beg to offer to your Majesty our humble and sincere expression of condolence upon the deep affliction with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Majesty.

It is unnecessary for us to dwell upon the stainless character and domestic virtues of the illustrious Prince whose loss we, in common with the whole nation, so greatly deplore.

Amidst the general and unfeigned grief of the whole community, we remember with pride and gratitude that this county has been twice honored by his presence ; and we trust that the example he has left us of unwearied efforts to promote the essential good and comfort of his fellow creatures will not be without its fruits.

We had hoped that the same genius which first imagined and so successfully carried out the Exhibition of 1851, would have aided the inauguration and developement of that of 1862.

It only remains for us, whilst submitting ourselves humbly to the decrees of the Almighty, most dutifully to tender to your Majesty the assurance of our deepest and most heartfelt sympathy in this our common calamity.

Signed on behalf of the Meeting,

George Orby Wombwell, Sheriff.

The Certificate granted by the Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council on Education, under the Act 20 and 21 Vict., c. 48, to the Camden Town Family Home, at Camden Town, in the county of Middlesex, has been withdrawn by the Secretary of State, under the provisions of the Industrial Schools Act, 1861.

Notice is given in this Gazette by the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, that the Local Government Act, 1858, has been adopted within the township of Thurstonland, in the parish of Kirkburton, in the county of York.—Dated the 8th day of February, 1862.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 14,
1862.

Whitehall, February 13, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Archbishops and Bishops of the Irish Provinces of the United Church of England and Ireland, humbly tender to your Majesty our heartfelt sympathy under the affliction with which your Majesty has been visited.

In common with all your Majesty's faithful and attached subjects, we are filled with sorrow at the removal of one so beloved by your Majesty, and to whom the nation owed so great a debt of gratitude. We grieve for the bereavement of the Royal Family, and deeply feel that the country has lost in the Prince Consort its foremost example of domestic virtue, of prudence as an adviser, wisdom as a parent, refined taste as a patron of the Arts, and untiring zeal as an improver of the condition of the poor. "Whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise," the Prince Consort "thought on these things." And throughout your Majesty's wide dominions the memory of His Royal Highness will ever be gratefully cherished and revered.

To the Divine Comforter, the Holy Spirit, whom the Blessed Redeemer has promised to send for the consolation of the suffering members of His Church on earth, we earnestly commend your Majesty in our several and united prayers, beseeching Him to vouchsafe to your Majesty the succour and strength, the meek resignation, and the patience of hope, which your Majesty requires in this time of need.

Whitehall, February 17, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

Soldiers' Daughters' Home,
Hampstead, February 5, 1862.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the President, Vice-Presidents, Lady Patronesses, and General Committee of the Soldiers' Daughters' Home, beg leave in this dark day of your Majesty's affliction to offer to your Majesty the expression of our heartfelt sympathy and sorrow, and to assure your Majesty that our prayers are continually addressed to the Throne of Grace, that your Majesty may be sustained by a strength which is not your own under the sore trial with which it has been God's will to visit you.

We hesitated long before venturing on this step, fearful lest our doing so might be accounted an act of presumption, but observing how graciously your Majesty has been pleased to receive the Addresses of others, and remembering that he, whose loss the whole Empire deploras, was, not only the generous patron of our home, but most graciously opened the new buildings at Hampstead on the 18th June, 1858, we take courage to approach your Majesty and to express for ourselves and the children committed to our charge, the sentiments of loyalty to your throne, and devotion to your person, with which we are animated.

It cannot but touch your Majesty's generous heart to know that there is not one among all your Majesty's subjects who does not share your Majesty's great sorrow as if it were his own.

And we humbly trust, that in answer to a nation's prayer, your Majesty may receive, from on high, that peace of God which passeth all understanding, and which alone can bring comfort to the widow and the orphan.

By the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the 24th and 25th years of the reign of Queen Victoria, cap. 115, intituled "An Act for the Government of the Navy," it is enacted (inter alia) that the Admiralty may set apart any buildings or vessels, or any parts thereof, as naval prisons; and that any buildings or vessels, or parts of buildings or vessels, so set apart shall be deemed to be naval prisons within the meaning of the said Act. And that all powers and authorities with respect to county gaols or houses of correction which now are or which may hereafter be vested in any of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, shall, with respect to all such naval prisons, belong to the Admiralty; and that it shall be lawful for the Admiralty from time to time to make, alter, and repeal regulations for the government of any such naval prison, and of the officers and servants thereof, and of offenders confined therein; and from time to time to appoint inspectors and all other necessary officers and servants for any such naval prison, and, as occasion may arise, to remove the inspectors, officers, or servants of any such naval prison; and the senior officer at any port or place, or on any station where there may be any such naval prison, or such senior officer, and such other person and persons as the Admiralty may from time to time appoint, shall be a visitor or visitors of such prison; and every inspector, visitor, or officer having the charge or command of any such naval prison respectively shall, subject to such rules and regulations as may from time to time be made as aforesaid, have and exercise in respect of such prison, and of the officers and servants thereof, and of the prisoners confined therein, all the powers and authorities, as well in respect of administering oaths as otherwise, which any inspector, visiting justice, or governor of a county gaol or house of correction, may respectively exercise as such.

And whereas, in pursuance of the power and authority given to and vested in us by the above-mentioned Act, we, as Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, have deemed it necessary to set apart and appropriate a certain building belonging to Her Majesty, situate at Lewes, in the county of Sussex, and known as "Lewes Prison," as and for a naval prison, for the reception, imprisonment, and government of all such seamen, marines, and others, as may be ordered to be imprisoned under sentence of naval courts' martial, according to such rules and regulations as we may from time to time think proper to make for the government and superintendence of such prison, and for the officers and servants thereof, and of the offenders therein.

And we do hereby notify to all persons whom it may concern that we have set apart and appropriated the said building as and for a naval prison accordingly.

Given under our hands this fifteenth day of February, 1862.

Sam. Whitbread,*

Two of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral aforesaid.

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 20,
 1862.

Whitehall, February 21, 1862.

THE following Addresses of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which have been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and have been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851, incorporated by Royal Charter, humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty with the assurance of our devotion to your Throne and Royal Person, and of our deepest sympathy with your Majesty in the most grievous affliction which has, by the will of Providence, recently befallen your Majesty and the whole nation in the death of your Majesty's august Consort, our much-loved and revered President.

The great conception of the International Exhibition of 1851, for the promotion of which we were originally appointed by your Majesty, was due to His Royal Highness. A conception at once so novel and so comprehensive was only gradually understood and appreciated by the country at large ; and there was reason to fear, so great were the difficulties to be overcome and prejudices to be encountered, that the design itself might have resulted in failure, had not the same mind which originally conceived it watched over the whole process of its organization, and guided and directed its gradual development.

As an illustration of the unwearied assiduity with which His Royal Highness applied himself to the realization of this great scheme, we humbly take leave to mention that he never failed to preside over the numerous meetings of the Commission (except on one or two occasions when it met for formal business only) in the two years over which the original labours of the Commission extended, and in the ten years which have subsequently elapsed. His Royal Highness, with similar regularity, presided over many important Committees of our body, was daily occupied in superintending the various details of our proceedings, and was in constant communication with all classes interested in the undertaking.

The remarkable success which attended the Exhibition of 1851 induced your Majesty graciously to direct the issue to us of a supplementary charter, giving us full power to dispose of the large surplus which that success had left in our hands, in accordance with such scheme as might be devised by us; and under that Charter we now continue to exist as a permanent Corporation. In our new, as in our original position, the advantages derived from His Royal Highness's enlightened views and deep interest in all matters relating to Science and the Arts were equally felt. On the Kensington Gore Estate, purchased by us, there have already sprung into existence the important Government Department of Science and Art, the gardens of the Royal Horticultural Society, and the buildings of the proposed International Exhibition of 1862 (the natural and necessary complement of the Exhibition of 1851), in respect of each of which the effects of the fostering care of His Royal Highness are plainly discernible to all.

Irreparable as will be to us the loss of His Royal Highness's assistance in the discharge of the important duties graciously intrusted to us by your Majesty, it will be more than ever incumbent on us, animated by his example and reverencing his memory, to continue our exertions to perform those duties to your Majesty's satisfaction; and it is our earnest prayer that your Majesty—soothed by the remembrance of the good deeds of him of whom your Majesty has been thus prematurely bereft, and of the life devoted by him to assist in promoting the happiness and well-being of your Majesty's subjects—sustained by the love of an united family—and strong in the affections of a prosperous and contented people—may derive that support and consolation from Almighty God which He in His mercy never withholds from those who trust in Him.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 25,
1862.

Whitehall, February 25, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Deputies of the several congregations of Protestant Dissenters of the three denominations, Presbyterian, Independent, and Baptist, in and within twelve miles of London, appointed to protect their civil rights, your Majesty's most loyal subjects, firmly attached to your Majesty's Royal House, desire respectfully to express our deep sympathy with your Majesty, as our beloved Queen, under the severe bereavement with which it has pleased the Almighty Ruler to afflict yourself, and your Royal Family, and all your subjects, in calling away by death from your presence and your councils your most Illustrious Consort.

Although the early departure of His Royal Highness has prevented him from fully enjoying that measure of continually increasing public respect and approbation, which all your Majesty's subjects recognize as due to his pre-eminent virtues and merits; yet, we doubt not, that time will but add to their lustre, and that we, and our children, shall look back on his life as having ennobled all family and social relationships—that he will be regarded as one of the highest of the great men who have left their stamp in the improvement of their age—and that future generations of your Majesty's subjects, in seeing the results of his pious example and his benevolent labours, will perpetuate on him public benediction.

We earnestly pray that your Majesty may be comforted by faith in Him who is the Resurrection and the Life, and by the blessed hope of the reunion of the faithful in Christ; and that you may long be spared to rejoice amidst the admiring congratulations of your subjects in the growth and glory of the seed sown by the hands of your departed Consort.

Signed on behalf of the Deputies,

Apsley Pellatt, Chairman.

Foreign Office, February 24, 1862.

The Queen has been pleased to approve of M. Charles Bernard de Jussieu de Senevier as Consul-General at Malta for His Majesty the Emperor of the French.

War Office, 25th February, 1862.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to signify Her intention to confer the decoration of the Victoria Cross on the under-mentioned Officers and Non-Commissioned Officer, whose claims to the same have been submitted for Her Majesty's approval, on account of Acts of Bravery performed by them in India, as recorded against their several names ; viz. :

Bombay Artillery.

Major Richard Harte Keatinge (now of the Staff Corps.)—For having rendered most efficient aid at the assault of Chundairee, in voluntarily leading the Column through the breach, which was protected by a heavy cross fire. He was one of the foremost to enter, and was severely wounded in the breach. The Column was saved from a serious loss that would probably have resulted, but for Major Keatinge's knowledge of the small path leading across the ditch, which had been examined during the night by himself and a servant, who declined, when required, to lead the Column, without his master. Having cleared the breach, he led into the Fort, where he was struck down by another dangerous wound. The Commander-in-Chief in India states that the success at Chundairee was mainly owing to this Officer, whose gallantry, really brilliant, he considers was equalled by his ability and devotion. Major Keatinge was at the time a Political Officer with the 2nd Brigade of the Central India Field Force. Date of Act of Bravery, March 17th, 1858.

2nd Bombay Light Cavalry.

Captain James Blair.—For having on two occasions distinguished himself by his gallant and daring conduct. 1. On the night of the 12th of August, 1857, at Neemuch, in volunteering to apprehend 7 or 8 armed mutineers who had shut themselves up for defence in a house, the door of which he burst open. He then rushed in among them, and forced them to escape through the roof; in this encounter, he was severely wounded. In spite of his wounds he pursued the fugitives, but was unable to come up with them, in consequence of the darkness of the night. 2. On the 23rd of October, 1857, at Jeerum, in fighting his way most gallantly through a body of rebels who had literally surrounded him. After breaking the end of his sword on one of their heads, and receiving a severe sword cut on his right arm, he rejoined his troop. In this wounded condition, and with no other weapon than the hilt of his broken sword, he put himself at the head of his men, charged the rebels most effectually, and dispersed them. Date of Acts of Bravery, August 12th and October, 23rd, 1857.

Bengal Police Battalion.

Lieutenant Charles George Baker.—For gallant conduct on the occasion of an attack on the rebels at Suhejnee, near Peroo, on the 27th September, 1858, which is thus described in this officer's own words. "The enemy" (at the time supposed to have mustered from 900 to 1000 strong in infantry, with 50 cavalry,) "advanced. "Without exchanging a shot, I at once retired

"slowly, followed up steadily by the rebel line
 "for 100 yards clear of village or jungle, when,
 "suddenly wheeling about my divisions into line,
 "with a hearty cheer, we charged into and "through the centre of the enemy's line, Lieu"tenant Broughton, with his detachment, imme"diately following up the movement, with excel"lent effect, from his position upon the enemy's "left. The rebel right wing, of about 300 men,
 "broke at once, but the centre and left, ob"serving the great labour of the horses in cross"ing the heavy ground, stood, and receiving the "charge with repeated volleys, were cut down,
 "or broke only a few yards ahead of the cavalry.
 "From this moment, the pursuit was limited to "the strongest and best horses of the force, num"bering some 60 of all ranks, who, dashing into
 "and swimming a deep and wide nullah, followed
 "the flying enemy through the village of Rus-
 "sowlee, and its sugar-cane khêts, over two miles
 "of swamp, and 500 yards into the thick jungles
 "near Peroo, when, both men and horses being "completely exhausted, I sounded the halt and "assembly, and, collecting my wounded, returned "to camp at Munjhaen about 6 P.M." The charge ended in the utter defeat of the enemy, and is referred to by Lord Clyde, "as deserving "of the highest encomium, on account both of "conception and execution." It is also described as having been "as gallant as any during the "war." Date of Act of Bravery, September 27th 1858.

25th Bombay Light Infantry.

Lieutenant William Francis Frederick Waller.
 —For great gallantry at the capture by storm of the fortress of Gwalior, on the 20th June, 1858.
 He and Lieutenant Rose, who was killed, were the only Europeans present, and, with a mere handful of men, they attacked the fortress, climbed on the roof of a house, shot the gunners opposed to them, carried all before them, and took the fort, killing every man in it. Date of Act of Bravery, June 20th, 1858.

11th (late 70th) Bengal Native Infantry, and 53rd Regiment.

Lieutenant John Charles Campbell Daunt and (No. 2165) Serjeant Denis Dynon.—Lieutenant Daunt and Serjeant Dynon are recommended for conspicuous gallantry in action, on the 2nd of October, 1857, with the Mutineers of the Ramgurrh Battalion at Chota Behar, in capturing two guns, particularly the last, when they rushed at and captured it by pistoling the gunners, who were mowing the detachment down with grape, one-third of which was hors-de-combat at the time. Lieutenant Daunt is also recommended for chasing, on the 2nd of November following, the Mutineers of the 32nd Bengal Native Infantry across a plain into a rich cultivation, into which he followed them with a few of Rattray's Sikhs. He was dangerously wounded in the attempt to drive out a large body of these Mutineers from an enclosure, the preservation of many of his party, on this occasion, being attributed to his gallantry. Date of Acts of Bravery, October 2nd and November 2nd, 1857.

Ordnance Department, Bengal.

Conductor James Miller.—For having, on the 28th of October, 1857, at great personal risk, gone to the assistance of, and carried out of action, a wounded Officer, Lieutenant Glubb, of the late 38th Regiment of Bengal Native Infantry. He was himself subsequently wounded and sent to Agra. Conductor Miller was at the time employed with heavy howitzers and Ordnance stores attached to a detachment of troops, commanded by the late Colonel Cotton, C.B., in the attack on the above-mentioned date on the rebels who had taken up their position in the Serai at Futtehpore Sikra, near Agra. Date of Act of Bravery, October 28th, 1857.

Indian Navy.

Midshipman Arthur Mayo.—For having headed the charge on the 22nd of November, 1857, in the engagement between the Indian Naval Brigade and the mutineers of the 73rd Native Infantry, and Bengal Artillery, when the former was ordered to charge 2 six-pounders which were keeping up a heavy fire. Mr. Mayo was nearly 20 yards in front of any one else during the advance. Date of Act of Bravery, November 22nd 1857.

Whitehall, February 18, 1862.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, for the regulation of the duties of postage power, is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage, or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post, of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time by Warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be made, and it is provided, that the powers thereby given should extend to any increase, or reduction, or remission of postage.

And whereas further powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by an Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the post office.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain Warrant in writing under their hands duly made, and bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 19th day of July, 1852, did direct that certain rates of British postage therein mentioned, should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and any place in the German Postal Union, and between any foreign country through any part of the German Postal Union and any place in the United Kingdom, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium, by packet boat.

And whereas by a certain other Warrant in writing duly made and bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 27th day of June, 1859, after reciting the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, and that a Postal Convention had been then recently made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and that it was expedient that further regulations should be made for the transmission by the post, of certain letters in manner therein mentioned, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury did direct, that certain other rates of British postage therein mentioned, should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and certain foreign countries therein also mentioned, if such respective letters should be prepaid, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat.

And whereas a further Postal Convention has been lately made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government, and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and it has become expedient by reason thereof to extend the provisions contained in the said recited Warrant of the 29th day of June, 1859, to letters transmitted by the post between the United Kingdom of Hanover, now chargeable with rates of postage under the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said two hereinbefore recited Acts or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf do by this Warrant (under the

1. On every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any place in the Kingdom of Hanover, and on every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in the Kingdom of Hanover, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of two pence half-penny, if such respective letters be prepaid ; and if such respective letters be not prepaid an uniform rate of British postage of three pence half-penny.

2. And on every letter transmitted as is hereinbefore mentioned, exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and taken progressive and additional rates of postage, according to the scale of weight and number of rates following ; that is to say :

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage :

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage :

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage :

And on every letter so transmitted, exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage :

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken upon every letter so transmitted two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces shall be charged as an additional ounce ; and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this Warrant, if not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight:

3. If any letter shall be posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the Kingdom of Hanover, or if any letter shall be posted in the Kingdom of Hanover, addressed to the United Kingdom, and the postage paid thereon, shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such letter would be liable under or by virtue of this Warrant, every such letter shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the sum paid for postage thereon, and the rate of postage payable thereon, under or by virtue of this Warrant, as an unpaid letter, after deducting the amount of postage so paid thereon as aforesaid.

4. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and the Kingdom of Hanover, viâ France, nor to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and the Kingdom of Hanover, viâ Belgium, sent otherwise than in Prussian closed mails, nor to any letters posted in, or addressed to, any part of the Kingdom of Hanover, and transmitted by the post between any part of the Kingdom of Hanover and any of Her Majesty's Colonies, or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country, through any part of the Kingdom of Hanover and the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country, through any part of the Kingdom of Hanover and any of Her Majesty's Colonies or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom, and conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat, all which said respective letters shall be charged and chargeable with the same rates of postage as are now chargeable and payable thereon, and as if this present Warrant had not been made.

5. The terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852.

6. This Warrant shall come into operation on the 1st day of March, 1862.

7. The Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, duly made at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 28,
 1862.

Whitehall, February 27, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Commissioners appointed by your Majesty for the promotion of the Fine Arts, in connection with the decoration of the Palace at Westminster, desire to approach your Majesty with the expression of our devoted loyalty and attachment, and to offer our heartfelt condolence on the irreparable loss which, under the dispensation of Almighty God, your Majesty has sustained by the death of His Royal Highness Prince Albert, your Majesty's august Consort.

The grief which this immeasurable calamity has caused has manifested itself throughout the nation in the deepest sympathy with your Majesty and the Royal Family ; in the mingled feelings of admiration and sorrow with which the Prince Consort's public and private virtues are now remembered ; and in the emphatic testimony of those who have had peculiar experience of his high endowments and qualities. There is no society, institution, or commission with which His Royal Highness was connected which has not especial reason to deplore the loss of an enlightened guide, adviser, and friend.

During more than twenty years while His Royal Highness was our revered President, we had constant proofs of his profound knowledge of the fine arts, of his zeal for their promotion, and of his indefatigable attention to the duties and labours prescribed to this Commission.

His Royal Highness's predilection for the fine arts was ennobled by a desire to elevate their aim, and to develop their improving and humanizing tendencies. Those objects—the wise interpretation of the ostensible purpose of this Commission—were ever prominent in the mind of our illustrious President; dictating the principles which he maintained and uniformity proposed for our guidance, as well as the means best calculated to insure their fulfilment.

In dwelling on the Prince Consort's enlightened influence and exemplary labours in connection with this Commission, we cannot overlook the fact that the interest which His Royal Highness, from the first, evinced for the Fine Arts,—an interest graciously shared by your Majesty,—has been the chief cause of that wide-spread patronage of art which, stimulated by such auspicious examples, has become a remarkable characteristic of the present period.

Of the various useful objects to which His Royal Highness gave his attention, each may be said to have acquired importance from his comprehensive view of the largest and best results of which it was susceptible. If some undertakings were more generally conspicuous and more appreciable by the country at large than others, the same intelligence, perseverance, and greatness of purpose are to be recognized in all.

The knowledge of what the country has lost enables us, in some measure, to realize the extent of your Majesty's affliction. It is our earnest prayer that your Majesty may be supported by a merciful Providence in your bereavement; that you may be strengthened to sustain the burden of your increased duties and cares; and that, comforted by the affection of your Royal children, you may long continue to reign in wisdom over a devoted and affectionate people.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal subjects, the President, Council, and Fellows of the Royal Society of Literature desire humbly to approach your royal person with the heartfelt expression of our sympathy in your great sorrow, and to testify our sense of the irreparable loss your Majesty and your Royal house have sustained in the death of your illustrious Consort.

Sharing as we do the grief which has thrilled the heart of the nation as one man, we have a special reason, as members of a Literary Society, for lamenting the loss of one who applied the advantages of his high position, together with the powers of his well cultivated mind, to the advancement of useful knowledge among all classes of your Majesty's subjects. His exertions for the encouragement of literature, science, and the arts, will be gratefully remembered by all who cultivate such pursuits, and we believe that they will long feel the fostering influence of his bright example.

We earnestly pray that Almighty God will support your Majesty and your bereaved family in this your deep affliction, and will prolong your reign over a loyal and affectionate people for many years in wealth, peace, and happiness.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

We, the Inhabitants of the Presidency of Bombay, approach your Majesty with the deepest sympathy and condolence on the occasion of the heavy visitation with which it has pleased an All-wise Providence to afflict your Majesty and the British Empire by the removal from this life of your Majesty's beloved Consort. While we humbly present to your Majesty the expression of our heartfelt sorrow, we venture to offer at the same time the renewed assurance of our profound and respectful loyalty and devotion.

Distinguished by his veneration for the ancient constitution of the realm, by his wide-spread philanthropy, and by the eloquent and never-ceasing support afforded by His Royal Highness to the advancement of learning and to the tasteful cultivation of the fine arts, and of manufactures throughout all your Majesty's dominions, the late Illustrious Prince Consort adorned his eminent position by the practice of every domestic virtue, and of the most varied accomplishments.

It is the fervent trust of your Majesty's sub-

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 11,
1862.

Whitehall, March 10, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and have been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Principal of King's College, London, the Head Master of King's College School, the Professors, Lecturers, and Officers of the College, and the Vice-Master and Masters of the School, desire respectfully to approach your Majesty with the expression of our heartfelt condolence on the irreparable loss which your Majesty has sustained in the decease of your Majesty's Illustrious Consort.

Without presuming to intrude upon the sanctity of your Majesty's private and domestic sorrows, which the God of Patience and Consolation can alone assuage, we venture to assure your Majesty that, in common with every household throughout the country, we sympathize with your Majesty in the sudden calamity which has befallen the happy home of the greatest Sovereign in the world,—a home long and justly regarded as a pattern for imitation to every family in England.

But it is not only as individuals, but as members of a College, of which your Majesty is the gracious Patron, and which the lamented Prince Consort likewise was graciously pleased to countenance, that we desire to place on record the profound regret with which we regard this your Majesty's sad bereavement. By ever active and vigilant personal attention to the moral and material welfare of the kingdom ; by munificent and discriminating aid to works of charity ; by enlightened patronage systematically extended to art, literature, and science ;—in a word, by the recognition and encouragement of all that can promote the progress and education of the world, the Prince Consort won for himself a position of commanding influence, unexampled in the history of this country.

The memory of such a character cannot perish. The Prince Consort's name will go down to posterity associated with that of your Majesty, not only in the tenderest relations of mutual affection, but in that advancement of true civilization which distinguishes your Majesty's glorious reign.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To Her Most Gracious Majesty the QUEEN.

May it please your Majesty,

We, the Directory of the National Bible Society of Scotland, beg to approach your Majesty with the assurance of our devoted loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's person and Throne, and to offer our most fervent sympathy in an event which has bereaved you of so illustrious and beloved a husband—the Royal children of a parent so invaluable, and the nation of a personage so influential for the maintenance and promotion of its varied interests.

As Directory of a Society, united in their faith in the Bible as the Word of God, and in their desire to promote its diffusion among men, we recognised, with unfeigned satisfaction, the evidence which your late illustrious Husband gave of his having believed its sacred truths, and embraced its Divine and most certain hopes.

We pray that your Majesty's grief (with which none may intermeddle) may be assuaged by the strong consolations revealed in that Gospel which we seek to distribute among men, and wherein life and immortality are brought to light. May your Majesty be sustained by the strength, and enjoy the richest blessings, of the God of the Bible, who hath said to his Church and people, "Thy Maker is thy Husband, The Lord of Hosts is his name, and thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel"—"All thy children shall be taught of the Lord, and great shall be the peace of thy children."

Deeply impressed with the importance of the continuance of your Majesty's wise and benignant reign, we humbly pray that your Majesty's health may be preserved, and your life prolonged for many many years ; and that, under your guidance and sway, your children may be educated and matured in character, suited to their high position, and the nations over whom you rule be cemented in union, and advanced in prosperity, and be, by the grace of God, made more extensively to believe the word of life, and to become more largely instrumental in extending among mankind the knowledge of the gospel which we enjoy, and the inestimable benefit of the holy religion which we have received.

May it please your Majesty.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 18,
1862.

Whitehall, March 17, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Madam,

WE venture to approach your Majesty in this season of deep affliction, because the loss which has been so keenly felt by all classes of the community affected in an especial manner the Members of this Society.

From the moment^a when the late illustrious Prince assumed the exalted position which he held in this country, he appears to have entertained the design of elevating the intellectual condition of its people, a design which he pursued to the last with equal wisdom and constancy.

This Institution, the first established in England with the same great object, soon attracted the notice of the Prince Consort, and on two critical occasions when its existence was almost at stake, received from His Royal Highness invaluable countenance and munificent support.

Your Majesty has said that no one save your Majesty can ever know the full extent of the services rendered to his adopted country by your illustrious Consort, even without such testimony we should have been led to the same conclusion. But we venture to add that perhaps it may have been more difficult for your Majesty than for any of your subjects to perceive how completely His Royal Highness had won the gratitude and affection of the nation. There may be reason for regret that these feelings were not more clearly and loudly manifested while he was yet among us, but there is consolation in the reflection that men of such high resolve labour for a nobler reward than popular applause, and that in the consciousness of their own desert they enjoy the foretaste of a recompense which will outlast the most enduring monument.

We have the honour to be, Madam, with profound respect, your Majesty's most obedient and devoted subjects and servants,

William Lloyd Birkbeck, President,

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Deputy Wardens of the Stannaries of Cornwall and Devon, desire to approach your Majesty with profound respect to express our deep sympathy in the grievous affliction with which your Majesty has been visited, in the death of the Prince Consort.

Having had for so many years an official connection with the Duchy of Cornwall, and with His Royal Highness as the Lord Warden of the Stannaries, we feel that we should not be duly mindful of the ties which peculiarly bind the inhabitants of the Duchy to the Crown, and of the warm attachment and loyalty to the Throne which has ever distinguished them, if we did not entreat your Majesty to accept our respectful recognition of the illustrious character of the lamented Prince, and of the magnitude of the loss to the nation in one who was so earnestly devoted to the promotion of the best interests of the country, and who not only had at heart, but so perseveringly sought, by precept and example, to advance the moral and social condition of the people.

We do not presume to dwell upon the especial weight of your Majesty's loss and sorrow from this afflicting bereavement, but we pray that the Almighty, to whose decree we bow, may, in His mercy, trace out for your Majesty the path of consolation and peace.

beg to approach your Majesty with the expression of our most sincere sympathy and condolence on the great calamity with which it has pleased

Irreparable as your Majesty's loss may be in the death of your devoted Consort, we are sure that your Majesty will find lasting consolation in the reflection that throughout your vast realms your grief is universally shared, and that, on its own part, the empire has to deplore the death of a Wise Counsellor and a Firm Friend.

We humbly beg to assure your Majesty that we participate as fully as any of our fellow subjects in this sorrow, and that we feel it more than ever our duty to tender to your Majesty our sympathy and devotion.

That the Almighty, who in His wisdom has visited us with this great blow, may watch over and comfort your Majesty ; that in the virtues of your Royal Children you may recognise abundantly the noble qualities of their father, and that in their love and devotion, and the affectionate loyalty of your subjects, your Majesty may find consolation for many years, will be our earnest and constant prayer.

In the churchyard of Christ Church, Saint Clements, Norwich, from the first of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, to the first of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, on the conditions specified in the Order in Council of the twenty-second of February, one thousand eight hundred and sixty. In the churchyard of Warkworth, Northumberland, from the first of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, to the first of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

And whereas by an Order in Council of the tenth May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty, it was directed that burials should be discontinued, with certain exceptions, in the churchyard of Warkworth, and whereas it is expedient that the said Order be varied, so as to allow, in certain instances, the burial of widowers and widows of those already interred in the churchyard. Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said Order be now read and construed in the same manner as it would have been read and construed, if the following words, "and in other graves for the burial of widowers "and widows of those buried therein," had been inserted in the said Order, after the words "the "twenty-sixth of January, one thousand eight "hundred and sixty," in the 14th line of the paragraph relating to Warkworth Churchyard.

And whereas by an Order in Council of the thirtieth January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, it was directed that burials should be discontinued, with certain exceptions, in West Hackney Churchyard, and whereas it is expedient that the said Order be varied. Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that permission be granted for the use of now existing family earthen graves in the said churchyard, subject to the following conditions:— that the graves when required be opened without exposure of human remains; that one foot of earth be left undisturbed above the previously buried coffin; and that no coffin be buried without a covering of four feet of earth, measuring from the top of the coffin to the general level of the ground; and that the only bodies interred be those of the husbands, wives, parents, unmarried children, and brothers and sisters of persons already buried in the graves above indicated.

Also that interments in the Independent Chapel at Painswick should be forthwith discontinued, and in the burial-ground on the thirty-first of December, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and that in the meantime no coffin should be buried in a grave less than four feet deep, which can be opened without disturbance of coffins or of human remains.

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 28, 1862.

Whitehall, March 27, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the province of York, in Convocation assembled, desire to approach your Majesty with the expression of our profound sympathy under the sore affliction with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Majesty and the Royal Family.

In common with the whole nation, which mourns as one man for the decease of the Royal Consort, we deplore the loss of a Prince who by his ceaseless efforts and his bright example has conferred inestimable and enduring benefits on our country.

Uniting as we do with all our fellow subjects in our admiration of the devoted exertions of the Prince Consort to promote the public welfare by encouraging the progress of arts and the cultivation of science ; by elevating the social condition of the poor, and improving popular education ; we feel that it is from the support he gave to the best interests of morality and of sound religion, by the spotless purity of his life, and his willing aid to the church in spreading the Gospel of Our Lord Jesus Christ through the world, that he had the strongest claim to our veneration and love.

It is from these and such like services that the Prince whose loss we so deeply lament won the respect and affection of a grateful nation, and his cherished memory will ever serve to remind us that the path of true greatness lies in the direction of self-denial for the good of others, and that happiness is inseparable from an earnest devotion to the call of duty.

We would humbly commend your Majesty and the Royal Family to the keeping of Him who has promised to be a Father to the fatherless, and bids the widow trust in Him, praying that he will grant you, by the spirit of grace, those abundant consolations in Christ Jesus which the faithful in their sorrows never seek in vain. May your Majesty long be spared to rule this Empire with that wisdom which, under God's good providence, has been the stability of our times; and may you have the comfort of seeing the Royal children tread in the footsteps of their honored father, and thus prove a blessing to their country and generation.

C. T., Ebor, President.

(Received March 25.)

"BY a circular note, of which I do myself the honour to enclose a copy, Mr. Seward has announced to me, in common with the other Foreign Ministers here, that the regulation, some time since established by the State Department under the direction of the President, requiring all persons departing from or arriving in the United States to provide themselves with Passports, has been rescinded."

"I HAVE the honour to inform you, that the regulation, some time since established by this Department under the direction of the President, requiring all persons departing from or arriving in the United States to provide themselves with Passports, has been rescinded."

THE PASSPORT SYSTEM SUSPENDED.

The following order from the State Department, addressed to the Superintendent of Police in the city of New York, abolishes for the present the Passport system, which it was deemed necessary to adopt several months ago :

*Department of State,
Washington, February 17, 1862.*

John A. Kennedy, Superintendent of Police,

SIR, New York.

I have to inform you that it has been deemed expedient to rescind the order issued in consequence of the state of affairs in this country, making it necessary for all persons leaving the United States to provide themselves with passports, and you will therefore be pleased to consider that arrangement as being terminated. It will therefore be left optional with persons to provide themselves with passports or not, as they may deem necessary for their protection and security abroad. Foreign passports will no longer require to be countersigned.

I am, &c.,

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present 1862.

Majesty, for the regulation of the duties of postage, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage, payable by law, on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage, according to the weight thereof and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid; and it is provided, that the power thereby given should extend to any increase or reduction or remission of postage.

And whereas further powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by an Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the post-office.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain Warrant in writing under their hands duly made, and bearing date, at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 19th day of July, 1852, did direct that certain rates of British postage therein mentioned should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and any place in the German postal union, and between any foreign country through any part of the German postal union, and any place in the United Kingdom, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat.

And whereas by a certain other Warrant in writing duly made, and bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 27th day of June, 1859, after reciting the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, and that a postal convention had been then recently made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and that it was expedient that further regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of certain letters in manner therein mentioned, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury did direct that certain other rates of British postage therein mentioned should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and certain foreign countries, therein also mentioned, if such respective letters should be prepaid, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat.

And whereas a further postal convention has been lately made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and it has become expedient, by reason thereof, to extend the provisions contained in the said recited Warrant of the 27th day of June, 1859, to letters transmitted by the post between the United Kingdom and the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, now chargeable with rates of postage under the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us, in and by the said two hereinbefore recited Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided), order and direct as follows :

1. On every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any place in the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, and on every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of two pence half penny, if such respective letters be prepaid, and, if such respective letters be not prepaid, an uniform rate of British postage of three pence half penny.

2. And on every letter transmitted as is hereinbefore mentioned, exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and taken progressive and additional rates of postage, according to the scale of weight and number of rates following ; that is to say :—

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every letter so transmitted, exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken upon every letter so transmitted, two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as an additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this Warrant, if not exceeding one-half of an ounce in weight.

3. If any letter shall be posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, or if any letter shall be posted in the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, addressed to the United Kingdom, and the postage paid thereon, shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such letter would be liable, under or by virtue of this Warrant, every such letter shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the sum paid for postage thereon, and the rate of postage payable thereon under or by virtue of this Warrant as an unpaid letter, after deducting the amount of postage so paid thereon as aforesaid.

4. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis viâ France, nor to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis viâ Belgium, sent otherwise than in Prussian closed mails, nor to any letters posted in, or addressed to, any part of the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, and transmitted by the post between any part of the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country, through any part of the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis and the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country, through any part of the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom, and conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat, all which said respective letters shall be charged, and chargeable with the same rates of postage as are now chargeable and payable thereon, and as if this present Warrant had not been made.

5. The term "Postal District of the Prince of Tour and Taxis," used in this Warrant, shall include the States and Countries of Frankfort on the Maine, the Grand Duchy of Hesse, Hesse Electoral, Hesse Homburg, Schaumburg Lippe, Lippe Detmold, Nassau, Reuss, Saxe Coburg-Gotha, Saxe-Meiningen, Saxe-Weimar, Eisenach, Hohenzollern, Schwartzburg, Rudolstadt, and Schwartzburg Sonderhausen, and the other terms and expressions used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852.

6. This Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of April, 1862.

7. The Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, duly made at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 1, 1862.

Whitehall, March 31, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the President, Vice-Presidents, and Governors of the Royal Berkshire Hospital, in Special Court assembled, desire humbly to lay before your Majesty the expression of our heartfelt sorrow and sympathy in the irreparable loss, which your Majesty and the whole nation have sustained by the deeply lamented death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort. We feel, in common with all our fellow-subjects, how inadequate any words of ours must be to express the full extent of the loss which the nation as well as your Majesty, has to deplore in the removal of so bright an example of domestic virtue, and of wisdom and faithfulness in counsel in every season of public difficulty.

As Governors of the Royal Berkshire Hospital which from its opening has flourished under your Majesty's most gracious protection and patronage, we have especially to mourn over the loss of His Royal Highness, who condescended for many years to be the Patron of the Institution, and a kind and regular contributor to its funds.

We pray that it may please Almighty God to support and comfort your Majesty in this dark hour of deepest affliction, and to grant to your Majesty for many years the consolation of seeing your Royal children adorning their high station by following the steps of their beloved and lamented Father in the midst of your Majesty's attached and devoted people.

Signed by order and on behalf of the Board of Governors, this 18th day of March, 1862.

Richd. Benyon, President.

*Board of Trade, Whitehall,
April 1, 1862.*

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Russian Consul-General in London, the following copy of a Notice to Mariners, issued by the Department of Foreign Trade at St. Petersburg.

From the 13th of May of the present year 1862, it is enjoined to Owners and Captains of vessels arriving at Russian Ports, to have at the stern-post and at the stem of their vessels metal or other marks shewing their draught of water in English or other feet, or in French metres. These marks must be painted in oil and of a clear colour so as to be better visible, and in default of the indication of this measure, or in case of a false indication, if the mistake exceed a quarter of an inch to each foot of the real draught of water at the stern-post, Captains and Owners of vessels will be liable each time to pay a penalty of ten roubles, silver, per vessel.

CEREMONIAL TO BE OBSERVED AT THE STATE OPENING OF THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

THE Queen being anxious to mark Her interest in the success of an undertaking, in promoting which the Prince Consort had taken a most active part, has notified Her wish that the opening of the Exhibition should bear as much as possible the character of a National Ceremony. Her Majesty has, therefore, been pleased, under the present impossibility of Herself performing that Ceremony, to appoint His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, K.G., His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, The Lord High Chancellor, The Earl of Derby, K.G., The Lord Chamberlain, and Viscount Palmerston, K.G., G.C.B., to be Her Representatives to conduct it in Her name.

I. Her Majesty's Ministers and the Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 will attend in the procession, and Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition will invite the Royal and distinguished persons at the head of the respective Foreign Commissions, and the Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers accredited to this country, to take part in the Ceremony.

II. Her Majesty's Commissioners will seek the co-operation of the Guarantors of the Exhibition, Jurors, Members of both Houses of Parliament, Heads of the Church, Universities, Law, Army, Navy, and Volunteers, the Municipalities, Scientific and Artistic Institutions, the Local and other Committees aiding the Exhibition, etc., in giving to the State Opening a National character. For such persons there will be a number of reserved seats, but the number is necessarily limited. Whilst desiring to meet the wishes of all, Her Majesty's Commissioners must reserve to themselves full power of dealing with the arrangements according to their discretion. Her Majesty's Commissioners request that gentlemen occupying officially reserved seats will appear in Uniform, Official, or Court dress.

III. The principal Ceremonies will take place under the two Domes and along the whole length of the Nave. The Official reception of Her Majesty's Representatives, and of distinguished visitors taking part in the Ceremonial, will be held in the Central South Court. The Procession will start from this point and proceed to the West Dome. Here will be a Chair of State; and, after a verse of the National Anthem has been sung, an Address will be received. The Procession will then move down the Nave to the East Dome, where the Musical Performance will take place, after which the Procession will return to the Throne at the West Dome, a Prayer will be offered by the Bishop of London, and the Hallelujah Chorus, and the National Anthem will be sung. The Opening of the Exhibition will be declared by His Royal Highness The Duke of Cambridge. Military bands will be stationed in the South Central Court.

By order of Her Majesty's Commissioners,

F. R. Sandford, Secretary.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her Majesty, for the regulation of the duties of postage, certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed, and made chargeable and payable upon, for, and in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post, and by the same Act powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of postage therein mentioned.

And whereas further powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by another Act of Parliament, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her Majesty, for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the post office.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in them, in and by the said before mentioned Acts, and of all other powers enabling them in that behalf, did, by a certain Warrant under the hands of them, the said Commissioners, bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 16th day of October, 1857, (amongst other things,) order and direct that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, posted in the United Kingdom, might be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several rates of postage and to the several regulations thereafter contained. And the said Commissioners did further order and direct that, for the purposes of that Warrant, the terms "books, publications, or works of literature or art," should mean and comprise all such articles as in their general character were either literary, or consisted of printed, written, engraved, or lithographed matter (although not strictly literary), including books (whether printed, written, or plain), publications or compilations (whether in print or in manuscript), almanacks, printed or lithographed letters, and such artistic productions as prints, maps (whether on paper, or canvas, or cloth, and whether printed or written), and photographs when not on glass or in frames containing glass, and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum (whether printed, lithographed, written upon, or plain, or any mixture of the four), together with any binding, mounting, or covering of, upon, or belonging to any such article or production, or any portion hereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and including also any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book markers (whether of paper or otherwise), pencils pens, or other thing usually appertaining to any such articles or productions, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission which should be sent in the same packet with any such article or production to which they or it should belong. And the said Commissioners did, in and by the said now reciting Warrant, further order and direct that it should be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, by Warrant duly made at any time thereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates of postage thereby fixed or altered, or any of the regulations thereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates of postage, or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates of postage that might be payable were to be paid.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in further exercise of the powers vested in them in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, have from time to time by divers Warrant under their hands, authorized and directed that packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, and packets consisting of printed papers, might be transmitted by the post to and from the United Kingdom and certain of Her Majesty's colonies and various foreign countries, at certain reduced rates of postage, and under and subject to certain conditions, regulations and restrictions, in and by the said several Warrants respectively specified and mentioned.

And whereas in and by each of the said last-mentioned Warrants it was ordered and declared, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, by Warrant duly made at any time thereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates of postage thereby fixed or altered, or any of the regulations thereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates of postage or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates of postage that might be payable, were to be paid.

And whereas since the making of the said several Warrants by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury hereinbefore respectively recited and mentioned, divers photographs and prints of an obscene character have been transmitted by the post, under or by virtue of the privilege by such Warrants granted for facilitating the transmission by the post, of books, publications, or works of literature or art, and printed papers respectively, and it is expedient to prohibit the sending by the post of any such photographs or prints, and to make regulations for that purpose, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us, in and by the said before recited Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, Do, by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided, order and direct as follows :—

shall be sent by the post either within the United Kingdom, or to or from the United Kingdom or any of Her Majesty's Colonies or any foreign country, under or by virtue or authority of the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 16th day of October, 1857, or under or by virtue or authority of any or either of the said other Warrants hereinbefore recited, mentioned, or referred to, or under or by virtue or authority of any other Warrant heretofore made by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at a reduced rate of postage or otherwise, under or by virtue or authority of the regulations made and in force for the transmission by the post of any packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, or any packets consisting of printed papers, or any or either of them, anything in the said recited Warrant of the 16th day of October, 1857, or in any or either of the said other Warrants hereinbefore recited or referred to, or heretofore made by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

2. If any question shall arise whether any photograph, drawing, print, or other contents of a packet, which shall have been sent by the post is obviously of an obscene character, and prohibited from being sent by the post under or by virtue or authority of this present Warrant or not, such question shall be referred to the determination of the Postmaster-General, whose decision thereupon shall be final and conclusive.

3. It shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, by Warrant duly made, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other regulations in lieu thereof.

4. This Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of May, 1862.

Whitehall, April 3, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the Province of Canterbury in Convocation assembled, approach your Majesty with the expressions of our dutiful reverence for your Throne, and our loyal affection for your Royal Person.

We beg to be allowed to assure your Majesty that, in the heavy and well nigh overwhelming sorrow with which God in His inscrutable wisdom has recently visited your Majesty, we have most deeply sympathised with your afflicted heart; and as it is our special duty to do, have, without ceasing, offered up for your Majesty, and your bereaved family, our prayers and intercessions.

By none of all your Majesty's loyal subjects could the pure and virtuous life, and the high and noble character of your Royal Consort, be more valued than it has been by the Spirituality of your realm. Year by year we have thanked God that the Royal Family of our beloved Queen shone before the nation with so bright a lustre of family virtue; and that he who stood closest to your Majesty showed so conspicuous an example of subjecting the greatest gifts of intellect and of station to the unvarying law of duty. With the whole of a grateful and loyal people, we mourn for the Nation's loss, and your Majesty's irreparable bereavement.

We pray Him, who only can, to be your support and comforter in these dark hours. We beseech him to cheer your sadness, through the love of your Royal Family ; through the loyal affection of your people ; through the remembrance of the past, and the blessed hope of a future reunion, through Christ Jesus our Lord, with those who have gone before ; and, above all, we pray Him, by His own presence, to pour into your wounded heart His peace, which passeth all understanding.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 8, 1862.

Whitehall, April 7, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

AMIDST the sounds of mourning which are coming up from every quarter of the land, we, the Vice-Presidents, Committee, and Subscribers of the Windsor Royal Association, humbly pray to be allowed to approach your Majesty with the expressions of our heartfelt sympathy and condolence under the irreparable loss which your Majesty has so recently sustained.

Our words which can be no common words, even as our grief can be no common grief. We cannot forget that while others have known our much-loved Royal President, chiefly as the enlightened Prince,—as the thoughtful observer of the wants of all classes in his adopted country,—as the wise originator of plans for their social advancement by a rare combination of intellectual and moral excellencies, proving himself the fitting coadjutor to your Majesty in promoting the happiness of your people ;—to us has been conceded the privilege of a nearer and more intimate knowledge. It is in this and its kindred associations that he has come among us here in Windsor, giving life to the pictures of the interdependence of classes which in his spoken addresses he has so often drawn ; stimulating the higher ranks by his presence, encouraging the working man by his words of kindly sympathy, and causing us for the moment to forget his noble qualities of mind in the gentler and more endearing ones of heart.

It is because he has thus won on our own best affections that we think we can form some truer conception of the severity of the blow which has fallen upon Your Majesty.

We have looked—and not in vain—for topics of consolation. With the one great consolation of Christian hope, indeed, opening so abundantly to your Majesty, with the assurance that his early removal from duties so well discharged in this world, is but an early admission to a higher service, and that such a separation can be but for a time, all other consolations may seem poor and beside the mark ; yet, if others can at all find a place, we see them already in that appreciation of his great services to England, which, with a unanimity as touching as it is unparalleled, the combined voice of England and the civilized world is now recording ; we believe that they are destined to attain to yet larger proportions, when the several efforts which have received their impulse from him shall be found to be spreading through ever-widening circles, and shall come back to your Majesty in the ever-deepening acknowledgments of the grateful hearts of your subjects.

For ourselves we can but begin to give effect to our words to-day. Deprived of our great patron and head we enter upon a new era of our associated existence; but we think we can promise your Majesty that in this and its sister associations if the name is wanting the spirit of our late president will be found among us, and that the works which we have received from him will be cherished by us as a sacred trust, to be carried out now, to be handed down to our children, as at once the bequest and the memorials of the great and good life from which they sprung.

That He who "comforteth those that are cast down" may be with your Majesty in this and "in all time of your tribulation;" that He may give you strength and wisdom for the arduous duties which will now devolve upon you, and may at last re-unite husband and wife, parents and children, in His own everlasting kingdom, will be the prayer of your Majesty's humble and devoted servants.

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 15,
1862.

Whitehall, April 14, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty:

THE Presbytery of Uist having now met for the first time since the lamented death of the Prince Consort, unanimously agreed to seize the opportunity of sending a respectful and humble address to your gracious Majesty, in order to express our sincere and heartfelt sympathy with your Majesty and the other members of the Royal Family in the deep affliction which recently visit your Majesty.

The Presbytery of Uist, in common with the whole of your Majesty's subjects, are deeply sensible of the noble qualities of head and heart with which the late Prince Consort was endowed,—qualities which, though they enabled their possessor to leave the impress of his character on a grateful nation, yet in the nature of things could not be fully appreciated until he was removed hence.

It is, however, more especially as the pious parent of that Royal Family, whose godly example and influence are beneficially felt over the whole extent of your Majesty's dominions, that we, along with others, love to cherish Prince Albert's memory.

It is our fervent prayer to Almighty God that the bright prospect of a blessed hereafter, in God's House of Many Mansions, where there is neither sorrow nor sighing, and where loving friends shall meet to part no more for ever, may be a source of comfort and consolation to your gracious Majesty and the other members of the Royal Family during all the days of your earthly sojourn.

In name and by appointment of the Presbytery of Uist, Rod. M'Donald, Minister of South Uist, by Lochmaddy.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the following translation of a Portuguese Royal Decree, authorizing concessions of land in the provinces of Angola and Mozambique, "for the growth of cotton and other articles."

ART. 1. The government is authorized, after hearing the ultramarine council, to concede on ground rent all uncultivated or common lands belonging to government in the provinces of Angola and Mozambique to any societies, companies, or individuals, national or foreigners, for the growth of cotton or other articles, and the respective buildings and establishments.

§ 1. The concession is to be direct, and independent of public auction and of the formalities prescribed in chapter 4 of the law of 21st August, 1856.

§ 2. The ground rent is fixed at 10 reis per hectare.

§ 3. The extent of lands which may be conceded is to be regulated in harmony with the means which the contractors may command, and with the nature and location of such lands.

ART. 2. In each of the provinces of Angola and Mozambique the respective governor general, in council, is hereby authorized to carry into effect the concessions mentioned in the preceding article, and under the terms therein prescribed; provided, however, that each concession does not exceed 1,000 hectares.

ART. 3. All lands granted under the present decree are to be made available or under culture within a period of time not to exceed five years ; such period to be stipulated in the concessions.

ART. 4. Any such landholder, who, within two years shall not have under regular cultivation at least the fourth part of the lands conceded to him, shall incur the loss of the land which he shall not have made available, or shall pay from 100 to 1,000 reis (from 11 cents to 1 dollar 11 cents) for each year passed and for each hectare uncultivated, as stipulated in Article 7 of the law of the 21st August, 1856.

§ 1. Should the landholder pay the aforesaid fine, the time specified in the present article will be prorogued for one year additional. If, however, at the expiration of this prorogued period the aforesaid one-fourth part of the land be not under cultivation, the holder will be subjected to the loss of the uncultivated land, which shall then revert to the State.

§ 2. The dates stipulated in the present article are to count from the day whereon possession be taken of the conceded lands by the lessee.

ART. 5. It is hereby permitted to the lessee, during the term of ten years from the date of the concession, and subject to the fiscal competent authority, to import free of duty all materials, machines, and utensils necessary for the cultivation of said lands, for the buildings and offices to be constructed thereon, and for the carrying of the articles produced therein.

ART. 6. The government will decree the fiscal process to be observed for the measurement and delivery of all the lands to the lessees.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 18,
1862.

Whitehall, April 17, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Royal Burghs of Scotland in Convention assembled, beg to approach your Majesty to express the sentiments of deep and heartfelt sorrow with which we received intelligence of the death of your Majesty's illustrious Consort.

While we deplore the sudden and irreparable loss your Majesty, the Royal Family, and the nation have sustained by the stroke which has removed from the career of his usefulness, in the vigour of his days, a prince so conspicuous for his virtues and talents, and so eminently respected and beloved, we shall ever remember with profound thankfulness, the numerous benefits which His Royal Highness has conferred upon the people of this land by his public and private example. These will embalm his memory in the hearts of a sorrowing people and of their children's children.

That He, who in his inscrutable wisdom has seen meet to send this affliction, may grant such support as alone will enable your Majesty and the Royal Family to bear it with resignation is our sincere and fervent prayer.

Signed in name and by appointment of the Royal Burghs of Scotland in Convention assembled, and the Seal of the Convention affixed hereto, at Edinburgh, the 8th day of April, 1862.

F. Brown Douglas, Lord Provost,
Preses of Convention.

Foreign Office, April 17, 1862.

EARL RUSSELL, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has received from Her Majesty's Consul-General at Algiers, a copy of the "Moniteur d'Algerie," of the 5th instant, in which is inserted the following circular letter from the Governor-General of Algeria to the Prefects of Departments, relative to the abolition of passports between Algeria and Marseilles, and along the Coast of Algeria.

POLICE ADMINISTRATIVE.—PASSEPORTS.

*Mesures de tolérance à l'égard des Voyageurs.
Instructions Complémentaires.*

S. Exc. M. le Gouverneur-Général vient d'adresser la circulaire suivante à MM. les Préfets des Départemenas Algériens :

Alger, le 2 Avril, 1862.

Monsieur le Préfet, par ma circulaire du 6 Mars dernier, je vous ai fait connaître les mesures de tolérance qui avaient été concertées entre S. Exc. le Ministre de l'Intérieur et moi, au sujet des voyageurs se rendant de France en Algérie et vice versa.

L'exécution de ces mesures a soulevé quelques doutes que je vais dissiper en répondant aux diverses questions qui m'ont été adressées.

1re Question.—Pour les voyageurs qui se rendent d'Algérie en France, la dispense du passeport ne s'applique-t-elle qu'à ceux qui débarquent à Marseille ?

Marseille est le seul port de France où existe, quant à présent, un service régulier de transports de voyageurs entre la métropole et l'Algérie, et c'est la raison pour laquelle il a été seul désigné. Mais il va de soi que la mesure s'appliquera successivement aux autres ports Français, où des services de l'espèce viendront à s'établir par la suite.

Indubitablement, et afin de bien fixer les autorités Algériennes sur la portée des mesures dont il s'agit, je crois devoir reproduire les termes de la circulaire que M. le Ministre de l'Intérieur a adressée le 15 Mars dernier, pour le même objet, aux Préfets de France.

“ La formalité du passeport ne sera plus obligatoire pour les voyageurs de France en Algérie, à l'égard :

“ 2°. Des sujets étrangers qui, à titre de réciprocité, sont autorisés à pénétrer en France sans passeport ;

“ 3°. Des étrangers de toute nationalité déjà fixés dans l'intérieur de l'Empire ;

“ 4°. Enfin, des émigrants étrangers qui, nantis de contrats réguliers de colonisation délivrés au nom du Gouverneur-Général de l'Algérie, voudraient se rendre à leurs frais dans nos possessions d'Afrique.”

L'obligation du passeport n'ayant pas été supprimée à l'égard des Français qui voyagent dans l'intérieur de l'Empire, la mesure dont il s'agit ne saurait avoir pour effet d'attribuer aux Français Algériens une immunité dont ne jouissent pas leurs compatriotes de la métropole. Il sera donc prudent, à ceux qui auront à voyager dans l'intérieur de l'Empire, de se munir d'un passeport avant leur départ, afin de s'éviter les embarras que pourrait leur causer le nécessité de s'en faire délivrer un à Marseille.

Ma circulaire du 6 Mars dernier ne s'est point expliquée à cet égard, parce qu'elle n'avait à traiter que des mesures concertées avec le Département de l'Intérieur ; mais, puisque la question m'a été posée, je n'hésite pas à la résoudre selon l'esprit de tolérance qui a dicté les premières mesures. Je ne vois pas, en effet, de raison plausible, pour exiger de ceux qui voyagent sur le littoral ou dans l'intérieur de la colonie, une formalité dont ils sont affranchis, lorsqu'ils viennent de France.

J'ai décidé, en conséquence, que le passeport ne serait plus obligatoire pour se rendre d'un port à l'autre du littoral de l'Algérie, ou pour parcourir l'intérieur, à l'égard des voyageurs auxquels s'appliquent les mesures de tolérance qui font l'objet de mes instructions du 6 Mars dernier et de le circulaire de M. le Ministre de l'Intérieur, du 15 du même mois.

Il est bien entendu, d'ailleurs, que la suppression du passeport, dans les cas déterminés n'est nullement exclusive de la surveillance à exercer sur les voyageurs, au départ et à l'arrivée des paquebots, sur le littoral et dans l'intérieur de la colonie. La tolérance accordée à ceux qui voyagent dans un but d'affaires, de science ou de plaisir, ne saurait s'étendre aux vagabonds, aux gens sans aveu, aux repris de justice, aux hommes dangereux de toute espèce.

Ainsi, Monsieur le Préfet, dans l'intérêt de la sécurité publique, et en vertu des lois et règlements de police, les voyageurs pourront toujours être requis par les agents de l'autorité, de justifier de leur origine et de leur identité, et de produire, à défaut de passeports réguliers, des pièces de famille, des documents certains ou tous autres témoignages dont la valeur et la sincérité devront être vérifiées avec soin.

Recevez, etc.,

Le Gouverneur-Général de l'Algérie,
M. PELISSIER, DUC DE MALAKOFF.

[Translation.]

His Excellency the Governor-General has addressed the following Circular to the Prefects of the Algerine Departments :

Algiers,
April 2, 1862.

M. LE PREFET,

In my Circular of the 6th of March last, I acquainted you with the measures of tolerance which had been concerted by his Excellency the Minister of the Interior and myself, regarding travellers going from France to Algeria, and vice versa.

The carrying out of these measures has caused some doubts to arise which I shall dispel in answering the different questions which have been addressed to me.

First question:—As regards travellers going from Algeria to France, can only those who land at Marseilles dispense with passports?

Marseilles is at present the only port of France where there exists a regular service for the transport of travellers from the metropolis to Algeria, and therefore that port alone has been mentioned. But it is self-evident that the measure will apply successively to the other ports of France, where transport services of a similar kind will, in time, be established.

Second question:—As regards travellers going from France to Algeria, does the measure apply to all our countrymen without distinction?

Doubtless; and, in order to impress on the Algerian authorities the extent of the measures of which it is composed, I think it right to recapitulate the terms of the Circular on the same subject, addressed, on the 15th of March last, by the Minister of the Interior to the Prefects of France:

“The formality of the passport will no longer be obligatory on travellers from France to Algeria, as regards—

“ 1°. Our countrymen.

“ 2°. Foreign subjects who are by reciprocity authorized to enter France without passports.

“ 3°. Foreigners of all countries already domiciled in the interior of the empire.

“ 4°. Lastly, foreign emigrants, who, provided with regular letters of colonization, delivered in the name of the Governor-General of Algeria, would wish to visit our possessions in Africa at their own expense.”

Third question :—As regards French subjects coming from Algeria, would the dispensing with a passport no longer apply to them if they had to continue their journey into the interior ?

Obligation to carry a passport, not having been suppressed in regard to those French subjects travelling in the interior of the Empire, the measure could not have the effect of bestowing, upon the Algerian French, an immunity which their countrymen of the metropolis do not enjoy. It would therefore be prudent on the part of those who would have to travel in the interior of the Empire, to provide themselves with passports before their departure, to avoid the trouble which the necessity of their procuring them at Marseilles might occasion.

Fourth question :—Is the passport always obligatory for French subjects and foreigners travelling on the coast of Algeria and into the interior of the country ?

My Circular of the 6th of March last did not give any explanations on this subject, because it only treated of measures concerted with the Minister of the Interior ; but, since the question has been made to me, I do not hesitate to answer it, in accordance in the spirit of tolerance which dictated the first measures. In fact, I see no plausible reason why a formality should be demanded from those travelling on the shores or in the interior of the colony, from which they would be freed from, on entering France.

I have decided, in consequence, that a passport will no longer be necessary in travelling from one port to the other of the coast of Algeria, or in the interior of the country, as regards those travellers to whom my measures of tolerance, which form the subject of my Instructions of the 6th of March last, and of the Circular from the Minister of the Interior of the 15th of the same month, apply. Besides, it must be well understood, that the suppression of the passport, in certain cases, in nowise does away with the surveillance over travellers, on the arrival and departure of steamboats, on the coast and in the interior of the colony. The toleration granted to those who travel for the purpose of affairs, of science, or of pleasure, could not be extended to vagrants and vagabonds, to fugitives from justice, and to dangerous persons, of whatever kind they may be.

Therefore, M. le Prefet, in the interest of public security, and in accordance with the laws and rules of police, travellers may always be required by the agents of the authorities to make good their origin and their identity, and to produce, in default of regular passports, family papers, trustworthy documents, or any other testimony, the worth and truthfulness of which should be carefully verified.

Accept, &c.

MARSHAL PELISSIER,

Duke of Malakoff.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty for the regulation of the duties of Postage, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage payable by Law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid ; and it is provided, that the power thereby given should extend to any increase or reduction, or remission of postage.

And whereas, further powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by an Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post Office.

And whereas, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain Warrant in writing under their hands duly made, and bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers the 19th day of July, 1852, did direct that certain rates of British postage therein-mentioned should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and any place in the German Postal Union, and between any foreign country through any part of the German Postal Union and any place in the United Kingdom, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat.

And whereas, by a certain other Warrant in writing, duly made, and bearing date at Whitehall Treasury Chambers, the 27th day of June, 1859, after reciting the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, and that a postal Convention had been then recently made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and that it was expedient that further regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of certain letters in manner therein-mentioned, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury did direct that certain other rates of British postage therein-mentioned, should be charged and taken upon the transmission of letters between the United Kingdom and certain foreign countries therein also mentioned, the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat.

And whereas, a further Postal Convention has been lately made and entered into between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Majesty the King of Prussia, and it has become expedient by reason thereof, to extend the provisions contained in the said recited Warrant of the 27th day of June, 1859, to letters transmitted by the post between the United Kingdom and Mecklenburgh Schwerin now chargeable with rates of postage under the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852, in the manner herein-after-mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said two hereinbefore recited Acts or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided) order and direct as follows :—

1. On every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any place in Mecklenburgh Schwerin and on every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in Mecklenburgh Schwerin, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat), there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by Law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of two-pence-halfpenny, if such respective letters be prepaid, and if such respective letters be not prepaid an uniform rate of British postage of three-pence-half-penny.

2. And on every letter transmitted as is hereinbefore-mentioned, exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and taken progressive and additional rates of postage, according to the scale of weight and number of rates following, that is to say:—

On every letter so transmitted exceeding one half of an ounce in weight and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter so transmitted exceeding one ounce and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every letter so transmitted exceeding two ounces and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every letter so transmitted, exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken upon every letter so transmitted, two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as an additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this warrant if not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight.

3. If any letter shall be posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Mecklenburg Schwerin, or if any letter shall be posted in Mecklenburgh Schwerin, addressed to the United Kingdom, and the postage paid thereon, shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such letter would be liable under or by virtue of this Warrant, every such letter shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the sum paid for postage thereon, and the rate of postage payable thereon under or by virtue of this Warrant as an unpaid letter, after deducting the amount of postage so paid thereon as aforesaid.

4. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and Mecklenburgh Schwerin viâ France, nor to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and Mecklenburgh Schwerin viâ Belgium sent otherwise than in Prussian closed mails, nor to any letters posted in or addressed to any part of Mecklenburgh Schwerin, and transmitted by the post between any part of Mecklenburgh Schwerin and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country through any part of Mecklenburgh Schwerin and the United Kingdom, nor to any letters transmitted between any foreign country through any part of Mecklenburg Schwerin and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom, and conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat, all which said respective letters shall be charged and chargeable with the same rates of postage as are now chargeable and payable thereon, and as if this present Warrant had not been made.

5. The terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Warrant of the 19th day of July, 1852.

6. This Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of May, 1862.

7. The Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, duly made at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

Lieutenant Thomas Cadell. — For having, on the 12th of June, 1857, at the Flag-staff Picquet at Delhi, when the whole of the Picquet of Her Majesty's 75th Regiment and 2nd European Bengal Fusiliers were driven in by a large body of the enemy, brought in from amongst the enemy a wounded Bugler of his own regiment, under a most severe fire, who would otherwise have been cut up by the rebels. Whitehall, May 8, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lieutenant-Governor, Council, Deemsters, and Keys of the Isle of Man, in Tynwald assembled, with the deepest sentiments of duty and affection towards your Throne and Person, humbly beg leave to express our sincere and heartfelt condolence in the sad and irreparable bereavement with which it has pleased the Almighty Disposer of all human events to visit your Majesty and your Royal Children, by the Death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

We feel assured that in no part of your Majesty's dominions has the loss of that great and good Prince been more deeply lamented than by the small, but ancient and ever-loyal nation which we have now the honour to represent ; but, while we mourn the sad event, it is no small source of consolation to feel that the wise and judicious counsels of so good, noble, and virtuous a Father will, for generations to come, shine forth in the wisdom and illustrious deeds of his Royal Descendants.

We earnestly pray that your Majesty and your Royal Family may continue to be sustained and comforted under this severe bereavement, and that He who in His wisdom has afflicted, may, with Divine strength and support, enable your Majesty long to govern these kingdoms with that justice and mercy with which your reign has ever been distinguished.

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 20,
 1862.

Whitehall, May 20, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty:

May it please your Majesty,

We your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the United Presbyterian Church assembled in Synod, approach your Majesty with profound respect, to tender our heartfelt condolence in the severe bereavement which has deprived your Majesty of your beloved and valued Consort, and the nation of its illustrious and honoured Prince.

As the ministers and guardians of religion and morality, it has for many years been our joy to witness the example of purity and of domestic virtue and happiness which adorned the royal house, and which shone so conspicuously, and with so wide and beneficent an influence in the Husband of our beloved Queen.

Loyalty had become an easy virtue when those to whom it was due were seen doubly ennobled by the most exalted rank, and by Christian excellence. And as the spectacle of these qualities in the Prince Consort had long drawn forth the universal respect and gratitude of the people, so the sudden intelligence of his demise turned the whole nation into mourners, and by no portion of your Majesty's subjects was the sorrow more sincerely shared than by the Ministers and Elders of this Synod, and by the members of the large fellowship of churches whom they represent.

In proportion to the reverence and love with which we regard your Majesty, is the respectful sympathy with which we now address you in the season of your deep sorrow. But our sympathy is mingled with devout thanksgiving to God, from learning that as the life of your illustrious Consort was adorned by the virtues, so his dying moments were sustained by the comforts of that divine religion which we deem our highest honour to teach. And our thankfulness has been increased by the belief that the comforts and supports of that religion have followed your Majesty into the privacy of your great grief, and that, when deprived of the most valued and trusted human counsellor, the grace of God has made your strength equal to your duties as a Queen and a Mother, and that from the Royal dwelling, which had so often been looked to as a model of domestic virtue, there now shines forth the example of meek endurance in affliction.

That your Majesty may continue to enjoy the consolations of the Divine Comforter, that you may see the virtues of your departed and lamented Consort reflected and perpetuated in the Prince of Wales, and the other members of the royal family; that your reign over a loyal, united, and free people, may be long and prosperous, and that your earthly crown may be exchanged at last for that Heavenly crown which fadeth not away, is the fervent desire of your Majesty's devoted subjects.

In the name and by the authority of the Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, assembled in their Hall on the 8th day of May, 1862.

David Smith, D.D., Moderator.

William Beckett, Synod Clerk.

ARTICLE II.

It is agreed that the stipulations of the preceding Article shall apply as well to Companies and Associations constituted and authorized previously to the signature of the present Convention, as to those which may subsequently be so constituted and authorized.

therein, for the purpose of keeping and preserving the same free and open, and for ensuring the free and safe passage to and from the same respectively, made and established pursuant to an Act of Parliament made and passed in the fifty-fourth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the 3rd, chapter 159, intituled "An Act for the better regulation of the several ports, harbours, roadsteads, sounds, channels, bays, and navigable rivers in the United Kingdom, and of His Majesty's docks, dock-yards, arsenals, wharfs, moorings, and stores therein, and for repealing several Acts passed for that purpose."

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 27,
 1862.

Whitehall, May 26, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty :

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Archdeacon and Clergy of the Archdeaconry of Winchester, availing ourselves of this very earliest opportunity of our meeting together at the time of Visitation, approach your Majesty with the most profound sentiments of devotion to your person and of loyalty to your Throne.

In common with every class of your Majesty's subjects, with whom in other capacities many of us have joined in expressing their humble condolence, we have not ceased to deplore that act of Almighty Providence which has taken away from your Majesty the "desire of your eyes" and from your subjects the most rare example of private excellence and of public virtue.

The name of your late Illustrious Royal Consort has long been associated with all that tended to promote the material interests of our country and its advancement in the arts of civilization, and of social progress.

But as Clergymen, conceiving ourselves, however unworthy, to be the appointed guardians of truth and righteousness in the land, and specially as having been enabled, by your Majesty's dwelling in the midst of us, to take a nearer view of his most noble character, we have loved to think of your late Royal Consort as having given a weight and influence to the claims of domestic purity and virtue affecting every rank and condition among us, which has rarely, if ever been exceeded in the annals of our country.

We thankfully acknowledge that we owe a debt of unparalleled magnitude to one, who by his lifelong example strenghthened the foundations of public morality.

We are greatly moved by the sight of your Majesty our Queen, a mother mourning and widowed. We can in a degree measure your Majesty's grief by our appreciation of the character of him who has been taken away from us.

It has been our privilege as it is ever our duty to bear your Majesty upon our hearts to God in prayers, and in the resignation and fortitude which your Majesty evinces under this most heavy calamity, we surely recognize that "affiance in God" which we have implored in your Majesty's behalf, and which alone, through our Lord Jesus Christ, can stay the soul in trial and adversity.

It will be our constant prayer that the Father of the fatherless and the God of the widow may ever be with your Majesty and your Royal House.

Signed on behalf of the Clergy of the Archdeaconry of Winchester, this 17th day of May, 1862.

Philip Jacob, Archdeacon of Winchester.

THE following General Order issued by the Government of India, regarding the payment of prize money in England, concurrently with payment in India, is published for general information :—

[No. 550.]

GENERAL ORDER by His Excellency the Governor-General of India in Council, in the Military Department.—(No. 342, dated Fort William, the 21st March, 1862.)

THE Right Honourable the Governor-General in Council is pleased with the view of payments of Prize Money being made in England, concurrently with payments in India, to lay down the following rules :—

I. That no Officer or Soldier shall receive his share in England, so long as the Head Quarters of his Regiment shall be in India, unless he produce a certificate, in the case of an Officer, showing that his share has not been paid in India, or unless his name, in the case of a Non-Commissioned Officer or Soldier, be found on a Roll of unpaid shares forwarded from India.

II. That on the embarkation of the Head-Quarters of any Regiment or Battery from India, payments in India shall cease. Nominal Rolls shall be forwarded to England, and thenceforward no payment shall be made in India, to Officers or Soldiers of that Regiment or Battery, but upon the production of certificates that their shares have not been, and will not be paid in England.

III. With regard, however, to Corps already proceeded to England, which, before embarkation drew Prize Money for all except Volunteers to other Regiments in India, the foregoing clause shall be in abeyance for two months from this date ; claims on behalf of the Volunteers are to be submitted within that period by the Officers of the Corps which the Volunteers have joined.

IV. As regards Corps proceeded to England, with or without having drawn Prize Money, and in which Corps, Officers have assigned their shares to individuals residing in India, the shares in question will cease to be payable in India on the expiration of two months from this date, at the end of which period, if not claimed in this country by that time, they will be included in a list of unpaid shares for transmission to England. The same rule will apply to Officers of Regiments in India who have left the country, but have assigned their shares to individuals residing in India.

V. In all cases of deceased Officers and Soldiers, who have left no representatives in India, as also of Soldiers who returned to England prior to the commencement of distribution, and of Officers who similarly returned without having assigned their shares in India, the fact of their decease, or of their having so returned, is to be notified in a complete copy of the Prize Rolls to be forwarded by the General Prize Committee to the Commissioners of Chelsea Hospital.

VI. In the case of Regiments which returned to England prior to the commencement of distribution, similar complete Rolls will be sent to India. These Rolls will specify in every case, whether the shares are to be paid in India or by the Commissioners of Chelsea Hospital in England.

2. To enable the General Prize Committee to send to the Home Authorities the lists of all unpaid shares, including those of men, of both line and local Forces, who may leave India while the distribution is being made, without having received their shares of Prize—Officers Commanding Regiments and Batteries are requested to send to the said Committee within a fortnight of the receipt of this order—Prize lists of Non-Commissioned Officers and men invalided and discharged and sent to England, and of deceased men who have left no heirs in India, and whose estates have been sent to England.

FROM THE
LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 3, 1862.

Whitehall, June 3, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence, on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty:

May it please your Majesty,

We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, met in General Assembly, desire to take this our earliest opportunity of approaching your Majesty with the expression of the deep sorrow which we share, in common with all your Majesty's subjects, on account of the afflicting event by which it pleased Almighty God to remove from this life your Majesty's illustrious Consort, and to deprive this nation of one whose presence and counsels, while they contributed to your Majesty's comfort and happiness, served to advance the honour and prosperity of the British empire.

We shall hold him in remembrance as one who gave a bright example of devoting his high gifts and endowments to the public good, who encouraged and promoted the interests and pursuits of learning and science, who was the patron of every benevolent and patriotic undertaking, and who was the exemplary pattern and faithful guide of the children of your Royal House.

But while we mourn the nation's public loss, we particularly feel the sadness of your Majesty's personal bereavement. We sympathise with the sorrow which has filled your heart, and fervently trust that your Majesty will be sustained under your heavy trial by those consolations which Divine grace supplies to the widow and the fatherless ; and that the same gracious Being who has ordered your present tribulation, will make it effectual for the increase of your faith and hope in him who is the propitiation for sins, and the resurrection and the life to them that believe.

That Almighty God the Father of all mercies may long preserve your Majesty and the children with whom God has blessed you, that He may strengthen and support you in all your arduous duties, and may finally receive you to His Heavenly Kingdom, is the sincere and earnest prayer of,

May it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland met in this General Assembly.

And the following on the same subject : from
The Ministers and Elders of the Free Church.

Whitehall, June 3, 1862.

THE following Address of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland having been transmitted by Robert Montgomery Lord

Belhaven, K.T., Her Majesty's Commissioner, to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., G.C.B., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has been by him presented to the Queen, which Address Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously :

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, met in this General Assembly, have received with the utmost gratitude and respect the gracious letter renewing to us the assurance of your Majesty's sincere regard for the Church of Scotland, of the interest which your Majesty feels in its welfare, and of your Majesty's determination to uphold it in the enjoyment of all its rights and privileges.

It affords us the highest satisfaction to learn that the many proofs of our loyalty and attachment do persuade your Majesty that we, in common with all our fellow subjects, most sincerely sympathise with your Majesty under the overwhelming affliction with which the Almighty has seen fit to visit your Majesty's Royal House, and the people of this realm.

We are deeply affected by your Majesty's sorrow, and, bowed down by a sense of the irreparable loss which your Majesty and the nation have sustained, we beg to assure your Majesty that we cease not to pray the Lord, the Great Disposer of events, to support your Majesty by His might, and to supply your Majesty with those consolations which He only can impart.

We earnestly unite in the prayer of your Majesty that our deliberations may be guided by wisdom from above, and that by the blessing of God they may tend to the advancement of true and undefiled religion throughout the land, and to the best interests of all the people.

The re-appointment of Lord Belhaven, Knight of the Most Ancient and Most Noble Order of the Thistle, as your Majesty's representative to this General Assembly, gives us the highest satisfaction ; and it will be our grateful duty to render to him that respect and co-operation which his past attentions and courtesies, as well as his many services to the Church of Scotland, so justly merit.

We receive with gratitude your Majesty's Royal Warrant for £2000 for the Reformation of the Highlands and Islands ; and we will give all diligence in applying it to the purposes for which it has been bestowed, so that it may be the means of extending and maintaining the knowledge of the Gospel of Jesus Christ throughout that interesting part of your Majesty's dominions.

That the God of might and of consolation, who maketh everything work for the good of his people, may sustain and comfort your Majesty ; that He may multiply to your Majesty and to your Royal House the earnestness of His love and favour, so " that your strength may be as your day ; " that He may bless your Majesty with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ Jesus ; and after experiencing the faithfulness of His promises here, that your Majesty may realize the joys of His presence for evermore, is the earnest prayer of,

May it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, most loyal, and most obedient subjects, the Ministers and Elders met in the National Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the present year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to enable Her Majesty to issue Commissions to the Officers of Her Majesty's Land Forces and Royal Marines, and to Adjutants and Quartermasters of the Militia and Volunteer Forces without affixing Her Royal Sign Manual thereto," after setting forth therein that every Officer appointed or promoted by Her Majesty in Her Land Forces or Marines, and every Adjutant or Quartermaster in Her Militia or Volunteer Forces, receives a Commission from Her Majesty with Her Royal Sign Manual thereon, and that it was expedient to regulate from time to time the mode of authenticating the said Commissions granted by Her Majesty, it was enacted, that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, from time to time, as occasion might require, to direct that all or any Commissions for Officers prepared or to be prepared under the authority of Her Majesty's Royal Sign Manual might be afterwards issued without Her Royal Sign Manual, but having thereon, in the case of Her Majesty's Land Forces, except as thereafter mentioned, the signatures of the Commander-in-Chief or the General Commanding-in-Chief, and of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and in the case of the Royal Marines, of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and in the case of Military Chaplains, Commissariat and Store Officers, and of Adjutants and Quartermasters in the Militia and Volunteer Forces, of one of Her Majesty's said Principal Secretaries; and that every such Commission issued and signed in pursuance of such Order in Council should be conclusive evidence that the Officer named in any such Commission had been appointed or promoted by Her Majesty to the rank or office named therein.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the above recited Act, and in execution of the power thereby in Her Majesty in Council vested, Her Majesty is pleased, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and doth hereby order :

1. That each Commission to be hereafter issued to any Officer entering Her Majesty's Army, from Her Majesty's Indian Forces, under the regulations heretofore sanctioned by Her Majesty, shall be signed by Her Majesty's General Commanding-in-Chief, and one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and such Commission shall give rank in Her Majesty's Army, from the date on which the Officer held similar rank in the Indian Forces.

2. Her Majesty having been pleased to declare that the Commission given to every one upon first appointment to Her Majesty's Land Forces or Marines will be signed by Her Majesty, it is further ordered :

That all other Commissions required for Officers in Her Majesty's Service, on promotion or exchange, whether such promotion or exchange has been made or sanctioned by Her Majesty under Royal Sign Manual, before or after the passing of this Act, and all Commissions given for Adjutants and Quartermasters in the Militia and Volunteer Forces, shall be signed, in the case of Her Majesty's Land Forces (except as in this Clause after mentioned), by the Commander-in-Chief or the General Commanding-in-Chief, and by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State ; and, in the case of the Royal Marines, by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Admiralty ; and, in the case of Military Chaplains, Commissariat and Store Officers, and of Adjutants and Quartermasters in the Militia and Volunteer Forces, by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

3. That every Commission signed in pursuance of this Order (except the Commissions referred to in Clause 1, and except all Commissions which shall have been actually prepared under Sign Manual direction, bearing prior date to the making of this Order), shall refer to this Order, and bear even date with the direction under Her Majesty's Royal Sign Manual, appointing or promoting such Officer.

4. That neither this Order, nor anything contained therein, shall be construed to prevent Her Majesty from signing any Commission, or to prevent any Commission so signed from having the same validity and effect as if this Order had not been made.

And the Right Honourable Sir George Cornewall Lewis, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Edmund Harrison.
